Bullen - Also spelled Boleyn, Boulaine, Bollen, Bulling.

Ref. "Hackett's" Henry VIII Book III, page 153.

"Thomas Howard's sisters were many — one married Thomas Boleyn, another Bryan, another Wyatt and another Ap Rice. So that their children were all first cousins.

"The Boleyn family was noble, without being exactly ivy-clad or moss grown in the nobility. It was held against Thomas Boleyn that his grandfather had earned his living in wool and silk.

"This gentleman who then spelled himself Bullen, had made his fortune as a mercer becoming Lord Mayor of London.

"The Lord Mayor annexed a daughter of Lord Hoo and Hastings and their son, a wealthy man, married an Irish girl—Margaret Butler, daughter of the Earl of Ormond. By these two lustrations of the mercer's blood, Thomas Boleyn — Anne's father — could almost have been reckoned an aristocrat.

"When Sir Thomas Boleyn came along with four family places in full view — Blickling, in Norfolk — Hever in Kent, a place in London and a Hoo Mansion in Middlesex — his gilt-edged stock was a fair exchange for a marked down Howard."

Blickling Hall was purchased by Sir Geoffrey Boleyn. It is claimed that Anne was born there. Early in the 17th century Sir Henry Hobart purchased it.

The Duke of Norfolk had many children — his daughter Elizabeth married Sir Thomas Boleyn.

A drawing by Holbein of Sir Thomas Boleyn after he became Earl of Wiltshire and Ormond, shows us a man still fresh and up-standing, dressed and barbered so beautifully, as to proclaim the Ambassador — Earl.

It is a cold face. The eyes a little weary, have a direct but stony expression. They look toward a master. Under a moustache that has been much stroked and silkened the mouth is that of a weakish and even a meanish man. A massive nose shows that this creature, proposes to survive but his low brow suggests that the survival will be prudent rather than brilliant. And yet, it is not a bad face. The man is not sympathetic but he is dapper and stylish; he is limited but he is reasonable.

His wife — Elizabeth Howard — is a mystery. She cannot be depicted with any certainty, at least on the basis of the facts known. She could not have been much older than the King. She was to die the same year as her husband, 1539, soon after Anne and George, her daughter and son, were executed. This event did not unseal her lips, so far as we know. She is mute and in some way tragic. She is even more tragic because of the rumor that she looked kindly on Henry when he was Prince of Wales.

Thomas Boleyn was one of Henry's first appointees. He was a Squire of the body, from the beginning.

The three children, in whose veins mingled the blood of Boleyn and Howard, were born at dates not yet certain or verifiable. One may assume 1503 for Mary, 1505 for George and 1507 for Anne. True to the hard custom of the sixteenth century, Thomas and Elizabeth did not rear their children at home. Had Thomas Boleyn been a mere Squire, he would have placed Mary and Anne in the home of another Squire or perhaps in that of a nobleman to "learn them manners and accomplishments." But being a nobleman he aimed higher. It chanced that in 1512 he was sent on a mission to the kindly Margaret of Austria whose palace at Brussels was rich in decoration and treasure and he was permitted to dispatch Mary, as a little maid to Margaret, to be tucked under her wing. She was only nine years old!

A much finer opening came within two years. He wanted his elder daughter to be one of the group of girls who were to accompany Mary Tudor to the dazzling French Court. After Louis expired, the new queen, Little Claude was only seventeen and she accepted 'la petite Boullain.

Himself Ambassador to Francis, after the new friendliness of 1517, he asked Anne, as well — when she was coming on eleven or so.

Anne had a goitre and the indication of a tiny sixth finger, under her fifth one on her left hand. She was very conscious of both defects and hid it as best she could. Both she and her brother, George, were quick-eyed and quick tongued brunettes. They were very close to one another. Mary, their older sister, was of different temperment, weak and retiring. She married George Carey who was related to Henry VIII thru the Beauforts.

Samuel Bullen, whom we find in Dedham, Massachusetts, in 1634, and his descendents claim to be of the same lineage as Anne.

Just when the Bullen's came to America and how, I have as yet, been unable to ascertain. No doubt many of them left England after Queen Elizabeth's death. The earliest arrivals I have discovered, are namely:

Sylvester Bullen, age 28 years — in Virginia in 1625 — Servant to Richard Tree on James City Island.

Samuel and John Bullen took land grants about 1636 in Dedham, Massachusetts. John was killed by the over-throwing of a cart in 1678. Samuel married Mary Morse, daughter of Samuel and Elizabeth Morse who were also of Dedham and Medfield.

Joseph Bullen and his wife Sarah were living in Medfield before 1664. They had six children born to them in Medfield namely Abiell and Martha (twin daughters), John, Joseph, Nathaniel and Samuel.

Benjamin Bullen and his wife Martha are also in Medfield where a daughter Hannah was born to them in 1672.

Captain James Bollen is Secretary to Governor Carteret of New Jersey in 1679. His daughter, Anna, married Jonathan Stout in 1685.

Joseph Bullen and his wife Mary are in Maine about 1648. He mentions the following children in his will — Thomas, Samuel, Joseph, a daughter who married Frost, another who married Becke, another who married Locke, another a Chadbourne and a daughter, Mary B.

Isaac Bullen married Martha Marshall in Rehoboth in 1697.

This book deals with the descendents of Samuel and Mary Morse Bullen of Dedham and Medfield, Massachusetts. One branch of this family — living in East Windsor and Enfield, Connecticut about 1725 continued the English spelling — Boleyn — and the grave stones are thus marked in the family burying ground. "Stiles" in his "Early Settlers of Windsor Connecticut" mentions that the family claim to be one of the same lineage as Anne Boleyn.

Samuel Bullen, of Medfield and Dedham, Massachusetts, was the ancestor of a numerous race in New England. As a proprietor of Medfield, he drew lands in Medbury, which by a division of the town, fell in 1713 into Medway. He was a tenant of Captain Hull's farm and had land assigned him here, west of the Common and perhaps built opposite the Brush Hill road, before he returned to Medfield.

He was at Watertown, Massachusetts, about 1636 and when the General Court sitting at Newtone, granted a tract of land south of Charles River to twelve men — he and Samuel Morse were of this Company. He married Mary — daughter of Samuel Morse on June 10th 1641. He took the freeman's oath — meaning he accepted the doctrine of the Church — in 1641. He owned a house in Medfield in 1646. His tombstone, erected by his descendents about a century after his death, declares that he was the "first European with a family in this town." It is certain that his house was built prior to 1651. It stood a few rods north of Philip Street — states Tilden in his "History of Medfield." His buildings were burned by the Indians and he removed for a while to Sherborn and became a tenant of his brother-in-law, Daniel Morse. A few years later, he returned to Medfield and re-built.

He was one of the Selectmen in Medfield in 1682 and was chosen deacon prior to 1689. His house was standing as late as 1798. Besides other out-lands, he had a "divident" on the east side of Mount Nebo and in the region known as "Goudy."

He died at Medfield on January 16th 1691 and Mary, his wife died the following year on February 14th. They had ten children. Two sons—Samuel and Joseph—died without issue therefore there are just three branches in the male line. That of John and Judith Fisher Bullen; Ephraim and Grace Fairbank Bullen and Elisha and Hannah Metcalf Bullen.

A — Mary, born May 20th 1642, married Ephraim Clark on March 6th 1668. They had a son Ezra who married Margaret Morse, daughter of Daniel and Lydia Fisher Morse. Also a daughter, Mehitable, who married Benjamin Allen.

B — Samuel, born October 19th 1644, married Experience Sabin on August 20th 1672. She was born on August 6th 1648. He died on August 13th 1736 and Experience died June 14th 1728. He remained at Medfield while his father lived at Sherborn. He came into possession of the old homestead at his father's death. They left no issue and the estate was given to a nephew, Stephen Sabin of Pomfret, Connecticut who came to Medfield about the year 1715.

C — Elizabeth, born December 3rd 1646, married Benjamin Wheelock on May 21st 1668.

D — John, born probably about 1648, married Judith Fisher on January 3rd 1684. She was born in June 1663.

He was a house-wright by trade. His home stood in the north part of town. He had a grant of land in 1677 and probably built his house soon after. He served as Selectman in 1689 and 1699. A leaf in one "John Marshall's diary" states "1702—November 28th—death of Ensign John Bullen of Medfield — while felling a tree." Judith, his wife, died January 9th 1753. They had seven children.

E — Joseph, born September 6th 1651, married Abigail Sabin on March 15th 1674. She was born on August 9th 1653. He was a weaver and settled in the north part of town, on what was known as Railroad Street. At the death of his wife on May 1st 1721, the place was given to David Morse, since they left no issue. Joseph died on December 28th 1703.

F — Ephraim, born July 18th 1653, son of Samuel and Mary Morse Bullen married Grace Fairbank, daughter of Jonas and Lydia Prescott Fairbank, born on November 15th 1663 probably at Lancaster, Massachusetts. Her mother was born on August 15th 1641 at Watertown, Massachusetts, and married on May 28th 1658 in Lancaster, Massachusetts (this is the first marriage to be recorded there). Her father — Jonas Fairbank was the son of Jonathan and Grace Smith Fairbank. He was born in England and came to New England with his parents in 1633 and settled in Dedham Massachusetts. Both the Prescott and Fairbank families originated in Yorkshire, England. Her father and brother were killed by Indians in Lancaster on February 10th 1676 on destruction of the town and her mother married (2) Elias Barron of Watertown, Groton and Lancaster.

Grace died August 11th 1689 in child-birth. She was in her 26th year. Ephraim died a few years later — about 1694. His estate was settled September 13th 1697. They resided at Sherborn, Massachusetts, where a grave stone was found near the dwelling house of Mr. Isaac Cozens and preserved in a faced stone wall enclosed in his door-yard. It is said it was intended to be erected in the central yard in memory of the person whose name it bears but it was not procured until her friends had forgotten where they laid her. It bore this inscription:

Here lyes Ye Body of Grace
Bullen — Who Died August 11th
1689 in Ye 26th
Year of Her Age

Only three of their children grew to maturity.

G — Meletiah, born September 15th 1655, married Josiah Fisher — son of Joana Faxon and Anthony Fisher — on January 27th 1679. He was born on May 1st 1654. After Meletiah's death in 1693, he married Joana Morse on September 1st 1693.

H — Elisha, born December 26th 1657, married Hannah Metcalf and resided in Sherborn until 1686 when he removed to Medfield and settled on the place later owned by B. H. Bishop. Hannah died December 20th 1719. Elisha lived until February 19th 1735. At his death he gave his estate to his two sons on condition of their paying to the heirs, the sum of 530 pounds.

FC — JOHN

John, son of Ephraim and Grace Bullen, born on February 22nd 1686, married Sarah Underwood at Sherborn, Massachusetts on August 31st 1709. She was the daughter of Joseph and Mary How Underwood. When her father's brother Thomas, died without issue; he left his estate to be divided among Joseph Underwood's children. After John and Sarah resided at Sherborn, Massachusetts for a few years, they removed to the vicinity of East Windsor, Connecticut. In or about 1726, they are located at Brimfield, Massachusetts, where both died and are buried.

Mr. Absalom Gardiner, in his "Centennial Anniversary Address" on October 5th 1862, stated, "There is satisfactory evidence, gleamed from recorded facts, that the elder John Bullen, with his family, was located here in 1727 — if not a year sooner, upon the premises now (1862) owned by the widow of Mr Samuel Moulton. It is not ascertained that any white person settled here earlier than he. We have no data whereby to decide whence he came to this place. After settling, he remained and died here. His abode was in the south-east section of the town. His landed estate lay along the north-west side of and bordered upon and included a part of that large tract of meadow there situated to which the early settlers here gave the distinguishing appellation of the "South Meadows" which is now usually called the "Coburn Meadows." His estate comprised the farm which has for several years past been owned and improved by Samuel Moulton.

"That there were other settlers then in the town, may be guessed but not proved. The Bullens were here contemporaneously with the first settlers and during the sixty years of the town's history were prominent among the people here residing."

Deacon Nathaniel Munger came with John Bullen about 1727. He married John Bullen's eldest daughter, Elizabeth, on July 1st 1736. Soon after their arrival they became dissatisfied with the church and broke away from it, forming a sect of their own which was known as the Anabaptists. On November 22nd 1734 the following were adherents of this religious sect — Nathaniel Munger, Dorothy Munger, Elnathan Munger, Robert Moulton, Ebenzer Moulton, Anthony Needham, Humphrey Needham, John Bullen, Sr., John Bullen, Jr., Thomas Green, and Thomas Green, Jr.

The first death recorded as occurring in the town was that of Mary Bullen, daughter of John Bullen, Sr. in 1735, but it is hardly presumable that this was actually the first occurrence of the kind.

John, Sr. and John, Jr. and their wives all died here but all their posterity of the paternal name removed from Brimfield and vicinity by the year 1785. John died January 28th 1757. They had seven children:

He first settled on what was known as the "Pratt Place" in the south-west quarter of the town of Wales, Massachusetts. After living there a few years, he removed from the town and no one seemed to remember where he had gone.

FCCE — JOHN

John, son of John and Abigail Green Bullen, born August 8th 1747, married (1) Mary Whitcomb on July 18th 1772, daughter of James and Sarah Lincoln nee Winslow-Whitcomb and (2) Mary Winslow. Chase, in his "History of Ware, Massachusetts" states, "In 1771 John Bullen bought 100 acres of the William Read division of property. At a much later date the Town Records refer to this as the "Bulling Farm" belonging to Deacon Daniel Gould." He sold this property in two parcels of 50 acres each in February 1789 at which time he was residing at Clinton, New York.

In 1777 John was a Sergeant on the pay roll of Captain Breakenridge's Company of Militia in Colonel Porter's regiment, County of Hampshire.

In 1780 he is credited as serving from July 13th for five months and three days. In the same year he is mentioned among other names as a nine month's man.

In 1782 he is the owner of a tavern at "Bullon's Corners" on the Turnpike at Ware, Hampshire Co., Massachusetts.

He was sent as head of a committee from Ware to a Convention at Hatfield on August 22nd 1786.

A description of him—taken from "Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors" states, "John Bullen — Ware — Descriptive list of men raised to re-inforce Continental Army for the term of six months — agreeable to resolve of June 5th 1780 — age 32 years, stature 5 feet 8 inches — complexion — ruddy — residence Ware. Arrived at Springfield Massachusetts on July 13th 1780. Marched to Camp July 13th 1780 under command of Captain Thomas Pritchard."

He became involved in Shay's Rebellion — serving as a Captain in the affair and was always called Captain Bullen thereafter. After the suppression of the rebellion — he fled with his family to Clinton, Onedia County, New York. When they reached a spot in the wilderness now called Kirkland, New York — they were forced to stop and build a brush hut. Here during the night their daughter Pamela was born. The nearest settlement at the time was Whitesboro.

The first settlement at Clinton began about March 1787. Church records show that Captain John Bullen and Mary, his wife who were former members of the First Church of Christ at Brimfield, Massachusetts — are among the earliest members.

That David Bullen and his wife Elizabeth, from South Brimfield, later known as Wales, Massachusetts, were also in this early church membership.

At Clinton, New York, he was considered a stern, just man and neighbors with differences, frequently came to him to adjust them. He would give them each a hoe and as they all worked — they discussed their differences. When he gave a decision, they listened and accepted it.

He reared a large family and died at Paris Hills near Clinton, New York on June 17th 1824. A few years ago his remains were placed in the old cemetery, just back of the City Hall at Clinton, New York. Here a marker was erected by Andrew Blanchard — Sons of American Revolution 1775 — Onedia Chapter D.A.R. 1903. It reads:

Captain John Bullen died June 17th 1824

in his 77th year

Honest, industrious, temperate

The poor he sent not empty away

He died intestate, and his personal property just about paid his debts and the cost of administration, leaving the home farm to be sold and the proceeds divided among the heirs.

There were eleven shares, one for each living child and one for the heirs of each deceased child. Records for the deeds of the land settlement disclose the following signatures:

After John's death, his widow removed to Hannibal, New York to live with her son John and his family. She resided there until her death and is buried there. All trace of her grave is lost but church records show that John owned lot No. 67 in the Hannibal Cemetery in 1828.

FCCED — JOHN

John, son of John and Mary W. Bullen, born May 20th 1783 at Ware, Massachusetts, married (1) Lucina Drake on January 28th 1802. She died on July 5th 1811 at the age of 29 years. He married (2) Mary (Polly) Brockway on February 5th 1813, daughter of Reverend Thomas and Eunice Lathrop Brockway. She was born on June 19th 1784 at Lebanon now Columbia, Connecticut. She died in child-birth — the infant dying also — on December 6th 1820. Three of her children grew to maturity. On February 21st 1822 he married for the third time (3) Susan Brockway, sister to Polly and the twelfth of the thirteen children of Reverend Thomas Brockway. She was known as Sukey — born June 20th 1794. He died of cholera on August 15th 1850 at Kenosha, Wisconsin, and Susan died on October 7th 1864 at Kansas City, Missouri, at the home of her youngest child, Mrs. William Warner, wife of Major Warner who later became United States Senator from Missouri.

About the year 1821 — John removed from Clinton, New York, to Hannibal, Oswego Co., New York. He engaged in merchandising, farming, milling and the manufacture of potash and lumber, shipping the latter from Oswego via the Erie Canal to Albany. He also owned Canal boats. He accumulated considerable property but later met with heavy losses. He also owned property in Wilmington, North Carolina and in Augusta, Georgia. He continued in active business until his death.

Hannibal was first known as Hannibalville. In 1822 while Postmaster, which was until 1827, he had the name of the town changed to Hannibal, the name it still bears. He was supervisor of the town from 1823 to 1823. In 1834 he sold out his interests in Hannibal and removed to Albany, New York, where he engaged in the lumber trade. He also owned a brig which plied between Albany, Boston and the West Indies. The brig was not a profitable venture. In the spring of 1837 he removed to Wisconsin, settling at Southport. It was his inspiration which started the "Western Immigration Association." In December 1834, he invited quite a number of the prominent citizens of Hannibal to dine with him at his home in order to interest them in the project. It was to be conducted on a profit-sharing basis with all gains and losses to be absorbed by members of the Company. In order to spread out the financial burden and at the same time to give all possible pecuniary strength to the venture, it was agreed to hold a public meeting at which time the co-operation of all interested citizens of Hannibal would be invited.

The meeting was held at the Masonic Hall which was on the second floor of the Presbyterian Meeting House. A Constitution was drafted by Reverend Jason Lothrop and was presented and discussed by the throng assembled. The Reverend Peter Woodin, a Baptist clergyman was selected Chairman and John Bullen, Sr., was named Secretary. Sufficient funds were raised so that an exploratory group — composed of Waters Tousley, C. W. Turner and Sydney Roberts — was appointed to stake out a suitable claim in the name of the "Western Immigration Association." They left Hannibal on March 25th 1835. As soon as word reached Hannibal that a claim had been staked, the stock holders began making preparations to move. One group reached Kenosha on June 21st 1835. With and heading this group was John Bullen, Jr. The elder John made the journey in 1837 from Albany by canal-boat. On the canal-boat trip, as fellow passenger, was Brigham Young who was then on his way to Kirkland, Ohio to join Joe Smith and the Mormons who were gathering at that place. Several of the older members of the family engaged in animated discussions with him. Their journey to Buffalo occupied about one week. Then a two weeks delay in Buffalo due to an ice jam. A five day trip by boat brought them to Southport, but as it was blowing a gale and there being no harbour or piers there at the time, they were compelled to proceed to Chicago and remain there until the cargo was discharged. About three days later they landed at Southport.

Steam boats at this period and for several years later, would anchor about an eighth of a mile off shore and all passengers and freight were transferred to the shore by lighters.

John, Sr., made a claim twenty miles west of Southport, on the Fox River in the town to which he gave the name of Salem. Here they built a log cabin sixteen feet square. To this was added a small and rude lean-to which served for a kitchen. Here they lived several months until a more commodious home was built. During the summer a larger two story house was built on the bank of the Fox River. A year or two later this building was much enlarged and a sign was hung "Salem House." A considerable business was done although the price of a "Super, breakfast and lodging and two horses to hay," was from fifty to sixty cents. However, produce was also extremely low priced. Corn and oats were twelve and a half cents a bushel, beans were seventy-five cents and pork a dollar and a quarter per hundred pounds.

Almost entirely from his own means, he built across the Fox River a substantial bridge. The first one to be built on the river between Burlington and Dundee. The new country brought plenty of hardships and privations.

The Government was pricing the land at one dollar and a quarter per acre. The sale took place at Milwaukee in the fall of 1839. Each adult child was entitled to hold a "quarter section" and so when the land came into market, the Bullen family was entitled to purchase some 800 acres of choice land. Many families had not the money to pay for their claims and money was obtainable only at twenty to twenty-five per cent per annum interest. This was ruinous! Vast sums were loaned by capitalists to the settlers to double in four years; the lender taking the title to their lands and giving a bond for a deed.

In 1843 John sold some of his Salem farms and engaged in the building of the "National Hotel" in Southport, on the north side of the river. This was an unprofitable investment.

In 1839 he was commissioned Brigadier General and as such commanded the militia of that territory. His small sons delighted in his appearance on training days when, as General, he wore a red sash, carried a sword and rode a horse at the head of his men.

He was father of seventeen children. Eleven grew to maturity.

The two youngest sons, Thomas and Lathrop added a final "e" to the name — in accordance with an act of the Wisconsin Legislature — since spelling the name Bullene.

As a young man, while living at Hannibal, New York, he took a severe cold which developed into pneumonia. After his recovery his physician sent him to Labrador on a whaler to recuperate. He returned in excellent health. He then became active for the "Western Immigration Association" in scouting and searching for a harbour of their own on Lake Michigan. He made the trip by way of the Great Lakes, shipping from Buffalo and arriving at Chicago (Fort Dearborn then) in 1835. They took Indian guides and ponies and travelled north sixty miles where they sighted a good harbour on Pikes River. They named the place Southport, later named Kenosha. Remaining long enough to make the pre-occupation legal — he returned to Hannibal — arranging and transporting the interested group.

The first group reached Kenosha on June 21st 1835 arriving in two wagons; one drawn by a span of horses and the other by a yoke of oxen. In this party were Mrs. Gardiner Wilson, Jonathan Pierce, Orrin Stevens and Nelson Gatliff. During the summer and fall of that year fifteen more families arrived in the settlement. They were Waters Touslee, J. S. Wilson, David Crosset, David Doolittle, Hudson Bacon, Amos Gratton, Samuel Risque and Michael Van de Bogart. This comprised a population of thirty-two persons residing in the settlement during the winter of 1835 and 1836. In 1837 they purchased a schooner "Martin Van Buren" to ply back and forth for supplies for the colony. John, Jr. became interested in a great many enterprises. He built a plank road from Southport, twenty miles west which he did out of his own means at a cost of $40,000. His speculation in wheat buying and mills proved disastrous later and caused his failure. He was buried at Kenosha, Wisconsin.

The monument erected in 1935 is just inside the Sheridan Road Gate of the Kenosha Cemetery. It reads:

“Cutter’s — Genealogy and History of Connecticut — Norwich, Connecticut.”

The Norwich branch of the Greene family comes from the Boston branch of the Rhode Island family.

John Greene of Warwick, Rhode Island was descended from the family of Greene of Greene’s Norton, Northamptonshire, England, who flourished in that country from 1319 until the time of Henry VIII. Sir Henry Greene, Knight Lord Chief Justice of England in 1353 was the head of this family in his time. His younger son Sir Henry Greene was beheaded in 1399 for his attachment to the cause of Richard II. Queen Catharine Parr was a member of this family. Her mother being Mathilda Greene, daughter and co-heiress of Sir Thomas Greene of Greene’s Norton. By the marriage of Mathilda Greene to Sir Thomas Parr and that of Anne Greene to Baron Vaux, the Northampton estate passed into other families.

A branch of this family from which the American Greenes are descended — owned and occupied the estate of Bowridge Hill in Gillingham parish in Dorsetshire in the reign of Henry VIII and so continued until 1635 and after. Many records of births, marriages and deaths of the family appear in the parish records and various curious wills of theirs are extant: Their old stone house is still standing. The John Greene of Warwick, Rhode Island was a younger brother of the owner at the time of his emigration to the American Colony.

John Greene of Salisbury, County Wills, England, sailed from Southampton, England in the ship “James” to Boston in 1635 bringing with him his family. He was probably born at Bowridge Hill, Gillingham Dorsetshire where his father Richard II and grandfather Richard I Greene resided. His great-grandfather was Robert Greene of Bowridge Hill. He was at Salem, Massachusetts for a short period and at Providence in 1637. He was one of the twelve persons to whom Roger Williams deeded land in 1638. One of the twelve original members of the First Baptist Church. He was a surgeon in Salisbury and there made his first marriage at St. Thomas Church on November 4th 1619 to Joan Tattersall. The Greens of this town have been pretty numerous. They sprung from two sources. In 1734 on November 22nd the Bullen's John, Sr. and John, Jr. and the Green's Thomas, Sr. and Thomas, Jr. with several of the Needham, Munger and Moulton families broke away from the church in Brimfield and formed a sect known as Anabaptists.
