OSTFREESLAND

There's no place like Ostfreesland,
That's the place where I belong.
Where could you find the girls so pretty?
Where could you find the boys so strong?
There's no place like Ostfreesland,
That's the place where I belong.
There's no place like Ostfreesland.

No where are the flowers so pretty
No where is the soil so rich.
No where are the cattle fatter
No where are the furrows straighter.
Where could you find nice folks like these?
Where could you find things that taste better?
Than their butter milk and cheese.

There's no place that is better.
Where the dikes are built as strong.
Where upon the island shore line
Waves go dashing all day long.
You can hear the waves a-rolling
As the North Sea rolls on by
You can watch the three-mast schooners
As they go sailing by.

Where wagon loads of children
Ride along the Hochmoore shore.
Where the people love their skating.
Where they all enjoy their beer.
Where they hold their contest shooting
Where the buckwheat cakes are eaten
And where Harm goes courts his girl.

For Ostfreesland, for Ostfreesland
I would gladly give my all.
Were I only back in Friesland
On my sweetheart I would call.
And I'd eat my mother's cooking
For this I'd give my all.

Much of the history in this book has been found in family Bibles. As the number of descendants have increased and have been separated farther and farther apart, geographic location is no longer a common bond. It is our hope that this family record will help to keep the family ties a little more familiar and that we can still find our unity in the family Bible.

Focke and Ehe Aden were born in Holtrop, Germany. Focke and Ehe with the two youngest children (Focke Eschen and Cathrina) came to America in 1846, leaving the three older children in Germany. They came up the Mississippi River and settled in St. Louis, Mo. They lived there until 1848 when they moved to a farm at Springfield, Ill. In 1851, while Focke was on a business trip to the city, he became ill with cholera and died. Due to the contagion of the disease, he had to be buried at the place of death and not returned to his loved ones.

Sometime after the death of Focke, Ehe and her two children, Focke Eschen and Cathrina, went for a boat ride on the Mississippi River. Focke Eschen enjoyed knitting and was so engrossed in his knitting while on the boat that he lost his balance, fell overboard and drowned.

Hanna Ehmen Arnold visited in Holtrop in 1933.

Dear Mrs. Finke:

We are in receipt of your letter of April 29, 1969. We would be delighted to receive a copy of the family record of Menne and Cornelia Aden. We are a branch library of the Salt Lake City Genealogical Library. We have people from all the San Francisco Bay Area and other areas using our library.

We have received many family histories and biographies from many people who have donated them to our library. We have placed them on our book shelf for the public to use. We have found on several occasions that people have come in and have found their people and thus could go back many generations.

We know that this represents a lot of work for your cousin and you in compiling this history. And we do appreciate your thoughtfulness in our behalf. We hope your family appreciates all the time and effort that you have expended upon this project. Thank you again.

Sincerely,
Pearl A. Sparks
Librarian
