Burritt

"Gules, a lion rampant argent holding an escallop of the same and accompanied in the base by three triangles or; a chief endented argent charged with three escallops or."

Crest—A lion as in the arms.

Motto—Je' endure pour durer.

LEWIS L. BURRITT

No human being can come into this world without increasing or diminishing the sum total of human happiness, not only of the present, but of every subsequent age of humanity. No one can detach himself from this connection. There is no sequestered spot in the universe, no dark niche along the disc of non-existence, to which he can retreat from his relations to others, where he can withdraw the influence of his existence upon the moral destiny of the world; everywhere his presence or absence will be felt, — everywhere he will have companions who will be better or worse for his influence.

Elihu Burritt

“There be those of them that have left a name behind them, that their praises might be reported; and some there be which have left no memorial; who are perished, as though they had never been.”

Preface

In these democratic times it has become a habit of many people to deprecate any reference to, or thought of, and especially any appearance of pride in ancestry.

This to some extent is commendable since a man's true worth must be measured by his personal character and achievement. A man is no less noble because his ancestors were slaves, nor is he less a knave if he is descended from kings.

However, to a thoughtful man, it must ever be a just source of pride to know that his fathers have been honorable, self respecting, law abiding citizens. That they have willingly shouldered their share of public burdens and that they have adhered to high personal ideals.

I, as compiler of this volume, make no claim to completeness, but am glad to offer to those who are interested such material as I have gathered, however incomplete it must seem.

In the fourth and fifth generations there are, in many lines, lapses which I have been unable to bridge, many living members of the family have not been reached and others are not in possession of sufficient data to establish a connection. It is my hope that, to such of these as may wish to pursue the subject, these records will prove of value.

Records of some allied families have been appended, principally such as show inter-marriage with two or more branches of the family.

I wish to acknowledge the very kind assistance of many members of the family in furnishing their personal and family records, and especially to Miss Vera Fenn, of Port Byron, N. Y., whose interest has been untiring; to Dr. Alice Burritt of Washington, D. C., who furnished me a complete record of her branch of the family and who first showed me a copy of the coat-of-arms; to Maurice C. Burritt of Hilton, N. Y., for his splendid work on the Giles Burritt branch, and to the many others whose names cannot be here mentioned.

Of the Coat-of-Arms, Dr. Alice Burritt says, "I first found a description in a Welsh history and later found the original design in a history of Brittany." "The three scallop shells," she says, "were bestowed by Pope Alexander IV, (1254-1261) to those who had been on crusades to the Holy Land, or on long religious pilgrimages.

The motto, "Je' endure pour durer" would seem to translate literally, I through endurance endure, or perhaps, I endure to become lasting. Resourcefulness, perseverance and independence have been characteristic of those of the family that it has been my privilege to know well.

They have been a race of sturdy pioneers, ever trail breakers, among the first to make their homes in the undeveloped countries. We first hear of them in Brittany as the Barret de Nazaris family, of the Agenais France, where members of the family may still be found.

A very interesting chapter appears in the Foster genealogy, written by Mary Lord Foster a descendant of the Ithaca, N. Y., branch of the Burritt family. She says in part:

"An investigation proves conclusively that the name was of French origin. We have shown how the French names were introduced into Wales at the time of the revocation of the edict of Nantes. Baret is recorded as one of these names. . . . These names became hereditary in the eleventh centuries. At that time the manufacture of caps became a leading occupation. The work on the Cardinal's caps, the caps of clergy of lesser degrees, for physicians and students required skilled workmen; it was a distinctive trade. A picture of the barrette cap was painted on the sign board and so, in France, the makers of these caps became to be known as Barrette. Mordaque, in his book on nomenclature, says that the etymology of hereditary names is the same in England and Germany as in France and Italy.

The cap (barette) was still a leading business sign during the twelfth, thirteenth and fourteenth centuries, frequently mentioned in England, but it no longer gave the name Barrette to those who did business under it.

The family of Barrette, Barret, or kindred spellings still continued to be noted for their skill as artificers using their inventive genius in other ventures."

She advances the theory that the name may have been changed to Burritt at the time that the term barratry became a synonym for certain forms of knavery which became widespread about this time. The conjecture is a reasonable one since the family have always been jealous of the honor of the name.

My theory has been that the name, spelled Berret at the time of the beginning of the Welsh residence, was changed to preserve the proper pronunciation, the (e) being pronounced like the English (u). The two theories, however, link together with the result that the name in Wales became Burritt.

Our ancestors did come from Brittany to Wales about the time of William the Conqueror, (1066) and the fact that they were land holders in Wales would seem to indicate that they were among his knights at the battle of Hastings.

This giving of conquered lands was Williams' method of repaying his soldiers.

William Burritt, his wife Elizabeth and their three children were among the very early settlers in America, coming from Glamorganshire, Wales, some time previous to 1635.

William Burritt was one of the founders of Stratford, Conn., where records are found as early as 1635 and where he died in 1651. It is thought that the family lived in other Connecticut towns before settling in Stratford.

After the death of William, Elizabeth continued to live in Stratford until her death in 1781.

She is reported to have been a keen business woman, buying and selling much property, but always buying more than she sold. She could neither read nor write but left her mark on the records of the County in many instances.

Coat Armour

Heraldry is so far a dead science, or, one might say a dead language, that few of us understand or attach any significance to it.

A family "coat of arms" interests us merely as a relic of olden times, as does an old piece of family silver or house furnishing.

To our early ancestors, it meant more. It was a badge of leadership, distinction and honor.

Lord Lindsay says in his "Lives of the Lindsays", "Every British gentleman entitled to bear coat-armour, is noble whether titled or not. It is only in comparatively recent times that this has been forgotten and the term nobility exclusively appropriated by the peerage."

"Tinctures" or colors displayed seem to have been a matter of taste while the "charges" have a significance, as for instance, the escallop shell is borne by those who have taken part in the crusades.

Helmets, before the time of Elizabeth, were of any form with no particular meaning, but later by their form, were made to show the rank of the bearer. Helmets of Baronets and Knights were of steel, the visor raised, and they are placed directly facing us. "affrontee".

Other forms show Royalty, Lords and esquires.

The upper one third part of the shield is called the chief and where this is surmounted, it is supposed to have a peculiar meaning.

One old writer declares that "The chief is to be given to those that by their high merits have procured the chief place among men."

Most shields display some form of wild animal, bird or mythical form and these, some writers claim, were in many instances, chosen to represent some circumstance in the life of, or some peculiar trait distinguishing the bearer.

"The Lyon," says Ferne, is the most worthiest of all beastes; yea he standeth as the king among beastes of the field. So that by the Lyon is signified principallitie, dominion and rule. Wherefore, the bearing of this beaste was fitly applyed to a kinges progeny: fortitude and magnanimity is denoted by the Lyon."

In other days, too, it must be remembered that surnames were less a distinguishing mark than now; that is, while surnames were first being used, different families may have been given the same name from a like circumstance, so that a coat of arms was a surer means of distinction than the name itself and has thus been of great value to the historian as well as the genealogist in tracing families and events.

First Generation

WILLIAM BURRITT and his wife, Elizabeth, came with their three children from Glamorganshire, Wales, in an early day, probably some time previous to 1635, settling in Connecticut and finally became one of the founders of Stratford, Conn., where William died in 1651. Elizabeth continued to live in Stratford until her death in 1681.

She seems to have been a very capable woman, not only rearing her family in such manner as to take a foremost place in the community, but to have been keen in business as well, adding a considerable property to the estate left by her husband.

As records show, she apportioned considerable real estate to her sons by conveyance dated April 5, 1675, as follows: "To my loving and dutiful son John Burritt, of ye said place, an equal half of my whole accommodations in Stratford aforesaid, being ye allotment and interest of my deceased husband Wm. Burritt, or by procurement of myself and my children, excepting only ye home lot and parcel of land at ye Fresh Pond, in ye old field, ye which has already been contracted to Stephen Burritt," one of which contractions being that "ye aforesaid John Burritt should have ye parcal lying on Quimby's Neck &c."

Stephen Burritt drew lot No. 40 in division of lands and John Burritt No. 84.

Her will is dated Sept. 2, 1681, and she probably died soon after.

Children of William and Elizabeth Burritt were:

2. i. STEPHEN.
3. ii. JOHN.
- iii. MARY, married a Mr. Smith.

Second Generation

STEPHEN, (William 1) born in Glamorganshire, Wales, and came to America with his parents as before stated.

Married Nov. 8, 1673. Sarah Nichols, daughter of Isaac Nichols of a prominent Stratford family. One of her sisters married Rev. Joseph Webb and another Rev. Israel Channey, pastor of Stratford church from 1665 to 1703, who was one of the founders of Yale College and was chosen its first president, but declined the honor.

Stephen was in the list of Freemen at Stratford, 8th month, 7th day, 1669, a lot owner 1671 and confirmed by the General Court as Ensign of the Train Band at Stratford in 1672, appointed Lieutenant Jan. 17, 1675, and the Council of Stratford, date of Sept. 18, 1675, ordered that "The Dragoons from Fairfield County, being come up, and Major Robert Treat sending to us to hasten them to their headquarters near Suckquackheeg, it is ordered that accordingly the Dragoons of Fairfield shall forthwith march away up to Norwottag and so to our army, under the conduct of Ensign Stephen Burritt and join them in the defense of the plantations up the river and to kill and destroy all such Indian enemies as should assault them on said plantations."

Again at a meeting of Council of the Colony held Nov. 23, 1765, Stephen Burritt was appointed Commissary of the Army, so rapidly was he promoted.

Hinman, the Historian, calls him, "a noted Indian fighter," and he was also a man of affairs. At a town meeting held Jan. 1, 1673, he was chosen Recorder, and his beautiful and character-like autograph which thereafter frequently appears on the Town Books, may well be the envy of any of his descendants. In 1689 he was appointed on a committee to assess damages for the changing of Black Creek into Mill River, by which one Robert Lane claimed to have been "dam-nified".

The same year he was chosen one of the Townsmen and in 1690 was an auditor of accounts of the Town Treasurer.

He died Jan. 24, 1697, according to the records on an old tombstone still preserved. The inventory of his estate, dated March 4, 1697, shows a footing of £1,177-2s which includes £6-6s as the value of his "arms and ammunition."

Stephen and Sarah Burritt had eight children, as follows:

- i. ELIZABETH, born July 1, 1675.
- ii. WILLIAM, born March 29, 1677. Died young.
4. iii. PELEG, born Oct. 5. 1679.
5. iv. JOSIAH, born 1681.
6. v. ISRAEL, born 1687.
7. vi. CHARLES, born 1690.
8. vii. EPHRAIM, born 1693.
9. viii. JAMES.

Note: We do not have record proof that James, named as the youngest son of Stephen, was in reality Stephen's son, but all indications point to this conclusion. If we consider his age and the birth dates of his children, the proven fact that John had only the son Joseph it could hardly have been otherwise. The only alternative would be another Burritt immigrant and we have never found records of any such.

JOHN, (William 1) born in Glamorganshire, Wales, coming to Connecticut with his parents. He married May 1, 1684, Deborah Barlow, daughter of Thomas Barlow, a large land holder of Fairfield, Conn. He died in Stratford Feb. 1, 1727. He was married a second time May 5, 1708, to Hannah (Beach), widow of Zachariah Fairchild. The Stratford records show him a lot owner as early as 1671.

His will was filed Feb. 17, 1726, naming his son Joseph as his sole heir and administrator of his estate, the appointment being dated Oct. 3, 1727. The estate inventoried to the amount of £1,754-9s-1d. or $8,538.14.

John and Deborah Burritt had one child:

10. i. JOSEPH, born March 12, 1685.

Third Generation4

PELEG, (Stephen 2) born Oct. 5, 1679, married Dec. 5, 1705, Sarah Bennett, daughter of James Bennett.

Children:

- i. WILLIAM, born Aug. 28, 1706; baptized Sept. 13, 1706; died Sept. 28, 1706.

- iii. SARAH, born July 20, 1712. (Stratford Town records).
- 11. iv. PELEG, born Jan. 8, 1720.

JOSIAH, (Stephen 2) born 1681, married March 10, 1703, Mary Peat, daughter of Benjamin Peat Sr. Josiah was one of the proprietors of Newtown.

Children:

- i. ELIZABETH, born May 12, 1704; baptized July 23, 1704. (Bridgeport Church records).
- 12. ii. STEPHEN, born Jan. 7, 1706; baptized Feb. 10, 1706. (Bridgeport Church records).
- 13. iii. BENJAMIN }
iv. PHOEBE } Twins; born Jan. 29, 1708.
- 14. v. WILLIAM, born Jan. 29, 1709.

ISRAEL, (Stephen 2) born 1687, married March 4, 1719, Sarah Coe. Moved from Stratford, his birthplace, to Durham, Conn. He married a second time, probably about 1735, Sarah Chauncey who was born Feb. 24, 1711. She was a daughter of Rev. Nathaniel Chauncey of Durham, and great-great-grand-daughter of Charles Chauncey an English emigrant.

Israel was prominent in the affairs of the community and the church and was known as Deacon Israel.

Children:

- i. MARY, born June 12, 1719.
- ii. ISRAEL, born 1736, died 1743.
- iii. ANN, born 1743.
- iv. CHARLES, born 1746. Was a soldier in Revolutionary War.
- 15. v. WILLIAM, born April 8, 1748.

CHARLES, (Stephen 2) born 1690, took Freeman's Oath in Stratford in September 1730. Married April 18, 1717, Mary Lockwood. He and his wife Mary were members of the Stratford Church in 1718. His will was dated Jan. 23, 1761.

Mary Lockwood was a daughter of Daniel and Abigail (Burr) Lockwood.

Children:

16. i. DANIEL, born Feb. 17, 1718.
- ii. STEPHEN, born June 16, 1720.
- iii. CHARLES, born 1722, died Nov. 12, 1801; married Lucy, who was born 1727, died 1789. Served in Revolutionary War as second lieutenant Sixth Conn. Regiment, 1777.
17. iv. ISRAEL, born April 24, 1726.
18. v. ELIHU, born 1732.

EPHRAIM, (Stephen 2) born 1693, married Feb. 14, 1721, Mary (Booth) widow of Agur Fairchild. She died Aug. 18, 1726. He married a second time, Jan. 15, 1728-9, Sarah Lewis.

Children:

- i. EUNICE, born Oct. 27, 1722.
- ii. MARTHA, born June 11, 1724.
- iii. MARY, born May 16, 1729; died March 20, 1731.
19. iv. EPHRIAM, born Sept. 24, 1730.
- v. SARAH, born Feb. 2, 1732.
- vi. EDWARD, born Oct. 20, 1733.
- vii. MARTHA, born Sept. 20, 1734.
20. viii. STEPHEN, born Feb. 14, 1737.
21. ix. WILLIAM, born April 12, 1739.
- x. ABEL, born Nov. 3, 1742.
- xi. LEWIS, born June 20, 1745.

JAMES, (Stephen 2) born probably about 1696. His wife was Sarah, although it is possible that this was a second marriage since there is seventeen years difference between the ages of his two recorded children.

Children:

- i. ANNE, born 1723.
- ii. HANNAH, (daughter of James and Sarah), baptized May 3, 1740, by Rev. Nathaniel Chauncey*, died Dec. 20, 1820, at Tolland, Mass. Hannah married April 9, 1765, Titus Fowler who was born at Durham, Nov. 29, 1738; died April 27, 1827, at Tolland, Mass. Served in Revolutionary War from Massachusetts. They had a daughter, Hannah, born Nov. 25, 1772; died Nov. 17, 1845; married Nov. 20, 1794, Marvin Moore, who was born Nov. 18, 1771, died at Tolland, Aug. 23, 1855.

Elizur Datus Moore, son of Marvin, born Tolland, July 26, 1800; died Nov. 4, 1881; married May 15, 1822, Harriet Wadsworth who was born Sept. 16, 1789; died July 3, 1880.

Bennett Elizur Moore, son of Elizur Datus, born June 19, 1828 at Tolland; died Aug. 3, 1903, at Winsted, Conn.; married Oct. 2, 1861, Jane Flora Starks, who was born March 18, 1840; died May 12, 1917, at Winsted.

Darwin Starks Moore, son of Bennett E., born Tolland, Feb. 28, 1864; married Oct. 7, 1891, Celia Webster, daughter of Chas. S. and Jane (Balch) Webster. She was born Nov. 8, 1865, in New York City. Child: Frederick Webster Moore, born May 16, 1877, at Winsted. He married Feb. 28, 1920, May Tull, of Washington D. C., and had: Frederick Ashbrook Moore, born Jan. 5, 1923, at Toledo, Ohio, and Webster Starks Moore, born July 4, 1926, at Boston, Mass.

- } Twins, born 1761.

13

BENJAMIN, (Josiah 5) born Jan. 29, 1708, married Mary, daughter of Moses Stilson. Benjamin came to Newtown with his parents and spent his life there. The records show that he bought and sold many parcels of real estate, that he deeded to his son Eleazer certain tracts of land, one tract being improved by a residence. His son Anthony was named as executor of his will. Mentioned many times in grand levy.

Children:

33. i. ELEAZER, born April 27, 1737.
34. ii. AMOS.
- iii. NATHAN.
- iv. BALAH.
35. v. ANTHONY, born Dec. 4, 1752, said to have been youngest son.
- vi. A daughter who died young.

14

WILLIAM, (Josiah 5) born in Newtown, Conn., Jan. 29, 1709, died 1752*, married first time ————, second time, June 7, 1750, Elizabeth Burr, daughter of Stephen Burr.

She was born Jan. 17, 1728, died about 1779. After her husband's death, she married second, Oct. 11, 1759, Alexander Bryant, and third, May 19, 1761, Reuben Squire.

The home was in Redding, Conn.

Children:

- i. MARY, baptized Dec. 16, 1739, at Redding.
- ii. ABIJAH, baptized Jan. 10, 1741.
- iii. RHODA, baptized Oct. 24, 1742; died April, 1816.

15

WILLIAM, (Israel 6) born April 8, 1748, at Durham, Conn., married Anne ————.

A list of Revolutionary soldiers from Durham shows Lieut. William Burritt, Dec. 9, 1777. He emigrated, probably soon after the war to the northwest part of Connecticut.

Children:

- i. SARAH, born May 26, 1772, at Durham; died at West Granville, Mass., Sept. 10, 1837. She married Samuel Parsons of West Granville, Aug. 25, 1794. He was born Sept. 20, 1769; died Oct. 19, 1841. Samuel and Sarah (Burritt) Parsons had a daughter Phoebe who married Amos Hall, they being parents of Julius Hall of Tolland, Mass., father of Mrs. Hattie Hall Moore of Winsted Conn.
- ii. JARED, born May 1, 1774.

16

DANIEL, (Charles 7) born Feb. 17, 1718, probably died before his father, that is before 1761, as his father's will left property to his children. He is thought to have been twice married and his oldest son Elijah was probably the son of the first wife. His second wife was Comfort Nichols, born 1678, died 1755, daughter of Richard and Comfort (Sherman) Nichols. His will mentions Widow Comfort.

Children:

36. i. ELIJAH, born 1743.
- ii. ROXANNA, who married Richard Hubbell.
- iii. PENNIAH, who married Samuel Brisbane.
- iv. AMELIA.
37. v. STEPHEN, born 1753.

- 41. iv. JOHN, born 1745.

23

WILLIAM, (Joseph 10) born Dec. 28, 1726, died Dec. 14, 1802. Married Mary ———, who was born in 1739 and who died Oct. 18, 1799. Both are buried in Unity Burying Ground, Stratford.

Children:

- i. REBECCA, married Everard Beach of New Milford.
- ii. PHOEBE, married Philo Booth of Newton.
- 42. iii. EBEN, born April 19, 1762.

William Burritt enlisted as a private in the Revolutionary Army the 13th day of ———, 1775 at the age of 49. Served under Capt. Reed, Col. Waterbury's Connecticut Regiment. He was taken prisoner at Ft. Washington on Manhattan Island. He was wounded by two buck shot in the back of his neck, also by a musket ball in the left arm at Lake Champlain, Sept. 1775. He was allowed a pension on account of disability resulting from said wounds in Sept. 1794. He is said to have been a successful farmer, becoming a large land owner in the section where his father's holdings were located, North Stratford.

In 1750, by a deed signed by his father Joseph and his mother Mary, William came into possession of about one hundred acres of land with buildings, situated in the locality of what was then known as "Daniel's Farm Hill" Stratford, also some land in the vicinity of "Rock House" so called. When he was twenty-six he purchased a small plot and one year later, 1753, he is recorded as having paid to his oldest brother, John, one hundred and fifty-three pounds for a parcel of land containing four acres "more or less" bounded on the east by a portion of his father's farm. In 1754 he paid his youngest brother Samuel, eighty-four pounds for four acres of land and buildings at the place called Rock House Hill. In 1755 for the "consideration" of ninety-six pounds he was deeded by his next oldest brother, Nathan, about sixteen acres of the paternal farm at Rock House Hill.

Nine years later he acquired from Joseph Tomlinson, for an unstated sum another five acres in the same picturesquely named locality. Again in 1767 he purchased for sixty-nine pounds, two shillings, "lawful money" another acre, still more quaintly designated as "near the place called Hedge Hog." This land was deeded to him by Amos and Abigail Hinnian.

As late as 1791 at the age of sixty-five, William was still acquiring land. A deed of that date entitled him, for a consideration of one hundred twenty-eight pounds to a tract of land about sixteen acres in the parish of North Stratford, formerly belonging to Jonathan Edwards, and lying next to land owned by Icabod Hawley and Ephriam Beech.

On the 27th day of September, 1800, William Burritt drew his last Will and Testament, bequeathing all his furniture and household goods, except his desk and Bible, to his two daughters, with twenty-eight pounds to Rebecca and eighteen pounds to Phoebe. To his son Eben he left his desk and great Bible and all the rest and residue of his estate. Two years later he died, his wife Mary having preceded him in 1799.

- iv. ANN MARY, born July 1770.

Fifth Generation

26

REV. BLACKLEACH, (Peleg 11) was born in 1742, died Aug. 27, 1792. Married 1765, Martha Welles, daughter of Gideon Welles, and direct descendant of Thomas Welles, Colonial Governor of Connecticut. His second wife was Deborah Welles.

He was perhaps one of the most noted men of his time, a staunch patriot, who carried his gun to his pulpit to be ready for Tory raids during the Revolution.

He was born in Stratford, graduated from Yale College in the class of 1765 and was ordained to preach the Gospel Feb. 22, 1768. He was captured by a band of Tories, taken from his bed without clothing and transported to the notorious Sugar House Prison in New York.

In the introduction to his "Sketch of Rev. Blackleach Burritt and Related Stratford Families," Prof. M. D. Raymond says:

"In a secluded spot on the eastern slope of the Green Mountains is the unmarked grave of a son of Stratford whose name well deserves to be illustrious in the annals of the County of Fairfield. A man of liberal culture, of more than ordinary gifts, a stalwart Patriot in the stormy days of the Revolution, a pioneer preacher of unusual power, of marked individuality and rugged character, of honorable ancestry and no less honorable posterity, such a man was Rev. Blackleach Burritt."

There was a large family of children, only the last of which was a daughter of the second wife.

Dr. Alice Burritt, of Washington, D. C., has published a genealogy of the descendants of Blackleach Burritt, Jr., who was one of the sons of Rev. Blackleach.

The children were:

- i. EUNICE, born 1766.

CAPT. ISRAEL, (Stephen 12) born in Fairfield, Conn., (probably Newtown) 1744, died Shelburne, Vt., Jan. 11, 1833, buried in West Cemetery. Married first March 14, 1776, Hester Holabird who died Oct. 2, 1793, aged 37. He married a second time, Dec. 21, 1796, Cynthia Wheeler who died April, 1828, aged 66.

Children:

- i. ISRAEL, born May 24, 1777; died Oct. 15, 1804.
- ii. LOMIRA, born Feb. 19, 1779; died Oct. 15, 1804, at Burlington, Vt., married about 1800, Capt. Horace Loomis of Burlington. Children: Lucia, born Dec. 30, 1800; died 1877; married John Norton Pomeroy. No issue.
- iii. REUBEN HAWLEY, born March 10, 1781; died Jan. 19, 1784.
- iv. PHILA, born Feb. 10, 1783; died Dec. 29, 1786.
53. v. REUBEN, born Jan. 19, 1785.
- vi. RACHAEL, born Aug. 7, 1787; died July 23, 1851, at Norwood Park, Chicago, Ill.; married at Shelburne, Feb. 17, 1811, Herman Rowley, Removed to Illinois 1837. One child, Hester, died Shelburne, 1836.

- 54. vii. GARRAD, born Oct. 19, 1789.
- viii. IRA, born Sept. 17, 1790; died young.
- ix. HANNAH or ANNAH, born Feb. 12, 1792; died 1823.
- x. HESTER, born Sept. 26, 1793; married Sept. 26, 1810, Henry Judson.

Israel had two children by his second wife Cynthia, both died young.

Israel is said to have served throughout the Revolutionary War from 1775 to 1784 and with the exception of the year 1776, when he is believed to have been with Arnold at Lake Champlain, this service is substantiated by war department records. Commissioned second lieutenant Jan. 1, 1777. (Connecticut Men in Revolution, Seventh Regiment, Col. Heman Swift, page 218). In 1778 was in Newton Fourth Brigade Militia under Col. Beardsley. He was in the battle of Germantown and at Valley Forge.

In 1784 Israel came to Shelburne, Vt., with about ten other men and established the town. He probably first settled on Spear St., where the Hawleys, who were his friends and neighbors, also located. He finally took up his residence in Shelburne Falls, which was the center of the town, having later, woolen, grist and saw mills, and other activities.

JOSIAH, (Stephen 12) according to an unverified record, died March 6, 1813, aged 52 years, which would make his birth date about 1761. He was a twin brother of Sherman Burritt who by the same record, died Oct. 6, 1833, aged 72.

Both these brothers served in Revolutionary war, enlisting as privates in Lieut. Wm. Hall's Company of Guards, stationed at Bridgeport, in 1777, and serving until 1783.

Josiah married Aug. 2, 1784, Mabel Curtis Baldwin, who was born in New York State Feb. 3, 1768, and moved to Stratford, Conn., in 1780. She died in Derby, Conn., March 25, 1852.

Their first home was in Bridgeport Harbor, but in 1785 they went to New York State. In 1798 they returned to Derby, Conn., where he died. His widow later married —— Stiles.

ELEAZER, (Benjamin 13) born August 27, 1737, in Newtown, Conn.,¹ married first May 25, 1757, to Elizabeth Platt,² daughter of Obidah Platt of Redding, Conn. (Jonas³ - Isaac² - Richard¹) married second to Elizabeth Smith, daughter of Thomas Smith of Stillwater, Saratoga County, N. Y.; died just prior to February, 1805, survived by his second wife.

Children³ of Eleazer and Elizabeth Platt Burritt:

- i. SARAH, baptized March 19, 1758.
- ii. CHARITY, baptized April 27, 1760.
- iii. ZALMON, baptized April 25, 1762.
- iv. BAILEY, baptized July 1, 1764.
- v. ELIZABETH, baptized Sept. 29, 1765; married ——— York.
- vi. (child stillborn) Feb. 22, 1767.
- vii. PEAT, baptized May 15, 1768.
- viii. ABRAHAM, baptized July 1, 1770.
- ix. THOMAS, baptized Aug. 30, 1772 (probably died in infancy).

Children of Eleazer and Elizabeth Smith Burritt.

- 55. x. THOMAS, born 1785.
- 56. xi. GRACES, born Oct. 31, 1788.
- xii. MARY, (no information).

All of Eleazer's children by his first wife were born in Newtown, except Thomas who was born in Fairfield⁴, where Eleazer apparently lived for a short time in 1771 and 1772. The first of his sons to be named Thomas was probably born and may have died there. No record of any other children born in Connecticut has been found. He was back in Newtown in 1774, and he was included there in the Grand Levy of August 20, 1776⁵, for 69 £-2s.-6d. He also took the Oath of Fidelity on August 25, 1777, and the Freeman's Oath in 1768 there⁶. Eleazer was a brother of Anthony who was administrator of his father's estate⁶. By 1785 he had disposed of practically all of his property in Connecticut. He disappears from Newtown records about this time, indicating that he left the state soon after the Revolution.

It seems reasonably certain that Eleazer came to New York state about this time. From the pension records and papers of his son Zalmon⁷, and his daughter Elizabeth, we learn that both were living in New York, probably in Saratoga County, as early as 1781 to 1785. Elizabeth was Mrs. York in 1819, and Yorks appeared in the Census of 1790 in Saratoga County. It seems very probable that Eleazer and at least two of his children, were there in Saratoga in 1790⁸. He was recorded in the census of 1800⁹.

In 1801 in the Surrogate's office in Saratoga County there was recorded the will of one Thomas Smith of the Town of Stillwater, which divided his estate equally among his six daughters, of whom the oldest was Elizabeth, and bequeathing twenty-five dollars "to Grandson Giles Burrit."¹⁰ The census of 1800 records a Thomas Smith in the Township of Half Moon, in Saratoga County, with a family of six persons¹¹. Again in 1805, there was filed in the same Surrogate's office, a settlement of the estate of Eleazer Burritt of the town of Galway by his widow Elizabeth¹².

All these known facts leave little doubt that Eleazer Burritt of Newtown, Conn., and Eleazer Burritt of Galway, N. Y., were one and the same person, and that Elizabeth Smith, daughter of Thomas Smith of Stillwater was the second wife of Eleazer and the mother of Thomas (1785) and Giles (1788). There are still some things that we do not know that we would like to know positively, but which the poor records of early New York do not reveal. Much research by competent genealogists¹³ supports these conclusions and nothing has been found to cast doubt upon them.

Based on this knowledge and research, I have formed the opinions that it is reasonably certain that: Eleazer is descended from Stephen who died in 1698, and Sarah Nichols (1674), through Josiah (1681) and Benjamin (1708); he lived in Newtown, Conn., from 1737 to the early 1780s; he removed to Saratoga County, N. Y., where he married Elizabeth Smith about 1783 or 1784 and she bore him Thomas and Giles (1788), and Mary (?); he lived and died there in the town of Galway in 1805, leaving only a small amount of property, most of which consisted of debts owed to him by others.

Hilton N. Y., July 15, 1940.

Maurice C. Burritt.

¹Many deeds of record in Newtown clearly show Eleazer's parentage and the ownership and conveyance of property there by both Eleazer and his father Benjamin, between 1759 and 1785.

²See Bailey's "Early Connecticut Marriages" Vol. II. Todd's "History of Redding" states that Elizabeth married Ebenezer, while Bailey says Eleazer. Both accounts came from the same source, viz. the church records of Redding. A competent genealogist (Jacobus) who has investigated the source, concludes that in this instance, Bailey is right and Todd wrong, the error probably being in copying. There is no record of any kind of an Ebenezer Burritt in Newtown.

⁸Neither Eleazer or his sons Thomas and Giles are listed in the Census of 1790, in New York state or elsewhere. They may have been staying with friends or relatives and counted with them.

⁹Census of 1800, Book II p 1081 — One male to 10 years, one to 45 and up, one female to 16, one female to 26 and one female to 45 and up. This doesn't quite fit Eleazer's family, for Thomas should have been 15 and Giles 12 years old in 1800. One of the females could have been their sister Mary, or others of the family may have been living with them.

EBEN, (William 23) born at Stratford, Conn., April 19, 1762, died at Roxbury, Oct. 10, 1840.

Married April 9, 1782, Sarah Fairchild, who was born at Stratford, July 31, 1766, and who died at Roxbury, Nov. 8, 1865, aged 99 years, 3 months and 8 days.

She was a descendant of Thomas Fairchild, a wealthy merchant who came to Stratford in 1639. The family had a coat of arms and a good pedigree. Thomas married for his second wife Katherine Craig of London, in 1662.

Their son Joseph was born in 1664 and married Johanna Willcoxon, daughter of Timothy Willcoxon of Stratford.

Their son Timothy was born in 1687 and married in 1715 Sarah Thompson of New Haven. Daniel, their son born in 1719, married Hepzibah Lewis of Old Mill Trumbull.

Hepzibah's mother was Sarah De Forest, a descendant of the Huguenot De Forests of Avenes, France, according to the De Forest genealogy.

Sarah Fairchild, wife of Eben Burritt, was their daughter and was named for this grandmother, Sarah De Forest.

In speaking of the inheritance of family names, let me note here that following this generation we find the name Lewis frequently used as a given name and we may trace it to Hepzibah Lewis, wife of Daniel Fairchild, mother of Sarah Fairchild Burritt.

The following will show direct line of descent of Sarah Fairchild Burritt from William Cecil, Lord Burleigh, Prime Minister to Queen Elizabeth of England. From Thomas Sherwood of Sherwood Forest, England, and from Robert Seabrook, emigrant from England.

William Cecil, Lord Burleigh, was born in Lincolnshire, Sept. 13, 1520. He was secretary of state under Edward VI. and Elizabeth and Prime Minister of England for forty years. He married Mildred Coke. Their daughter, Margaret Cecil, married Erastus Smith.

Rev. Henry Smith of Weathersfield, Conn., married a second time, Dorothy ———.

Philip Smith, married John Birdseye.

Johanna Birdseye, married Timothy Wilcoxon.

Johanna Wilcoxon, married Joseph Fairchild.

Timothy Fairchild, married Sarah Thompson.
Daniel Fairchild, married Hepzibah Lewis.
Sarah Fairchild, married Eben Burritt.

SHERWOOD

THOMAS SHERWOOD was born in Sherwood Forest, England, in 1586. He lived at Nottingham. This shire is not very large, about fifty miles long by thirty broad. It contains some of the grandest scenery and most charming rural estates of England. This was the scene of the escapades of Robin Hood of legendary fame. The family name originated from the Sherwood Forest.

Thomas Sherwood married Alice Seabrook in England. She was born in 1587. Their children were: Ann, born 1620; Rose, born 1623; Thomas, born 1624, and Rebecca, born 1625. Thomas with his wife and children sailed for America on the good ship "Francis" (John Cutting was the master). They embarked at Ipswich, April 21, 1624, and landed in Massachusetts Colony, Boston, in June of the same year.

Thomas Sherwood lived in Fairfield, Conn., and Wethersfield. He was one of the first settlers of the latter place. His name appears on land records of Fairfield in 1643, and when he came here he brought with him his second wife, Sarah, whom he married in 1643. They had six more children. In his will, which was dated June 4, 1657, he left one-fourth of his estate to his daughter, Rose, wife of Thomas Rumble, and afterwards wife of Thomas Barlow. His property was very large, so much so that he had five overseers, namely; William Blackman, Isaac Nichols, John Birdseye, Henry Wakely and John Wells. He served as deputy with Roger Ludlow in Connecticut General Court, 1650. He died in 1659 at Fairfield, Conn.

SEABROOK

ROBERT SEABROOK, father of Alice Seabrook, wife of Thomas Sherwood, was the ancestor in her line first to come to America. He was born in England in 1565 and died in Stratford, Conn., in 1650. He married Alice Goodspeed in England. She was the daughter of Nicholas Goodspeed of Wengrass, Bucks County, England. They came to America in 1624 and settled in Stratford. Their home-lots were 12 and 13. They had four daughters who were all grown and married before they came to America. Their husbands became prominent men in the colony.

Alice married Thomas Sherwood in England and is our ancestress.

Johanna married Lieut. Thomas Wheeler in England.

Emm married Thomas Fairchild (his first wife).

Elizabeth married William Preston.

There were no sons.

Descent from Seabrook and Sherwood:

Robert Seabrook married Alice Goodspeed.

Alice Seabrook married Thomas Sherwood.

Rose Sherwood married Thomas Barlow.

Deborah Barlow married John Burritt.

Joseph Burritt married Mary Wakely.

William Burritt married Mary ———.

Eben Burritt married Sarah Fairchild, etc.

That Sarah Fairchild Burritt was recognized as a remarkable woman in many ways is shown by the obituary which was published at her death and a copy of which is shown.

"In Roxbury, Litchfield County, Conn., Nov. 8, 1865, Widow Sarah Burritt died, aged 99 years, 3 months and 8 days, the oldest person by far in the town of Roxbury and was at the time of her death the oldest person for a large circumference around.

"She was born in the town of Stratford, now denominated the town of Trumbull, Fairfield County, Conn. She and her husband moved into the town of Roxbury in the year 1806, and in the year following they both united with the Congregational Church by letter from the Presbyterian Church in Trumbull and she has continued to be a faithful follower of that Saviour whom she believed in and embraced early in life.

"It would seem that Nature, in her case had designed her for long life, being from a child, as tradition has it, the very picture of perfect health and by prudence, industrious habits, mental and physical labor, as in one or the other she was constantly employed, she lived to spend almost a century in enjoyment of one of the greatest blessings earth can give, which is health. She seemed to be endowed by nature with one of those rare qualities or gifts, cheerfulness under whatever circumstances she was called to pass through.

"There was always a cheerful word, a joyous smile and sunshine brightness upon her face. 'She looked well to the ways of her household and ate not the bread of idleness.'

" 'Her children rise up and call her blessed.' Yea, the Church and the world around rise up and called her blessed also.

"Two of her sons and one daughter, the eldest now 81 years of age, were permitted to be present at the departure of their loving mother, to smooth as far as human hands and sympathy could do, her passage to the tomb, and to call her blessed; and blessed will that man or woman be upon whom her mantle shall fall, for, she was a woman that feared God the Lord and such shall be praised. 'And her own works praise her in the gates.' "

EBEN BURRITT enlisted as a private in the Revolutionary Army in 1776 at the age of 14 years. He served under Col. Whitney of Connecticut during the years 1778-79-80. Applied for a pension April 15, 1833, which claim was allowed

Their children were:

- i. PHOEBE, born July 28, 1783; married Mr. Beach.
- ii. POLLY, born Jan. 10, 1786; married David Hawley.
64. iii. LEWIS, born July 2, 1788.
- iv. SARAH, born March 7, 1791; married Mr. Hurd.
- v. WILLIAM, born Feb. 8, 1794; died Oct. 26, 1810.
65. vi. DANIEL FAIRCHILD, born April 4, 1797.
66. vii. PHILO, born Sept. 25, 1799.
67. viii. ROSWELL, born Nov. 9, 1802.
- ix. JULIA ANN, born July 4, 1808.
- x. EBEN WILLIAM, born March 3, 1811; died April 6, 1812.

Among the old deeds still preserved by members of the family is one showing that in the year 1785, when Eben was twenty-three, his father, William, "For the consideration of the Paternal love and good-will and affection that I have and do bear unto my well beloved son Eben Burritt," deeded about eleven acres of land to him, situated near Daniel's farm, also a small plot adjoining his own dwelling house. Another deed dated May 24, 1792, conveys to Eben's wife Sarah, for the consideration of 18 pounds and 16 shillings, four acres in North Stratford, bounded on the westerly side by Daniel's farm Hill and on the south by William Burritt's land.

In 1806 Eben moved his family to a farm in the eastern part of Roxbury, Conn. This farm consisted of sixty-four acres and the deed was signed by David Hawley, presumably Eben's son-in-law, as executor of the estate of the former owner, James Shelton, of South Huntington, the consideration being $1615.77. It was located about one-fourth mile north of what was then known as "Castle Street," and "Grassy Hill Road."

This continued to be the family home until the death of Eben, when it was willed to his four sons. Roswell, the youngest, purchased the interests of his brothers and lived there during his lifetime. In 1883 this homestead was sold by Roswell's two daughters, Sarah Burritt Fenn and Anna Mariah Burritt, who then moved to Port Byron, N. Y.

The farm is the site of a Revolutionary Encampment where a brigade of General Nixon's Regiment passed the winter.

In my possession is a yellowed sheet of paper on which is written in the painstaking hand of my great aunt Catherine B. Sprague, a list of the children of Eben with the dates of birth and death copied from his old family Bible. So did cheerful aunt Kate add her bit to these records. She gave us more in her stories of these, her grandparents, revealing incidents of their lives and traits of character always with an unconcealed pride. Another letter from Mrs. Laura E. Camp recounts the story as told by her mother, who was Elizabeth Ann Burritt, first cousin to my great grandfather Lewis. It seems that Lewis and Polly Burritt had sold their farm near Roxbury and were about to leave for western New York. The Congregational Church at Roxbury held farewell prayer meetings and, so she said, "sang the most doleful hymns."

It perhaps seemed a final parting since she says, "The trip was made with ox teams into the wilderness where they cleared a site and built a log house. They were prosperous and the family added a great deal materially and spiritually to the town of Weedsport." My own memory goes back to the visit of this same Lewis, who was Eben's oldest son, after the death of his wife, to our home in Illinois. Since this was in 1872 I was four years old at the time, but this memory has always been clear to me.

STEPHEN, (Daniel 24) born Nov. 2, 1759, at Arlington, Vt. Moved to Canada with his father at the outbreak of the Revolution. Died in Ontario, Canada, in 1843.

He entered the British Army at the age of nineteen and served seven years. He was dispatch writer for Col. Barry St. Leger, Commandant of the Royal forces in Canada. He was wounded at Gage's Hill, was present at the taking of Fort Edward and at the surrender of Burgoyne. After the war he and his brother Daniel settled on the upper St. Lawrence with other discharged soldiers. In 1793 he penetrated the woods thirty miles and founded Burritt's Rapids where he died; he being the first white man to explore and settle on the North bank of the Rideau River. His chopping attracted a Mohawk Indian, who ordered him off the hunting grounds of the tribe. After a desperate struggle he downed the Indian and threatened to brain him. The Indian begged for mercy and promised fellowship, which promise he faithfully kept. Stephen was Major and Lieutenant Colonel of the 2nd Regiment, Grenville Militia and saw service under General Brock at Fort Wellington in the war of 1812. From 1809 to 1817 he represented Leeds and Grenville in the Legislature.

Child by wife Sally:

ISRAEL, born 1808; died May 17, 1818. Int. Village Cemetery.
On the death of his father this Israel was adopted by his uncle Jarrad.

GARRAD, (Israel 31) born Shelburne, Vt., Oct. 19, 1789, died there July 18, 1866, and buried in Village Cemetery. Married first time July 1, 1810, Lucia Comstock, daughter of Levi, Sr., and Hannah (Bakon) Comstock, born 1791, died Sept. 23, 1829. There were no children by this union. Garrad married a second time Jan. 17, 1830, Eliza Roxilana (Harrington) Peckham, widow of Nathaniel Peckham by whom she had: Deborah Harriet, Dec. 12, 1818, and Adeline Amanda, Feb. 19, 1822.

Garrad's mother died when he was five years old and his father remarried, then when he was eleven his sister Lomira who had mothered him, married and went to Burlington.

By consent of his father he was then taken into the home of Levi and Hannah Comstock and they brought him up as their own with their two children, Lucia aged nine, and Levi, Jr., seven.

He was ambitious to be a scholar and a successful man and "Aunt Hannah" encouraged and helped him. In those days of barter, books were hard to come by and one day Aunt Hannah gave him a pair of her old shoes to tear apart and use as a pattern for a new pair. He made the new shoes with great pride, having tanned the leather himself, thus learning two good trades. His tanneries later were a source of wealth.

Aunt Hannah encouraged him to make a box of shoes of different sizes which he sold for good value to a store in a frontier settlement and with the money received he bought books which he studied, as did other pioneers, by the light of pitch pine knots in the fire-place.

He went to school only six weeks in his entire life but he attained an excellent education, liberal, scientific and cultural. His penmanship was especially fine. He obtained all the information available on agrarian problems; studied rotation of crops and erosion, set out hundreds of fruit trees experimenting with different kinds.

During the years 1800 to 1810 the old Burritt-Comstock brick house was built. The bricks being made from the clay found in the banks of the brook back of the house, hand made and sun baked. Garrad superintended the construction of the house and actually built much of it with his own hands. He married Lucia Comstock in 1810 and the house was practically completed at that time.

It was a beautiful home, set high. The double chimneys could be seen from the North and South on the lake and the pilots of the boats used them as a landfall.

From the front door was a magnificent view of the Lake and the Adirondacks and from the upper windows the Green Mountains could be seen over the rise of land at the East.

During the War of 1812 Commodore McDonough built and commanded a fleet on Lake Champlain. He was a guest of Garrad and Lucia. The northwest room on the first floor had not been finished at that time and was made ready for his use. His staff was quartered in the servants' ell and the buildings surrounding the house yard.

Garrad Burritt, his brother Reuben, and his brother-in-law, Levi Comstock, Jr., were among the volunteers of the War of 1812 on a request made for sharp shooters. He also aided Commodore McDonough in equipping and provisioning his fleet which lay at anchor in Quaker Smith Bay.

When the Flagship Lawrence was raised from Lake Erie March 1836, a walking stick from the officers' cabin was sent to Garrad Burritt in recognition of his services.

It had a buck horn head with four plates. The name plate has been lost but it is supposed to have had the name of the Commodore. The other three inscriptions are as follows:

"Taken from the Flagship Lawrence, March 1836."

"Com. O. H. Perry's Victory Lake Erie, Sept. 10, 1813."

"We have met the enemy and they are ours."

The cane always carried by Garrad is now in possession of David Burritt Montgomery, his great, great grandson.

Garrad was representative from the Town of Shelburne for two years from 1823. Postmaster 1828-1836. Chosen to represent Town of Shelburne in convention to pass on U. S. Constitutional changes proposed by Congress.

The above is taken from information given the compiler by Mrs. C. M. Shearer of Minneapolis, a direct descendent of Garrad which has proven of so much interest as depicting the life of those early pioneers that it has been thus freely used.

After describing the visit of Commodore McDonough and a later short residence of Garrad in the village and on Shelburne Point, she says:

"They then bought from the Comstock heirs their share of the original home built in 1800 and lived there the remainder of their lives. The son Andrew married and brought his wife there and their children, Charles and Frances (the writer) were born there."

Children:

i. LUCIA ELIZA, born Nov. 4, 1830; died March 10, 1935.

The records of the descendants of Giles and Elizabeth, while not 100 per cent complete, are nearly so. Those for the first five families lack, perhaps 25 to 50 persons for completion. All the others are complete. The records which follow show a total of 777 descendants of whom 145 are dead, and 632 living as this is written. 398 are males and 379 females. A total of 409 persons, 207 males and 202 females have married into the family. Of these marriages, 81 produced no children while the other 296 resulted in 776 children. The count by generations follows:

ELIZABETH PHELPS BURRITT
1791-1866

DESCENDANTS OF GILES BURRITT

Giles Burritt was unquestionably a man of deeds rather than of words. His name appears only very rarely in written records. Only in old dry census records, in dusty deeds in County Clerk's offices and in old wills and records filed in Surrogate's Courts is there to be found any mention of him. His achievements were that with his wife, Elizabeth, he reared a family of eleven children on poor land on a hilltop in Rensselaer County about twelve miles east of Troy; that he moved with all of them across the State to good productive land in Monroe County in Western New York and that he established five of his seven boys on other farms around him before he died at 66 years of age. All this required physical stamina, courage and determination to improve his lot and that of his family.

The birth and period of growing to manhood, 1788 to 1810, is quite obscure. He seems to have been born in the town of Stillwater or the town of Galway in Saratoga County, New York, on Oct. 31, 1788, the son of Eleazer and Elizabeth Smith Burritt. We know nothing of his boyhood. The only mention of him in any documents, during this period, is in the will of his father-in-law, Thomas Smith, made in 1800, who left him $25*. He had an older brother, Thomas, born in 1785 and a sister Mary of whom we know nothing.

Tradition in the family has it that the father of Thomas, Giles and Mary died when they were all quite young and that Giles was "bound out" to a neighbor or relative — possibly Thomas Smith — but there is no confirmation of this and as Eleazer died in 1805 and Giles would then have been 17 years old the story seems improbable.

Eleazer appears to have been a lumberman and to have operated a saw mill in western Saratoga County.¹ As is so often the case the son seems to have adopted the vocation of his father, for the next known fact about Giles is that he was the owner or lessor² of rights in land in the town of Grafton (near Sand Lake) in Rensselaer County on a part of the old Dutch Patroon Estate of VanRensselaerwyck. This may have been as early as 1810 or 1811, for Giles was married at Sand Lake in March 1810 and his first child, Bailey, was born in 1811. Here he operated a sawmill and hauled lumber and milled logs to the market in Troy. He must have raised cattle and wheat also for the Manor Ledger shows that he was paying rent² to the estate in wheat and cattle as well as sundries and cash from about 1813 to 1829. A part of this leased land was sold to Joel Hull³ in 1821 but all of it was not disposed of until 1838, several years after he had moved to Western New York.

In the meantime on March 15, 1810, Giles had married at Sand Lake, New York, Elizabeth Phelps,⁴ daughter of George Phelps of Windsor, Conn., and his wife, Evelyn Colby, who settled in Dutchess County, N. Y., early in the 18th Century. Later members of the Phelps family are found in Galway, Saratoga County, and this is probably where Giles met Elizabeth. How they came to settle on the hills near the headwaters of Poestenkill Creek in the southern part of the town of Grafton about eight miles from Sand Lake village, we do not know. It was here on a farm of about 150 acres on the southwest slope of a big rolling hill, with a wonderful outlook on this part of the world, that all their eleven children were born and successfully reared between 1812 and 1829. It was a comparatively poor farming country, well up in the hills (1400 feet elevation) and away from the normal flow of travel. When I visited the place in September 1939 all the buildings had been burned and only foundation walls and a luxuriant sumach marked the spots where they stood. The land was practically abandoned, but the views were wide and eye-filling.

It is easy to understand why Giles and Elizabeth and countless others left this unpromising farming country and migrated westward. There was both a push and a pull away from the hills of Rensselaer County. Rents were high and hard to meet (the ledger shows that Giles was behind in his rents), facts which were leading into the anti-rent wars of the late eighteen-thirties. There was little incentive to remain. At the same time the Erie Canal had just been opened (1825) and many Hudson Valley settlers were migrating westward to the areas west of Syracuse made available by the developers of the Phelps & Gorham and the Holland Land Purchases which were then rapidly being taken up. Tales of good timber, level productive land and of markets made available by the canal, were the talk of the day.

So early in the spring of 1831 Giles set out, possibly with one of his older boys, possibly with a party of neighbors, to explore this western New York country. Reaching Rochester he started west out the Ridge Road. At Parma Corners, eight miles west, either attracted by the vast stretches of timber below the high Ridge Road, which must have interested the lumberman, or to visit friends and neighbors who had preceded him, he turned north on the Parma road and stopped at what later came to be called Burritts Corners. Here he soon acquired the title to his first farm in Monroe County which became the Burritt homestead. In 1833 he went back for the remainder of his family, temporarily left behind at Sand Lake. Early in that year, driving a team of horses and a team of oxen he transplanted and established his large family in their new home.

We have noted the tendency of Giles as well as his father to move about from Connecticut to Saratoga, to Rensselaer, to Monroe Counties, New York. This was, perhaps, characteristic of the post-revolutionary period and of the period of expansion. Another characteristic of Giles was his love of the land. In all his moves his face was always toward new and more land and never toward the cities. This love of the land he sought to perpetuate in his sons. When they came of age and married he helped establish them, every one, on the land. He early adopted a policy of starting off each son with one thousand dollars, usually already invested in a farm, and a team of horses. This he did for all seven of his boys, as well as helping the husbands of his daughters to acquire farms. Several of his sons have followed this example.

So it came about that when the pioneer died in 1854, the greater part of his family was settled on farms immediately about him, mostly on the same road—the Burritt road. Bailey was on the homestead, Sylvester across the road,

Stephen, Thomas and Seeley, Elizabeth, Polly and Malinda nearby. Only two went elsewhere to farm—William to Michigan and Giles, Jr., to Missouri. Now our esteemed and respected progenitor lies buried in the Parma Cemetery surrounded by these same children—only William is absent—and many grand-children. We have no record of his thoughts, his desires, his hopes or his disappointments; only of his deeds. He must have had an adventurous, pioneer spirit; he must have had great energy and determination; he must have been a devoted husband and father; he probably was otherwise a plain man, an average farmer. He left no other records of his deeds except his children and his land. It is enough if they carry on with his spirit and his foresight and determination.

SOME BURRITT GEOGRAPHY

All of Giles Burritt's eleven children were born and most of them spent their childhood in the town of Grafton, Rensselaer county. The homestead on which Giles settled about 1910, was located just north of the Grafton-Sand Lake town line on a hill at elevation about 1400 feet, near the headwaters of the Poestenkill Creek about 10 miles due east of Troy. The village and post office of Sand Lake was about six miles south west, in the town of Sand Lake.

The farm house and barns, burned several years ago and now marked only by stone walls and sumach bushes, were located on the southwest slope near the top of the hill with a wide sweep of view to the west and south and east. Below in the creek valley at elevation about 1250 feet was the saw mill the operation of which and sale of logs and lumber in Troy was Giles' chief occupation, along with farming. The country was described as "mountainous, broken and heavily wooded," with lumbering as the chief industry, and the soil as "indifferent, stoney and uneven," covered with timber, "hemlock, beech, and maple, poorly watered."

Removing to Parma, Monroe County, New York, in the early 1830's, soon after the opening of the Erie Canal, Giles reared 10 of his 11 children to manhood and womanhood on the Burritt Homestead farm located one mile south of Hilton, on the northeast corner of the Burritt road, known as Burritt's corners. He located most of them after marriage on nearby farms on this road, where numbers of their descendants still live.

The town of Parma is the second town west of Rochester in Monroe county, New York, Greece being the first. It is about six miles long and three to four miles wide and is bounded on the south by the town of Ogden, on the west by the town of Hamlin and on the north by Lake Ontario. About eight miles west of Rochester the Big Ridge road, which marks a former shore line of Lake Ontario and the southern boundary of the level plain extending northward to the Lake, intersects Route 136 extending from Spencerport in the town of Ogden seven miles northward to Hilton. The intersection is known as Parma Corners. Three miles north is Parma Center and one mile farther the road crosses the Burritt Road, extending east and west, and extends another mile to Hilton and thence four miles more to the Lake. Hilton was formerly known as North Parma.

DR. ANTHONY B. (Dr. Anthony 35) born July 12, 1810. Married in 1830 Mary Hawley.

Children:

- i. BENJAMIN A., born 1839.
- ii. SUSAN, born Dec. 30, 1843.
- iii. FRANCES, born Jan. 29, 1846.

Dr. Anthony B. Burritt studied medicine with his father and with Doctors Abraham L. Smith and Joseph L. Tomlinson and graduated at the medical department of Yale College in 1832. Practiced in Woodbury Conn.

58

ELIJAH HINSDALE (Elihu 38) born April 20, 1794, at New Britain Conn. Died in Texas Jan. 3, 1838; married Oct. 28, 1826, Ann Williams Watson of Milledgeville, Georgia.

He learned the trade of blacksmith, and graduated from Williams College. He had a taste for mathematics and gave his attention to that science in order to become a surveyor. He established a boarding school at New Britain, Conn. Was author of an astronomical work used in schools, "A Geography of the Heavens," and several other works. He edited a paper in Georgia for some years and headed a small colony that went to Texas in 1837. He was a large man physically, commanding and dignified in appearance and address, a man of rare talent and worth, but considered somewhat erratic, which perhaps accounted for his stand in opposition to slavery while in Georgia and the wrecking of his newspaper plant there. He had five children.

59

WILLIAM, (Elihu 38) born July 8, 1805, at Stratford, died Dec. 11, 1837, married Clarissa Cole, May 5, 1826.

She was a daughter of John Cole of Berlin, Conn.

Had a son:

101. i. WILLIAM, born 1830.

60

ELIHU, (Elihu 38) born in New Britain, Conn., Dec. 8, 1811. Died in New Britain March 7, 1879. Unmarried.

Elihu Burritt was one of the most widely known and best loved men of his time. He rose from very humble circumstances to a position of world renown by his indomitable energy and ambition. His father was a farmer and shoemaker who raised a large family by close economy and hard labor. While a youth Elihu was apprenticed to a blacksmith and worked at the trade until he had mastered it. He was very fond of reading and spent all his spare time in study which he pursued away into the night using all his spare money for books and borrowing such books as he might, often walking many miles after work to obtain a coveted volume.

About the time his apprenticeship was completed his older brother Elijah, who had been sent to College returned to New Britain and opened a school.

He influenced Elihu to leave his trade and enter this school. Later he went to Boston where he could have the advantage of libraries and teachers.

Here he pursued his studies by himself, working at his trade of blacksmith at intervals to defray his expenses. He was offered help by friends to enter Harvard College but refused to compromise his independence. It was this spirit of independent thought and action that made him a leader of men whose influence was felt in all the nations of the world.

Because of his having used his trade to advance himself in this way, he has been given the sobriquet of "The Learned Blacksmith". He was a noted scholar, linguist, lecturer and reformer; but his greatest influence has been felt through his advocacy of universal world peace.

In 1848 he organized the "Brussels Congress of Friends of Peace," which was followed by annual congresses in Paris, Frankfort, London, Manchester and Edinburgh; and it was his influence through this society that averted war between England and America at the time of the northwest boundary dispute. One writer says of him, "His Vigorous philanthropy keeps his name green in the history of the peace movement apart from the fame of his learning."

He was Consul at Birmingham, England, from 1865 to 1870.

Some of his books are: "Sparks from the Anvil" (1848); "Olive Leaves" (1853); and "Chips From Many Books" (1853).

It may not be out of place to here append an article which appeared in a newspaper (The Bridgeport Standard of May 10, 1912) on the occasion of the celebration of his one hundredth birthday held on that date in Bridgeport.

BURRITT DAY OBSERVED

New Britain Honors Illustrious Son on Centenary of His Birth

"Bright skies and balmy spring breezes this morning ushered in Burritt Day, the biggest and best celebration ever held in New Britain. All New England through its delegates to the New England Peace Congress which is meeting in Hartford this week and whose session this afternoon and evening is in this city in honor of Elihu Burritt, the first apostle of universal peace, joined with New Britain in honoring her most illustrious son on the centenary of his birth.

From early morning until the parade started this afternoon the incoming trains and trolley cars were filled with visitors and at one o'clock this afternoon one hundred automobiles left Hartford with the delegates to the peace congress.

At 2:30 o'clock, the pilgrimage to the grave of Elihu Burritt in Fairview Cemetery was begun with the monster parade of school children, fraternal and religious societies and other organizations with floats representing scenes in Burritt's life or symbolical of international peace.

At the cemetery an international tribute was placed on the grave by representatives of twenty nations. First a woman placed a wreath of flowers on the mound and then a man placed the flag of the country that the wreath giver had represented. Principal Marcus White, of the State Normal School presided over these exercises and he also spoke briefly.

This evening in the Russwin Lyceum and in the First Church there will be held mass meetings addressed by Rabbi Stephen Wise of New York and ex-Governor Utter, of Rhode Island. A centennial chorus of one hundred voices will sing."

BAILEY, (Giles 56) born April 1, 1811 at Grafton, (Sand Lake) N. Y.; died July 8, 1892, at Hilton, N. Y.; married (first) Jan. 22, 1831, to Deborrah, daughter of Amos and Hannah Hull; born Oct. 16, 1808, at Sand Lake, N. Y.; died March 17, 1880, at Hilton, N. Y.; married (second) April 12, 1881, at Parma Center, N. Y., to Thankful Randall Collamer, daughter of Aaron and Olive Randall; born July 25, 1825, at Covington, N. Y.; died Feb. 25, 1909, at North Chili, N. Y. Bailey appears to have acquired the farm at the east end of the Burritt Road and farmed there until after his father's death. Later he turned over this farm to Seth Holden, who married his daughter Frances and returned to the old homestead which he owned and occupied until his death in 1892, when it passed to his son, Beverly. Bailey's thrift enabled him to assist each of his children in establishing themselves on good farms. He was a supporter of Genesee Wesleyan Seminary at Lima, N. Y., where he possessed a life scholarship. Bailey had six children.

Children:

Perhaps most prominent and pleasing among the memories (*) clinging to the old homestead located at what was locally known as Burritt's Corners, was the annual reunion at Christmas. Often others of the sons and daughters of Grandfather and Grandmother Burritt were there to join in the holiday festivities but Melville and his growing family seldom failed to be on hand. I recall very vividly the trip from our home, sometimes by horse and buggy, more often by horse and sleigh, to Grandfather's spacious house. He, Grandfather, Aunt Esther and Cousin Jessie DeLaVergne who lived with Grandfather and Grandmother had provided a full larder of Christmas dainties and had set up the Christmas tree in the spare bedroom that overlooked all four approaches to Burritt's Corners. And how vividly I recall

Grandmother jumping up and down and clapping her hands joyously like a child, though she had already reached her three score years and ten, as she exclaimed, "Here come Mellie's folks. Here they are!" And Mellie's folks stayed for as long a holiday celebration as Mellie's duties as a pastor would permit. Another happy memory is the morning prayers that followed breakfast as surely as the sun rose.

Grandmother's larder filled with a great variety of well-cooked foods was not the only source of goodies. Whatever time we visited at Grandmother's there was always fresh fruit available—apples, pears, peaches, plums, grapes, berries in season and cherries, currants, blackberries, strawberries, gooseberries, and an ample supply of fresh vegetables in summer, for Grandfather's farm and garden were a just source of pride. His reputation as a good farmer was excelled by none and equalled by few. Before the days of scientific farming Bailey Burritt understood and applied scientific principles to farming — rotation of crops, keeping always sufficient stock, chiefly horses and cows, to produce ample fertilization of his fields. At regular intervals Grandfather, Grandmother and Aunt Esther drove the fifteen miles to Rochester to exchange butter and eggs for groceries. These were the days before creameries when butter was made at home.

Grandfather Burritt was civic-minded, too. He was actively interested in maintaining in the community the best possible school in the little red school house which was located on a site taken from his farm. And he supported and encouraged the singing schools maintained in the school house during the long, dreary winter months. In the days when the school houses were utilized for religious services, the itinerant preacher and his family were welcome guests in Grandfather's home whose hospitality they shared.

It was one of Grandfather's cardinal principles to support all the regular church services. Only illness kept him from attendance upon the Sunday morning and evening services and the mid week prayer meeting at the Free Methodist Church at Parma Center. He always sat in the front row during the services. Nor did he neglect the Sunday School, which he attended regularly and in which he was a teacher for many years. Bailey Burritt was a pillar of his church and his pastor never had a more loyal supporter. Moreover, he lived his religion as all who knew him would testify. It was apparent in all his dealings with his fellow-men.

WILLIAM¹ (Giles 56), born Dec. 25, 1812, in Grafton (Sand Lake), N. Y.; died Feb. 3, 1892, at Big Rapids, Mich.; married Feb. 24, 1838, to Polly Townsend², daughter of John and Elizabeth Townsend, at Kendall, N. Y.; born April 4, 1808, at Ovid, N. Y.; died Feb. 3, 1889, at Big Rapids.

In addition to his early training as a farmer, William, second son of Giles, also learned the coopers trade. He must have had some of his father's adventuresome spirit and desire to try new country — a characteristic which may have been encouraged by his ambitious wife who was said to have been of southern descent — for he asked his father for the cash instead of the customary thousand dollars worth of land and a team of horses with which Giles sought to set each of his boys up in business, and soon after his marriage (about 1842) he set out for the then frontier wheat raising state of Michigan.

Settling on then moderately good land in Lapeer County in the eastern central part of that state, and being industrious he soon accumulated some property. It is related by his grand daughter³ that sometime thereafter, along with his son-in-law and neighbor Orville Compton, he became the victim of a clever swindler who sold them stock in a concern alleged to own patent rights for the manufacture of a churn. In this transaction both William and Orville are said to have lost all they had. This was a terrible crushing blow and greatly influenced William's future. With his sole remaining property — a horse, an ox and an old wagon, — he set out westward again to begin life anew. His proud

² Polly Townsend was first married about 1828, and was a widow when she married William Burritt. A son of this first marriage, born in 1829, went to Michigan with his mother and step-father and died there in 1902. He is buried on the family lot at Big Rapids.

but loyal wife Polly shared with him all the hardships of this pioneer life. This time he settled on poorer lighter land in Mecosta County in western Michigan. Here he cleared the land on a new 160 acre farm, where his son George Fred, and later his grandson Claude, have since carried on. He is buried on land he donated for the cemetery, the only son of Giles who does not rest in the home cemetery at Parma Center, N. Y. The walnut trees which he planted along the highway by his last home in Michigan, still grow there as a fitting memorial to this courageous, if disappointed, pioneer.

SEELEY, (Giles 56). born Nov. 29, 1814, at Sand Lake, N. Y.; died July 18, 1897, at Parma, N. Y.; married Jan. 1, 1835, to Sophia, daughter of Matilda and Joseph Amidon of Sand Lake, N. Y.; born Jan. 21, 1817; died June 14, 1884, at Hilton, N. Y. Seeley, like so many others of his family at the time, was a farmer and located about a mile from the old homestead. He was said to be industrious and thrifty. After the close of the Civil War, in his early sixties, he sold his farm and retired to the village. His son remembers him in his later years as a retired, country gentleman. He was exceedingly religious and was accustomed to attend all church services, both Sunday and week day at the Freewill Baptist Church at Hilton. It is said of him that on Prayer Meeting night he would invite all who might be in his household at the time to attend the meeting with him. If it was not convenient for them to go he would excuse himself and attend alone.

Children of Seeley and Sophia A. Burrett:*

MALINDA, (Giles 56) born Dec. 18, 1818, at Sand Lake, N. Y.; died Oct. 1, 1908, at Wayne, N. Y.; married July 30, 1836, to William Moreland; born July 13, 1813, at Milo, N. Y.; died May 19, 1889, at Allentown, Pa. Malinda was said to be a cheerful, jolly person. She was regarded almost as a mother by her younger brother, Sylvester. After marriage she lived away from home, mostly in the vicinity of Corning, N. Y., but she used to come back to Parma frequently. Malinda was of a religious turn of mind and often expressed herself in verse. She outlived her husband nearly twenty years.

Children of Malinda and William Moreland:

- 174. i. SEELEY, born Feb. 18, 1838.
- 175. ii. MARY E., born Sept. 25, 1841.

SYLVESTER, (Giles 56) born Dec. 7, 1820, in the town of Grafton, Rensselaer County, N. Y.; died at Hilton, N. Y., Dec. 7, 1900, at exactly 80 years of age; married on Oct. 31, 1846, to Eunice Barber, daughter of Nathan and Eunice

(Way) Barber of his native county, born April 1, 1825, at Sand Lake, N. Y., and died Sept. 8, 1905, at Hilton. Coming to Monroe county with his father and family when 13 years old, he was established on a farm across the road from the old Giles homestead on the Burritt road and there he spent the remainder of his life. The farms of Sylvester and his next younger brother Stephen adjoined and the two brothers were almost inseparable, exchanging farm work, visiting back and forth with their families and establishing their children on neighboring farms. It was said of him "he was a man of quiet spirit, industrious and frugal, of sound judgment and kindness of heart, possessing, perhaps more of the peculiarities and traits of character of his father than any others of his family."

Children:

- 177. i. ROSALIA E., born April 26, 1854.
- 178. ii. NEWTON S., born Feb. 25, 1860.
- 179. iii. LORETTA B., born May 15, 1865.

97

ELIZABETH, (Giles 56) born Dec. 9, 1822, at Sand Lake, (Grafton), N. Y.; died Oct. 3, 1854, of tuberculosis at Parma at age 32. She married Nov. 6, 1844, John Taber, son of Dennis and Thursa Taber, born May 26, 1819; died Dec. 8, 1900.

Although Elizabeth died young and had only two children her descendants are among the most numerous of Giles' children.

Her two children had 8 and 10 children respectively and their descendants number 95, of whom 89 are living.

Children:

- 180. i. EMELINE, born Jan. 23, 1845.
- 181. ii. HENRY GALUSHA, born March 6, 1848.

STEPHEN DAY, (Giles 56) born Nov. 3, 1824, in the town of Grafton, Rensselaer County, N. Y.; died at Parma, N. Y., Sept. 25, 1889. Married first time Oct. 8, 1845, Lavinia, daughter of William and Martha Cox, born Oct. 7, 1826; died April 25, 1879; married a second time, Anna, daughter of James Darwin and Betsy Chase, born April 30, 1847; died April 30, 1938, age 92.

Stephen came to Western New York with his father's family about 1833 and spent the remainder of his life there.

Set up in business by his father on a farm adjoining that of his older brother Sylvester, he was engaged in farming all his life. A good neighbor and citizen and an active church member. He was chosen to represent his town as supervisor in 1875 and at one time was nominated by the Prohibition party for member of the Assembly from his district.

Children:

- 182. i. DELNO COX, born Aug. 5, 1847.
- 183. ii. WILLIAM S., born June 11, 1851.

99

THOMAS, (Giles 56) born Aug. 25, 1827, at Sand Lake, (Grafton), N. Y.; died July 7, 1908, at Parma, N. Y.; married Dec. 6, 1849, to Frances Harriet, daughter of Bannister C. and Nancy Booth Newell; born Feb. 18, 1829; died Oct. 1, 1897. After his marriage Thomas acquired the farm on the south Hill road, about three miles from Hilton. The house is back from the road across a small stream. A great-great grandson of Thomas' brother Bailey now owns this farm. Here his family was born and reared. In 1870 he lost two of his children; Freemont, twin of Lamont, and Jessie, with scarlet fever. This was a blow from which his wife, Harriet, never fully recovered. After her death, his youngest daughter, who married William Unger, took over the farm, and lived there until about 1938. Thomas then went to live with his son, Ferdinand, at Parma Center, and died there in 1908. He was said to be a man of medium stature, of a kindly disposition, jolly and a good neighbor and farmer. He attended the Presbyterian Church.

Children:

GILES JR., (Giles 56) born Jan. 5, 1834, at Sand Lake, N. Y.; died May 15, 1891, at Chicago, Ill., and buried at Parma, N. Y.; married first time Jan. 10, 1854, Harriet M. Hicks who was born Feb. 4, 1836; died Jan. 21, 1863, at Parma. He married a second time, Dec. 15, 1864, Mary Jane Conradt, born Jan. 27, 1845, at Brunswick, N. Y.

Tragedy came early into the life of Giles Jr. While handling a gun, it accidentally fired over the crib of his youngest child and killed the mother when she was only 27 years old. After his second marriage, to change the scene and to help him get a new start in life, his older brothers Sylvester and Stephen helped him to buy a farm in Missouri, near Meadville. This was after the Civil War. These brothers made yearly visits to Meadville and aided Giles Jr., for many years afterward.

Children by first marriage:

CHARLES, (Lewis 64) born at Roxbury, Conn., Jan. 9, 1812; died at Rockford, Ill., March 12, 1886. Married at Auburn, N. Y., Jan. 18, 1837, Laura Maria Remington, who was born at Auburn Jan. 24, 1816, and who died at Rockford, Ill., April 8, 1878.

She was a daughter of Rufus (born in Connecticut, Oct. 17, 1780; died at Auburn, N. Y., Nov. 11, 1845), and Deborah (Olmsted) Remington (born at Ridgefield, Fairfield County, Conn., Jan. 22, 1786; died at Auburn, Sept. 4, 1834). (See Olmsted).

Charles Burritt came from Roxbury, Conn., to Cayuga County, N. Y., with his parents in 1833. As a young man he worked at farming with his father during the summer and taught school in winter. After his marriage he was for a time superintendent of the poor for Cayuga County and later formed a partnership with his brother-in-law Jacob Beach, in the operation of a "Furnace" and Hardware business in Weedsport, N. Y. They manufactured and sold, plows, cultivators, hand tools and stoves, which latter were a novelty at the time.

On the death of his partner he sold the business to his cousins, O. W. Burritt & Bro., and it is now being conducted under their name by members of the family.

It was soon after this that Charles and Laura Burritt came with their family to Rockford, Ill., viz. in the fall of 1855.

The family came by rail as far as Belvidere, about twelve miles east of Rockford, where they spent the winter.

Household goods and horses were shipped by boat from

CHARLES BURRITT

Buffalo to Chicago. Mr. Edward Sprague, a brother-in-law and the oldest son George, then fifteen years of age, coming with the goods and driving out from Chicago.

In the spring of 1856 they purchased the farm in the Town of Owen, Winnebago County, five miles north of the City of Rockford, where they made their home until their death.

This farm is still owned by a member of the family.

He served in different local offices, principally town clerk and assessor; was active in organizing the Congregational church at Owen Center, but later with his wife united with the Second Congregational church at Rockford where they remained active members during their lives.

Their children:

- i. LUCY ANN, born July 5, 1838; married Feb. 6, 1867, William N. Moore, who was born Dec. 24, 1839. They had two sons, Rollin, born Jan. 1, 1868; died about 1900; Alva L., born April 16, 1872; married Dora Miller, and have: Lee, Carle, Clara, Ruth. Live at Los Angeles, Calif.

SARAH ELIZABETH, (Bailey 91) born Dec. 13, 1831; died Dec. 17, 1888; married April 29, 1851, to Lewis H. DeLaVergne, born Dec. 6, 1824, at Amenia, N. Y.

Soon after Elizabeth's marriage to Lewis DeLaVergne, they moved to Albion, Mich., where all their children were born. Their married life, if not easy, was certainly eventful. Lewis had been one of the first to leave Parma, during the gold rush, and wanderlust was in his blood. From Michigan they went to Montana in a covered wagon, but later (about 1860) returned to live in Parma. During the Civil War Lewis again left home, this time for four years, leaving his family to live with her people at the old Burritt homestead. He sent her money, but she lost it in a bank failure at the time. When he returned he took up farming on the James Curtis farm, northwest of Hilton and west of Bartlett's Corners, where they lived until Elizabeth's death.

Children of Sarah E. and Lewis H. DeLaVergne:*

238. i. MANLEY, born July 1, 1853.

*Much of the data for this family was gathered by Mary Elizabeth DeLaVergne Northrup Miller (No. 356).

153

ESTHER ANTONETTE, (Bailey 91) born Oct. 6, 1833; died April 14, 1898; married about 1881 to Hart Smith, a farmer of Chili, N. Y. Ester was a graduate of old Ingham University at LeRoy, N. Y., and is said to have taught a private school, probably on the Seth Holden farm at the east end of the Burritt road while her father lived there. "Aunt" Esther lived with her father in the old homestead at Burritt Corners for many years, marrying late in life. No children.

154

MELVILLE COX, (Bailey 91) born Oct. 11, 1836, at Hilton, N. Y.; died Dec. 24, 1914, at LeRoy, N. Y.; married Aug. 28, 1866, to Miranda, daughter of Barton and Almira Flint Horton, born Oct. 17, 1838, at Sand Lake (Grafton), N. Y.; died Oct. 24, 1916, at Fulton, N. Y.

Melville was born about three years after the Burritt family moved to Monroe from Rensselaer County. He was educated at Lima Seminary, and after that became a minister of the Free Methodist Church in the western New York area. He occupied pulpits in many places in western New York until 1883, when he bought a farm in the town of Chili, near Chesbrough Seminary, in order that he might educate his six children there. He became a trustee of Chesbrough Seminary, and was an influential and respected, public-spirited citizen. In his later life he moved to LeRoy to be with some of his children who were then living there. Miranda, his wife, was an inspiring mother to her children and was respected by all. Some of the places where Melville lived and preached are indicated by the birth places of his children.

ELIZABETH SOPHIA, (William 92) born Jan. 22, 1843, in Oakland County, Mich.; died July 13, 1926; married in 1859 to Russell C., son of John and Mary Plass, born Sept. 7, 1836; died Jan. 16, 1919, at Romeo, Mich.

Elizabeth who early dubbed herself "Pet," by which name she was subsequently generally known, inherited from her father and grandfather the venturesome spirit which caused them to leave home and seek a new home in the west, and which carried her still further west. At the early age of 16 she married a man with the western urge, and soon after set out for Nebraska. This was in the sixties and during these pioneer years they suffered from cold and hunger. It is related by her niece* that on one occasion during a very cold spell, the supply of fuel became exhausted, and Pet decided that young Giles' precious sled would have to be sacrificed, for she said, it would be of more use to them as fuel. "How long will it keep us warm, mother?" asked Giles. "About four hours," she replied. "No," said young Giles, "We will die four hours sooner."

From the same source* we have it that the wish of Pet to re-visit the old home in Michigan was about to be gratified, when at last a prosperous year had been experienced. Her husband had gone ahead to Chicago with cattle which were to be sold there. Russell was to send money back to Pet so that she could join him and come on east for the anticipated visit. When owner and cattle arrived in Chicago they were met by the great Chicago fire, and the cattle had to be sacrificed and the trip home postponed. Later the Plass family moved to Kansas and finally to Oregon, where Elizabeth

CYRUS ADELBERT, (Seeley 93) born Dec. 10, 1851, at Hilton, N. Y.; died Oct. 30, 1935, at Honeoye, N. Y.; married in 1871 to Ida L., daughter of Henry and Jane Sage, born Feb. 5, 1854, at Ionia, N. Y.; died March 31, 1933, at Honeoye, N. Y.

*Cyrus was born on the homestead farm, where he spent his boyhood days working for his father. This placed him, during his youth in the time of the slavery agitation and Civil War in this country. He was too young to enlist in the army of the North, but it is said that during the last year of the war he attempted to enter the service as a drummer boy. He early wished to become a veterinarian. This desire was discouraged by his parents and he then secured a position in Phelps's General Store at North Greece, N. Y. In that period merchandise offered for sale was drawn by horse and wagon from Rochester. The principal medium of exchange for merchandise by farmers was butter and eggs. The merchant, in turn, sold or exchanged them for needed supplies in the general store. This was Cyrus' job for a few years. Later he learned the harness-maker's trade, which he followed until machine-manufactured harness replaced hand-made. This was about 1900. These early years were devoted to bringing up four boys and it required all the available money and energy to make it possible for the boys to have the necessities of life and a simple education. In 1906 Cyrus moved with his family to Ann Arbor, Mich., where he established the Smith-Burrett Private Hospital. At the same time he began some real estate operations on a small scale. These enterprises were continued until 1923, when both Cyrus and his wife, Ida, retired from active business and moved back to New York state, locating at Honeoye.

It is interesting to note that as soon as they were relieved from the responsibility of bringing up their boys, they began to accumulate property and funds made it possible for them to retire and still enjoy some of the comforts of life. Cyrus was affectionately known as "Dad" by a host of friends during his later years.

The mother, Ida, was gifted in art and during her lifetime produced a number of excellent paintings, particularly scenery and flowers. At the same time she became skillful in china painting. Many of her rare pieces of china and paintings are and have been enjoyed by her four children. Perhaps she showed some of her most valued characteristics after she was seventy years old, when she turned her attention to matters of human interest and literary attainment. During those latter years she became intensely interested and active in the Order of the Eastern Star, the women's organization of Masonry.

ROSELIA EUNICE, (Sylvester 96) born April 26, 1854, at Parma, N. Y.; died May 11, 1927; married Feb. 8, 1874, to Frank W. Rowley, son of Samuel and Elizabeth (Davis) Rowley.

He was born at Greece, N. Y., Oct. 21, 1852; died at Hilton, Dec. 1, 1914. The Rowleys bought a portion of her father's farm where they lived until 1903 when they built a home in the village of Hilton and moved there. They were active members of the church and for many years members of the Parma Grange of which Roselia served as secretary several terms. She was also secretary of the organization of the descendants of Giles Burritt; corresponded with many other branches of the family and began the record which now covers all the Giles branch of the family. The excellent records which she began inspired others to carry on after her.

Children of Roselia Eunice and Frank Rowley:

LORETTA, (Sylvester 96) born May 15, 1865, in Parma; married Jan. 12, 1887, William W. Williams, M. D., son of Benjamin and Mariette (Barber) Williams of Waterport, N. Y. He was born at Waterport Oct. 6, 1853; died at Hilton, Oct. 19, 1919. Dr. Williams practiced medicine and surgery in and around Hilton for more than thirty-five years, much of the time before the days of improved roads. He wore himself out in the service of the community where he was relied upon and esteemed by all. He acquired many farms which he managed in connection with his extensive practice. Loretta was ever his faithful aide and abettor. Like her sister she has been and is greatly interested in the descendants of her grandfather Giles and upon her sister's death she took over and added to the family records. Her aid in compiling this record has been invaluable. More or less confined to her home in later years, her wide acquaintance, keen personal interest and cheerful helpfulness, have made her home a mecca for hundreds of old friends whom she and the doctor have helped.

Children of Loretta B. and William W. Williams:

- i. CHESTER BURRITT, born Hilton, July 30, 1891; married first Oct. 20, 1913, L. Madelyn Simpson; second Feb. 26, 1926 to Dorothy R. Hickey of Rochester N. Y. A world war veteran, having served in the war as aviator in the U. S. A. He is assistant manager of the Rochester airport. No children.
- ii. RUTH LORETTA, born May 12, 1894, at Hilton; married in 1925 at New York City, James V. Ricci, of New York, son of Anselmo and Andelene (de Silvestri) Ricci, born Scopali, Italy, in 1891, and coming to this country with his parents when a child. Ruth is a trained nurse as well as a skilled X-ray operator. She was for two years before her marriage instructor of nurses at the Woman's Hospital in New York City, while studying at Columbia University. In 1935 she went to Naples and on to Ethiopia with a complete hospital unit which the Italian people of New York City donated. She served on an Italian Hospital Ship along the Ethiopian coast. She was with the first contingent of the Italian army to enter Addis Ababa, as a news reporter. She holds several Italian medals and decorations in recognition of her services. In June, 1938, she again went to Europe, landing at Gibraltar with an especially built automobile. She drove 10,000 miles in Spain during the war in that country, again as a news reporter. Then crossing into Africa, she drove Across Spanish and French Morocco, Algeria and Tunisia, to Libya and Egypt. Thence she shipped her car to Massua and in the next five months drove 13,000 miles in Abyssinia, touching the Blue Nile, the Red Sea, the Indian Ocean, Kenya, Sudan, British and French Somalia. Back to Italy in 1939, she visited Germany and Albania. Ruth remained in Italy until that country entered World War II, when unable to get home she took up Red Cross work. She has had a rich experience in the old world in revolution and has made a fine camera record of an almost unexampled trip. Dr. Ricci is a graduate of Brown, Harvard and Columbia Universities, and at present is director of gynecology and obstetrics at three of the leading New York City hospitals. He was captain in English Army Medical Corps during first World War. The Riccis are at home in New York City. No children.

MAURICE CHASE, (Stephen D. 98) born Feb. 4, 1883, at Hilton, N. Y.; married Aug. 9, 1911, to Estella May, daughter of Gilbert N. and Wealthy Buell of Bergen, N. Y.; born Feb. 2, 1879.

After finishing his preparatory training begun at the Hilton High school, at Genesee Wesleyan Seminary at Lima in 1902, Maurice secured his college education at Cornell University where he received the degrees of B.S.A. in 1908 and M.S.A. in 1910. Immediately after graduation he engaged in farm management field work for the United States Department of Agriculture in the northeastern states for three years. Then for a period of about three years he was editor of the New York Tribune Farmer, successor of Horace Greeley's farm page in the New York Tribune.

In 1914 he was called to Ithaca, N. Y., as director of Farm Bureaus for the State College of Agriculture and the State and Federal Departments of Agriculture. This new agency was developing rapidly and during the next few years Maurice was chiefly responsible for organizing and establishing the New York County Farm Bureau system and County Agricultural and Home Demonstration work in the state, on a sound and permanent basis. About 1918 he became Director of Extension at the New York State College of Agriculture, under the newly enacted Smith-Lever Extension sion Act, and organized the college extension service on the new and broader basis made necessary by the war and by changed economic and social conditions.

Having resigned this position in 1924, he returned to the active personal operation of his home farm at Hilton, where his father had farmed before him from 1845 to 1889. He continued farming for a period of nearly seven years, during which he also served as Comptroller of the large New York purchasing cooperative, the Grange-League-Federation Exchange, a term as President of the New York State Horticultural Society, and for a time as President of the Rochester National Farm Loan Association. During this period he was also Chairman of the Monroe-Orleans Council of Boy Scouts. In 1928 he was designated as a "Master Farmer" by American Agriculturist.

In 1930 he was appointed a member of the New York State Public Service Commission for a ten year term, by Governor Franklin Roosevelt, and reappointed for a second term by Governor Herbert Lehman in 1939. He was the first representative of farmers and the rural areas to be a member of the Commission. During this period the extension of rural electric lines has more than doubled. His office is in the State Office Building, 60 Court Street, Buffalo, N. Y. His residence is Beechwood Farm, Hilton, N. Y.

In 1932 he was called upon to take the presidency of the reorganized State Bank of Hilton, and has continued in that office until January, 1940, when he became chairman of the board. He is a Trustee of Cornell University, elected by the alumni in 1935 and again in 1937. Author of "Apple Growing," in 1912, and of "The County Agent and the Farm Bureau" in 1922. With the assistance of Elton Holden he gathered and compiled the data for this record of the Giles Burritt family.

Estella is a graduate of Brockport Normal school and studied one term in the Cornell summer school. She taught in the Hilton High school for several years. In recent years she has given much attention to adult education and has conducted many discussion groups for the Home Bureau and other local groups. She is a local leader of the Tuberculosis Association and of other social and educational local organizations.

FANNIE A. DE LA VERGNE, (Sarah Elizabeth 152) born Aug. 21, 1854, at Albion, Mich.; died Sept. 7, 1938; married March 19, 1873, to Edwin A., son of Harry and Almira Dauchey Northrup, born Oct. 2, 1847, at Farmersville, N. Y.; died May 29, 1918.

They went to housekeeping near the town of Hamlin. About two years later they bought the west farm of R. B. Wood on the German Church road, east of the North Star school house. Land was high and the sixty acres cost them $5,000.00, but the house stood on a hill with two big horse chestnut trees, and made a pleasant home. The land was good and the young couple, filled with ambition, thrift and hard work, wiped out the mortgage five years after they moved to the place, and their only child, a son was born, but they brought up Elizabeth, the youngest child of Melville and Minnie L. DeLaVergne. In March, 1906, they moved to the village of Hilton where they bought a home and lived until Edwin's death in 1918. Failing eye sight made Fanny dependent in her last years, in contrast to her former, vigorous years.

Children of Fannie E. and Edwin A. Northrup:

345. i. MYRON L., born April 5, 1884.
- ii. ELIZABETH (by adoption No. 241), born Feb. 20, 1895. (See Melville).

The marriage by the Rev. William Ingleby took place at the home of Bailey Burritt, the old homestead in Parma, and they begun life together on a farm near Brockport, N. Y., where two children were born. After four years there, they removed to Hastings, Mich., and thence to Bellevue about 1884, where they purchased a farm which they operated until they moved into the town, spending the last twenty years of life there. They were life long members of the Methodist church and active in church and neighborhood affairs. They accumulated considerable real estate and stocks and bonds, much of the latter proving to be worthless.

Children of Jessie F. and Nathan F. Cronk:

- 346. i. FANNIE BELLE, born Feb. 24, 1881.

241

MELVILLE A. DE LA VERGNE, (Sarah Elizabeth 152) born Aug. 8, 1858, at Albion, Mich.; died April 29, 1937, at Geneseo, N. Y.; married first time, Jan. 18, 1888, to Minnie, daughter of Charles and Mary Lamb; born Aug. 12, 1862, at Covington, N. Y.; died March, 1897; married a second time, Oct. 28, 1903, at Wadsworth, N. Y., to Grace A., daughter of Myron H. and Mary H. Boyd, born May 23, 1872. There were ten children (five each wife) all born at Covington, N. Y.

After the family returned from Michigan, Melville lived with his grandfather Burritt at the old Burritt homestead, until his father returned after the Civil War, when he went to live with his family on the James Curtis farm, northwest of Hilton. In the little cobblestone church at Bartlett's Corners he joined the neighbor boys and girls for singing school and church on Sunday. At the death of his mother in 1888 he moved to Wyoming County, taking his father with him and took up farming there on a farm owned by Thankful Collamer Burritt. Here he met Minnie Lamb, the daughter of Charles Lamb, who at the close of the Civil War took up a grant of land from the government. They were married Jan. 18, 1888. Tragedy struck the family about a year after the birth of their fifth child, Elizabeth. Minnie developed consumption and in spite of her great determination to live, saying, "she could not die and leave her babies," she passed away in March, 1897.

Melville was a wise and loving father and for seven years he mothered the little brood of four. Then in 1903 he married again. This time the tall dark haired daughter, the eldest of Rev. Holly Boyd's nine children. Whatever her private misgivings may have been, no one ever learned what she felt in acquiring a family of four along with a husband. After this marriage, Melville with his family moved to the Lamb homestead. Here four daughters and a son were born. When they were old enough, Mell felt it advisable to be nearer a good school, and selling the farm to his son Judd, the family moved to Geneseo, N. Y. Mell found in his second wife a real helpmate and a fine mother for his older children. Her gentle manner and unselfishness made life very pleasant for the family. Her children developed much of her fine character. Failing health kept Mell from active duties in his last years and he passed away at seventy-nine. This is the life story of a man who had run a good race. He left behind, not vast riches, but a fortune in pleasant memories.

ELTON BEVERLEY HOLDEN (H. Frances 155) born Nov. 9, 1879, at Hilton, N. Y.; married, first time, Dec. 23, 1903, to Elizabeth H., daughter of Jacob and Ida Cosman, born Jan. 31, 1882; died Feb. 5, 1928, at Hilton, N. Y.; married a second time, Aug. 20, 1929, to Francelia M., daughter of Henry G. and Mary Taber (No. 181) at Canandaigua, N. Y., born June 20, 1891.

Elton has been a life long farmer at Hilton, first on the home farm at the east end of the Burritt Road and later on the farm of his father-in-law where he now resides. He is an active member and worker in the Hilton M. E. church and was sent as a lay delegate of his church to the general conference in 1924. He is also an active Farm Bureau member, and served the Monroe county association as secretary and president, each for two years. He is one of those quiet, efficient and dependable public spirited community workers, who are so indispensable when there is a worth while job to be done, whether it be church, school, farm bureau or other community enterprise. He has on several occasions shown real talent as a director of local pageants and in decoration and landscaping.

One of the Eltons' many interests has been in establishing and maintaining a permanent record of the Burritt family. As early as 1902 he was a member of a special family committee with Earl (248) and Carrie (246) Burritt which later gathered data which has been invaluable basic data in developing this present story of the family. The work that Elton has done in assisting to bring this record down to date, shows that his interest has not waned.

COMPTON, (Mary 157) born May 26, 1873, at Big Rapids, Mich.; married Jan. 8, 1893, Ulysess Grant Gilmore, born Mecosta County, Oct. 17, 1864, a farmer at Stanwood, Mecosta County, Mich.; died March 11, 1929, at Big Rapids, Mich. In the early days of William and his family in Michigan, because of her ability and liking for it, it fell to the lot of Eunice to write letters to the family in New York. She corresponded for many years with her Aunt Eunice (Mrs. Sylvester) at Parma. Having ventured into new country William was, of course, anxious to justify his decision and always insisted, Mrs. Gilmore relates, upon putting the best foot forward. A "chin up" saying of William came to be a family byword. "Tell them we have plenty of fruit," he would say, although this was apparently not the fact. Mrs. Gilmore has in her possession William's family bible with the births, marriages and deaths of his own family. The most treasured of these records in William's own hand writing is the original data of his own five children. Eunice now (1939) lives at 422 S. Warren Street, Big Rapids, Mich.

CLAUDE ADELBERT, (Cyrus A. 166) born July 13, 1878, at North Greece, N. Y.; married July 13, 1905, at East

DR. CLAUDE A. BURRITT

Bloomfield, N. Y., to Clara Virginia, daughter of Barton Scott Partridge, M. D., and Ella Clara Louise Harris, born April 24, 1879, in Norfolk, Va.

Claude was admitted to Syracuse University where he worked his way through college with such help as could be given by his father and mother. Following graduation from the literary college of the university he was admitted to the Syracuse University College of Medicine. After two years of study in that institution he transferred to the Cleveland Homeopathic Medical College, graduating in 1905. During his studies there he became assistant in the department of physiology and equipped the first physiology laboratory in that institution. That summer he married Clara Partridge who had just been graduated from Oberlin college. Immediately following graduation from medical college he accepted the position of instructor at the University of Michigan Homeopathic School of Medicine. During nine years at the University of Michigan, he was successively advanced to the position of professor surgery and urology and registrar of the college.

In 1914 Dr. Claude was made professor and head of the department of surgery at Ohio State University Homeopathic Medical College (with which the Cleveland Homeopathic Medical College had become affiliated), and also became dean of that college. He remained at Ohio State University for nine years until 1932, when the allopathic and homeopathic medical colleges of the University were merged. During that period the first unit of the University hospital and the Kettering research laboratory buildings were constructed.

During the World War Dr. Burrett was surgeon to the Student Army Training Corps of Ohio State University and was a member of the medical division of the Ohio War Defense Board. He was made a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons in 1915.

After three years of practice of surgery in Rochester, N. Y., from Jan. 21, 1923, to Dec. 1, 1925, he was elected dean, as well as professor and head of the department of surgery, of the New York Homeopathic Medical College and Flower Hospital. In June, 1939, he was appointed president of the college and hospitals. During his incumbency, that institution has become the New York Medical College, Flower and Fifth Avenue Hospitals, and includes the following: Flower, Hahnemann, Laura Franklin, Fifth Avenue, and the New York Ophthalmic hospitals. It has affiliated with it, for the purpose of clinical teaching, the Metropolitan and Willard Parker Hospitals of the City of New York, the Middletown State hospital, and the East Harlem Health Center, one of the units of the health department of the City of New York.

348

HENRY LAVERNE CRONK,* (Jessie 240) born April 12, 1888; died Aug. 20, 1938; married first time Nov. 24, 1913, to Lena F. Elston of Bellevue, Mich.; born March 15, 1890; died Jan. 4, 1929; married a second time Aug. 18, 1936, to Bertha B. Church, born Feb. 8, 1886. After graduating from the local high school Laverne attended Argubright Business college. Then he went to North and South Dakota, to Denver, Colo., and finally to St. Louis, Mo., where he worked in a foundry for a time. After a few years he returned to Michigan and worked for his father on the home farm which he eventually bought. His wife, Lena, was an energetic helpmate on the farm. After her sudden death from pneumonia in 1929 Laverne had the care of four young motherless children until he married again in 1936. Thereafter he left the farm for a time and became a salesman. He died in an accident due to a runaway team at the farm which he visited at every opportunity.

*Data for this family was furnished by Mrs. Carl Swanson.

Children of Henry L. and Lena E. Cronk:

- i. ROSALYN LENORDA, born Oct. 11, 1914; married Oct. 19, 1937, to Karl Emil Swanson, of Emmalunga, Sweden, born June 19, 1911. 1940 address, 15½ S. Wabash St., Battle Creek, Mich. No children. Rosalyn was a frail child and only 15 years of age when her mother died. While a housekeeper took care of the home and family, she finished high school, worked around at such jobs as she could secure and helped clothe the other children. After marriage she and Karl lived at the farm and were there when her father was killed. Karl is now a machinist at Kellogg's in Battle Creek, Mich. Both are fond of hunting and fishing. Karl is guardian of Harold and Fleta, and spends much time at the farm.
- ii. REX ELDON, born March 4, 1916; married June 4, 1936, to Clara B. Gardenier, of Bellevue. Rex was happy-go-lucky as a boy and got lots of fun out of life. He was brought up as a farm boy with the usual chores in the winter before and after school and plenty of hard work in the summer, but he found time for play and for trapping. After he finished school he worked for his father on the farm. After marriage he tried the job of salesman and then worked for the B. C. Bread Company, but he liked the farm and since his father's death he has operated it for the family. They now live there with his younger brother and sister. No children.
- iii. HAROLD LEON, born Dec. 9, 1920. Harold is the quiet one of the family. In 1935 he went to the W. K. Kellogg Foundation Camp. He has worked for Rex on the farm when not in school. He plays basketball, baseball and football, and is fond of hunting. His hobby is harmonica playing. When he graduates he plans to go west.
- iv. FLETA ROLENE, born Feb. 12, 1923; married Feb. 18, 1940, Harold E Selfton, of Coldwater, Mich., born June 20, 1919. Fleta was the "baby" of the family and an attractive favorite. Before her father's second marriage she carried much home responsibility, being the only woman with three men in the house. She was brilliant in school. Harold is a sound radio electrician. They will make their home in Coldwater, Mich.

349

MYRTLE EVELENA CRONK, (Jessie Freemont 240) born Feb. 12, 1892; married 1910 to Harry Miller of Bellevue, Mich. Address (1939) 444 Peterboro St., Detroit, Mich.

Child of Myrtle Evelena and Harry Miller:

- i. HENRIETTA, married first Jerry Alexander of Battle Creek, Mich.; Second, Charles McWain.

350

WAIVA ELNORA LOUISE CRONK, (Jessie Freemont 240) born May 21, 1902; married first time to Harry Jones; married a second time, Clarence Higdon of Battle Creek, Mich. Address (1940) St. Mary's Lake, Battle Creek, Mich.

Child of Waiva E. L. and Harry Jones:

- i. BRUCE, born 1926.

351

CLIFTON MANLY DE LA VERGNE, (Melville A. 241) born Nov. 22, 1888, near Perry, N. Y.; married Dec. 15, 1915, to Elizabeth, daughter of John and Margaret Brian; born March 15, 1895.

While still a very young man Clifton took over from his father the Thankful Burritt farm which the latter had purchased and where he and his four brothers and sisters were born. The young man prospered and was soon able to build a fine barn and afterwards a house to replace the ivy covered cottage, known to all the family as the "Little Red House." It stood atop a hill from which could be seen the little white church at Covington where the family worshiped, and by night the lights of Geneseo, across the valley. Perhaps it was from this peaceful spot — or was it from his religious mother — that he caught the idea of the good and simple life. Boyish in manner, always sincere, he was a good husband and a kind father.

Children:

- i. KENNETH BRIAN, born May 10, 1917.
- ii. ROBERT JUDSON, born Dec. 5, 1920.

352

MAUDE E. DE LA VERGNE, (Melville A. 241) born Nov. 30, 1889; married April 13, 1918, to Louis C., son of Lewis D. Howes; born June 23, 1889, at Wyoming, N. Y.

Maude was trained as a nurse and followed that profession until she married. Louis is a dentist and graduate of the University of Buffalo. He practices in Buffalo, N. Y., where the Howes now (1939) live. No children.

353

VERA MAY DE LA VERGNE, (Melville A. 241) born July 14, 1891. Vera is unmarried. Trained as a teacher in Rochester and at Geneseo Normal School she preferred to follow her profession in the little country school where she felt she could come closer to the heart of the child. Soft of voice and gentle in manner she early showed much of the strict religious character of her grandmother Lamb. Always devoted to her family she has carried much of its responsibilities.

354

JUDSON H. DE LA VERGNE, (Melville A. 241) born March 15, 1893; married April 15, 1916, to Cornelia F., daughter of James and Marietta Morris VanCise, born Nov. 22, 1892. After high school and a short course in horticulture at Cornell, an urge to see the country led him into the western states, and Canada where he worked in wheat harvest. He soon returned to the home country, married, purchased the old Lamb homestead, and became a dairyman. He has since extended his holdings by buying adjacent farms.

Children of Judson H. and Cornelia F. DeLaVergne:

- i. OLIVE VIVIENNE, born Aug. 19, 1818.
- ii. MARY ELIZABETH, born July 3, 1920.
- iii. DONALD JUDD, born May 11, 1927.
- iv. RICHARD F., born Aug. 10, 1931.

355

MARY ELIZABETH DE LAVERGNE (Northrup), (Melville A. 241) born Feb. 20, 1895; married May 15, 1917, at Hilton, N. Y., to Melvin A., son of Elmer and Lucinda Miller, born May 15, 1894.

As above noted Elizabeth's mother died when she was a baby. She had been temporarily taken to the home of her Aunt Fannie Northrup. After her mother's death her brothers and sisters wanted to see their baby sister so Aunt Fanny brought her back. When she prepared to leave, baby Elizabeth would not be left behind. So she went to live with her aunt and was later adopted by the Northrups.

For many years Elizabeth has kept the books and run the office of the Hilton Milling & Warehouse Co. Inc., of Hilton. Melvin works for the Clark Steko Company of Rochester, N. Y. Home (1939) Gordon Avenue, Hilton, N. Y. No children.

356

WINIFRED LOUISE DE LA VERGNE, (Melville A. 241) born Sept. 16, 1904. Unmarried. Although handicapped by deafness resulting from an operation at an early age, Winifred finished college at Keuka and became a dietitian in a Mercer, Penna., hospital. Later, believing that the climate would be better for her health, she went to Bennettsville, S. C., where she is following her profession. Ambitious, keen of mind and possessing a sunny temperament, she is fond of sports and motoring, and has musical talent on violin and piano.

357

MELVA F. DE LA VERGNE, (Melville A. 241) July 23, 1906; married May 29, 1937, to Charles, son of John Quincy and Dora H. Tripp of Albion, N. Y.; born Aug. 25, 1904. Graduating from Geneseo Normal School Melva went to Albion to teach. There she met and married Charles. The Tripps make their home in the old Tripp homestead which has come down to Charles through four generations since 1812. It is located just a mile from Albion and furnished with many fine antiques. Charles is engaged in the gas business in Albion. No children.

WILLIAM DENISON, (son of John Denyson, who was living in Stortford, Hertfordshire, England, in 1567, and died there of the plague in 1582.)

William was baptized at Stortford, Feb. 3, 1571, and was married to Margaret (Chandler) Monck Nov. 7, 1603. He was well seated in Stortford but hearing of the promise of the New England colonies decided to cast his lot with the Puritans there. His oldest son James was a clergyman and remained in England.

The parents with the three younger sons crossed the ocean in 1631 and settled in Roxbury, Mass., in 1634. Mr. Denison was deacon of the Roxbury church. He had been liberally educated and with him, as a tutor to his younger sons, came John Eliot who later became pastor of the Roxbury church and was known as "The apostle" from his missionary work among the Indians.

William Denison died at Roxbury Jan. 25, 1653, and his wife Margaret Feb. 23, 1645.

Children:

- i. JAMES, eldest son, remained in England.
- ii. DANIEL, born in 1612.
- iii. EDWARD, born in 1614.
- iv. GEORGE, born in 1618.

Second Generation

GEORGE DENISON, (William) born in Stortford, England, in 1618; died in Hartford, Conn., while there on special business Oct. 23, 1694. Married first time in 1640 Bridget Thompson, daughter of John Thompson, gent., of Preston, Northamptonshire, England, whose widow, Alice had come to America and was living at Roxbury. Bridget died in 1643.

George Denison then went to England and served under Cromwell in the army of the Parliament. He was wounded at Nasby and taken to the house of John Borodel where he was nursed back to health by the daughter Ann Borodel.

This John Borodel who was living in England at the time was a native of Cork, Ireland. Ann, the daughter, is said to have been remarkable for her fine personal appearance and charm. She was known as "Lady Ann". Some of her descendants still preserve samples of her needle work of which they are very proud. She died Sept. 26, 1712, at the age of 97.

The acquaintance of George Denison and Ann Borodel, led to their marriage and the return to America in 1645. They settled in Roxbury, Mass., where they lived until 1651 when they removed to New London, Conn., and finally to Stonnington, Conn.

He was a Captain in the Pequot wars where he rendered valuable service and finally rose to the rank of Colonel. There were nine children, the first two being those of Bridget Thompson Denison.

Children :

- i. SARAH, born March 20, 1641; married Thomas Stanton, Jr.
- ii. HANNAH, born May 20, 1643, twice married.
- iii. JOHN, born July 14, 1646.

JOHN DENISON, (Capt. George) born July 14, 1646; died in 1698; married Nov. 26, 1667, Phoebe Lay who was born in 1650 and died in 1699. She was the daughter of Robert and Sarah Lay of Saybrook, Conn.

The marriage contract or deed of settlement arranged between their parents is recorded in Saybrook. By its terms, the respective parents conveyed to John Denison and Phoebe Lay, the farm granted to Capt. George Denison near the mouth of Mystic River in Stonnington, and the house and land in Saybrook which Mr. Lay had formerly bought of John Post.

They settled on the farm "near the mouth of Mystic River". He was known as "Capt. John Denison" and held a prominent position in Stonnington.

Children:

- i. JOHN, born Jan. 1, 1669.
- ii. GEORGE, born March 28, 1671.

- vi. WETHERELL, born Aug. 24, 1705.
- vii. ANN, born Aug. 15, 1707.
- viii. SARAH, born June 20, 1710.

Fifth Generation

DANIEL DENISON, (George) born June 27, 1703, was married to Rachael Starr Nov. 14, 1726, and lived in New London. He died previous to 1760 and his widow married Col. Ebenezer Avery of South Groton, who had twelve children by his first wife, Lucy Latham, who was born May 21, 1709, daughter of Jonathan Latham.

Rachael Starr Denison had ten children by her first husband. One of these, Daniel Jr., married Col. Ebenezer's daughter Katherine previous to his mother's second marriage and her daughter Phoebe, married his son, Ebenezer Avery, Jr. Rachael died in 1791 aged 86 years.

Children:

- i. MARY, born Aug. 19, 1728.
- ii. DANIEL, born Dec. 16, 1730.
- iii. THOMAS, born Nov. 4, 1732.

- viii. PHOEBE, born Sept. 18, 1743.
- ix. JAMES, born April 18, 1746.
- x. ELIZABETH, born Nov. 19, 1748.

Following are ancestors of Rachael Starr Denison.

DR. COMFORT STARR, died 1658. Wife Elizabeth.

DR. THOMAS STARR, married Rachael ———.

SAMUEL STARR, born in 1640; died 1688; married Dec. 23, 1664, Hannah Brewster who was born Sept. 3, 1641. She was a daughter of Jonatham and Lucretia (Oldham) Brewster and granddaughter of William and Mary Brewster who came to America on the Mayflower.

THOMAS STARR, born Sept. 27, 1668; died Jan. 31, 1711-2; married Jan. 1, 1693, Mary Morgan who was born March 20, 1670. She was a daughter of James and Mary (Vine) Morgan.

RACHAEL STARR, born Sept. 15, 1705; married Nov. 14, 1726, Daniel Denison. All descendants of this Daniel Denison and Rachael Starr Denison are thus descended from William and Mary Brewster of the Mayflower.

Sixth Generation

DANIEL DENISON, JR., (Daniel) born in New London, Dec. 16, 1730; died 1783. Married July 1, 1756, Katherine Avery who was born in 1737; died 1825. Daughter of Col. Ebenezer and Lucy (Latham) Avery.

They lived in New London until 1771 when they moved to Stephentown, Renssalaer county, N. Y.

By act of the legislature he was appointed one of the commissioners to adjust boundary disputes between the settlers. From a memorandum book which he kept is found this item: "June 1771, I moved into this county from New London and brought with me nine children."

Children:

DRAKE

The family of Drake is of very ancient lineage, the tradition being that the name originated from a noble Roman family called "Drago" or the "Dragon" and that a member of the tribe came to England with Julius Caesar at the time of the Roman conquest.

The Coat-of-arms displays a Wivern, a sort of Dragon on a silver shield. The crest an arm extending a battle-axe.

The motto is "Aquali Non Captat Muscas," an eagle does not capture flies.

The original home of the family was Mount Drake which had been the site of an early Roman fortress. It was built sometime in the 14th century and rebuilt perhaps 100 years later. Situated in the county of Devon on a commanding hill and surrounded by about one hundred acres of land. Later the family acquired by marriage, the House of Ashe which afterwards became a favorite residence. It was situated in the parish of Musbury, county of Devon.

JOHN DRAKE, Esq., of Mount Drake and Exmouth, in the county of Devon, "a man of great estate and a name of no less antiquity," says Prince in his "Worthies of Devon," married in the time of Henry V (1413-22 A. D.) Christiana, daughter and heiress of John Billett of Ashe. By this alliance the estate of Ashe, in the parish of Musbury, came to the Drake family, and was handed down from father to son for fully 400 years, although the most usual residence was Mount Drake, a mansion previously built by them in the same parish and undoubtedly the original home of the Drakes, they having occupied it before the coming of William the Conqueror. This John Drake, or, possibly his father was reported in Exmouth in 1360.

At the death of John, his widow married a second time, Richard Francheney, thus unlawfully excluding from the estate of Ashe her son John Drake (2). She had Christopher Francheney, who had Richard, who was the father of Simeon, from whom John Drake, (5) by a suit at law, recovered Ashe, which had been so long unjustly withheld from his father, grandfather and great grandfather.

JOHN DRAKE, numbered in the hundred of East Budleigh, Devon. On the marriage of his mother, he settled in Otterton, about sixteen miles from Ashe. He married Christiana, daughter and heiress of John Antage, and had:

JOHN DRAKE (3) of Otterton, who married a daughter of John Crews or Cruwys, representative of Crews Morehard, an ancient saxon family of importance, their name occurring frequently in the old Devonshire rhyming legions concerning the Saxon families who were prominent before the coming of William the Conqueror. This John was succeeded by his son:

JOHN DRAKE (4), of Otterton, in the county of Devon, Esq., who by his wife Agnes, daughter of John Kailway, had:

- i. JOHN, his heir.
- ii. JOHAN, who married William Poole.
- iii. ROBERT, second son.
- vi. GILBERT, third son.
- v. THOMAS, of Herford, in the county of Devon, who married Ellin, daughter of Bennet Hillen of Fenawtrie, by whom he had six children as given in "Visitations of Devon," page 292. His descendants live in Herford, Whytecombe Raleigh, Colebrooke, and Musbury.

JOHN DRAKE (5) Esq., of Ashe, Exmouth, in the county of Devon, having recovered Ashe, as before stated, married Margaret, daughter and heiress of John Cole of Rill, in the parish of Whytecombe Raleigh, Devon, near Exmouth, which he gave, together with the Manor of Whyte-combe to a younger son, John, whose daughter and heiress brought it to her husband, Thomas Raymond of Chard.

John had issue as follows:

- i. JOHN, his heir.
- ii. JOHN, second son, mentioned by Sir William Poole as a "great Russian merchant."
- iii. ALICE, who became the second wife of Walter Raleigh, the father of Sir Walter Raleigh.
- iv. GILBERT, third son, of Pratshead, parish of Littleham, County of Devon.

JOHN DRAKE (6), of Mount Drake, Ashe and Exmouth, High Sheriff of Devon in the time of Queen Elizabeth. He married in the 26th year of Henry VIII. (1535) Amye, daughter of Roger Greenville of Stow, Cornwall, the ancestor of the Rt. Hon. Earl of Bath. He died Oct. 4, 1558. He and his wife were buried in the parish of Musbury, where still may be seen their tomb bearing their effigies, with the following inscription:

"HERE LIETH THE BODY OF JOHN DRAKE OF AISH ESQ. AND AMIE HIS WIFE WHO WAS THE DAUGHTER OF Sr. ROGER GRAYNEFIELD Kt. BY WHOM HE HAD ISSVE SIX SONS WHEOF LIVED THREE AT HIS DEATH. VIZ BARNARD ROBERT AND RICHARD. HE DIED THE 4 o OCTOBER 1558 AND SHE DIED THE 18th OF FEBRVARIE 1577."

Children:

- i. SIR BARNARD, Knight.
- ii. ROBERT of Wiscomb in the parish of Southleigh, Devon.
- iii. RICHARD of Esher, born 1535, equerry to Queen Elizabeth, died July 11, 1603.

SIR BARNARD DRAKE, (7) Knight, of Mount Drake and Ashe in Devon. Knighted at Greenwich Jan. 9, 1585. He was a very distinguished person and "employed in several great offices at sea," being much in favor with Queen Elizabeth, who conferred honor of knighthood upon him.

Prince, in his "Worthies of Devon" pp. 328-329, says of him: "I find him to descend down to us under a very honorable character. That he was a gentleman of very rare and excellent accomplishments, as well as qualified for a soldier and courtier. He was in great favor with the illustrious Princess of immortal memory, Queen Elizabeth. and of high esteem in her courts. . . . That Sir Barnard Drake, a Devonshire Knight, came to Newfoundland with a commission, and having divers good ships under his command he took many good Portugal ships and brought them into England as prizes. And for his great undertaking this way he is ranked second among the great sea captains of our country in his time, than whom no age before or since can boast a greater." He is said to have "nobly expended" . . . for the honor and safety of his country, in the discovery of foreign countries and such other virtuous achievements as purchase glory and renoun," so as "greatly to have exhausted his estates." Sir Barnard's last exploit was while England was at war with Spain, when, having been at sea, on his return he took a large Portugal ship, which had for a long time been hovering up and down the coast and brought her into the harbor of Dartmouth, which action, "how brave soever it might be, proved fatal to himself and many other persons of quality."

The story is that these Portuguese seamen were brought to trial for piracy and that Sir Barnard together with other magistrates sat on the bench. Suddenly there arose such a noxious odor in the court room that everyone was obliged to leave immediately and all were stricken with a most terrible illness from which not one recovered.

If the story was somewhat overdrawn, it is probable that there was some sort of plague, perhaps cholera, on the ship and that it proved quickly fatal to these Englishmen.

He died in the house of Ashe April 10, and was buried April 12, 1586, in the parish of Musbury, county Devon, where his monument, bearing his effigy still stands, on which is the following inscription:

HEER IS THE MONVMENT OF Sr BARNARD DRAKE Kt

There is also a monument to Sir Barnard Drake in the present Filleigh church, built after the destruction of an older edifice.

By his wife Gertrude Fortescue, of the great Norman house of Fortescue, a descendent in the fifth generation of Sir John Fortescue, Chief Justice of the King's bench under Henry VI and Lord Chancellor, and daughter of Bartholomew Fortescue of Filleigh, near South Moulton in Devonshire. Sir Barnard had:

- i. JOHN, his heir.
- ii. HUGH, died in Portugal 1589, without issue.
- iii. MARIE, first daughter, married to Mr. Tynsley of County Lincoln.
- iv. MARY, second daughter, married John Sherman of St. Marie, Awtrie.
- v. ELEANOR, third daughter, married John Button of Wilts.

JOHN DRAKE, (8) of Mount Drake and Ashe, buried April 11, 1628. He married Dorothy, daughter of William Button of Ashton in Wiltshire. He was buried in the parish church of Musbury where his tomb may still be seen bearing the effigies of himself and wife and with the following inscription:

"JOHN DRAKE ESQ. BVRIED HERE Ye 11 OF APRILL 1628. DOROTHY DRAKE HIS WIFE BVRIED HERE Ye 13th OF DECER 1631."

His will was dated Jan. 16, 1620-1, probated May 29, 1628. Her will dated Dec. 7, 1631, probated Jan. 13, 1632.

They had issue as follows:

- i. MARY, married Sir Henry Rouswell of Ford in Devon, buried in Musbury, Nov. 4, 1643.
- ii. SIR JOHN, Knight of Ashe.
- iii. WILLIAM of Yardbury, second son. Ancestor of American branch.

SIR JOHN DRAKE, (9) of Ashe, in Devon died August, 1636, and buried in Musbury. He married May 18, 1616, at Giles in the Field, county of Middlesex, Elinor or Helen, daughter of Sir John Butler or Boteler, baronet. He died Oct. 4, 1666, and was buried in Holyrood church Southampton.

- xi. THOMAS, third son, unmarried.
- xii. HENRY OF AXMINSTER, twice married, and had six children. Charles, Richard, and four daughters.

WILLIAM DRAKE (9) of Yardbury in the parish of Colyton, second son of John Drake Esq. (8) buried in the Temple church, London. His will dated Nov. 2, 1636, probated Feb. 29, 1639-40. Married Margaret, daughter and heiress of William Westover, of Colyton, marriage license dated Nov. 14, 1620, buried April 16, 1635, at Colyton.

The Drake-Westover monument in the chancel of St. Andrews church, Colyton, has the following inscription:

"HERE LIES Ye BODY OF W. DRAKE OF YARDBVRY, SON OF W. DRAKE OF YARDBVRY, WHO WAS BVRIED IN Ye TEMPLE CHURCH, LONDON, AND WAS Ye SON OF JOHN DRAKE OF ASHE ESQ."

"THE MOTHER OF THE SAID WILLIAM DRAKE, THE SON, WAS MARGARET, THE SOLE DAUGHTER AND HEIR OF WILLIAM WESTOVER OF YARDBURY, GENT, AND ELIZABETH HIS WIFE. HE DIED MARCH Ye 6, 1680, IN Ye 51 YEARS OF HIS AGE."

"HERE ALSO LIE RICHARD, LAETITIA AND DORITHY, THREE OF HIS CHILDREN."

This as will be seen marks the burial place of William, Jr., who is shown among the children:

- i. JOHN, baptized March 26, 1623, Colyton.
- ii. DOROTHY, baptized March 26, 1623, in Colyton.

viii. THOMAS, baptized Sept. 13, 1635, in Colyton. Emigrated to America and settled in Weymouth, Mass.

DRAKE

First Generation

THOMAS DRAKE was born in Colyton, county Devon, England, where the parish register still shows the record of his baptism on Sept. 13, 1635. He was the youngest son of William Drake Esq. of Yardbury in Colyton.

Thomas Drake, his father and mother being both dead, followed his relative, John Drake of Taunton, Mass., and Windsor, Conn., to America about 1653-4. He was accompanied by his sisters Joan, who married Thomas Randall, and Elizabeth, who married Ezekial Hamlin of Boston, Aug. 8, 1654.

Thomas Drake soon settled in Weymouth, Mass., his name first appearing on the records of that town in a list of property owners in 1663, in which he is described as owning "Lot 70 containing six acres in 1st division begininge on Brauntry Lyne" and eighteen acres, Lot 33 in second division. Prior to that, the latest list of land owners noted was that of Nov. 26, 1651, in which his name does not appear; hence he settled in Weymouth after 1651 and before 1663. The frequency with which his name appears on the land deeds and war records of the time shows that Thomas Drake took active part in the affairs of the town. His name appears as witness of Deeds Dec. 15, 1664, and three years later he was a member of the Suffolk Troopers. He took active part in King Philip's war, and June 24, 1676, was a member of the garrison at Punckapouge where he saw at least two months service.

Plymouth county deeds record large purchases of land by him on July 20, 1682, near the Taunton river in Freetown, half of which land he sold June 12, 1688, to Ralph Paine of Rhode Island.

He died in Weymouth 1691, and his estate settled in 1692 valued at £237-2s-2d., a considerable sum at that time.

Thomas was twice married, his first wife being Jane Holbrook, daughter of Thomas and Jane Holbrook of Weymouth.

His second wife was widow Milicent Carver, daughter of William Ford, whom he married March 9, 1681.

Children:

- i. THOMAS, born at Weymouth, about 1657; died Aug. 19, 1728, without issue.
- ii. JOHN, born March 12, 1659 (Weymouth T. R.)
- iii. WILLIAM, born May 30, 1661 (Weymouth T. R.)
- iv. JOSEPH, born Oct. 28, 1663 (Weymouth T. R.)
- v. AMY, born Feb. 3, 1666 (Weymouth T. R.)
- vi. ELIZABETH, born in Weymouth 1670; died in Easton, June 14, 1748; married John Phillips and had six children.

Second Generation

JOHN, (Thomas 1) born March 12, 1659, in Weymouth; died Oct. 10, 1717, in Easton. John taxed in Boston 1681, also 1686. He married the first time Rachael ———, who had three children. He married a second time, Dec. 12, 1687, at Milton, by Rev. Peter Thatcher, Sarah King, probably born Jan. 31, 1666; died Sept. 4, 1727, daughter of Samuel and Experience (Phillips) King of Weymouth. John bought a share of land of Ephraim Hewett of Easton in April, 1702, and settled on it in 1703. It joined the Bridgewater line north of Stone House Hill and probably included what was known a century later as North Daily Place.

The remains of the cellar may still be seen, the massive door step, a good bulkhead way and other signs are indications of a well appointed house.

Children by first wife:

- i. RACHAEL, born Nov. 21, 1680.
- ii. MARTHA, born June 19, 1683; married March 21, 1702, William Bewley.
- iii. JOHN, born June 12, 1685; died young.

Children by second wife:

- iv. PRUDENCE, born Nov. 9, 1688; died Feb. 16, 1670, in Easton.
- v. JOHN, born Sept. 20, 1694; married probably June 25, 1719, by Dr. Cotton Mather, Esther Joyce.
- vi. THOMAS, reported May 4, 1718, when he and his brother Joseph sold their rights in their father's estate but he was dead before March 12, 1730.
- vii. JOSEPH, died at Easton, Oct. 26, 1780.
- viii. EBENEZER, an early settler in Easton being in business there in 1724. No record of family.
- ix. SARAH, married in Bridgewater, Oct. 8, 1734, to John Curry.
- x. SAMUEL, born about 1700, died in Easton.

Third Generation

JOSEPH, (John 2) born in Easton before 1717, died Oct. 26, 1780; married Mercy Smith, who died May 7, 1759, daughter of Samuel and Esther Smith of Taunton. He was a member of the first militia company of Easton, April 7, 1757, under Capt. Ebenezer Leonard. Aug. 27, of the same year, he enlisted in the company of Capt. Ebenezer Dean of Taunton, Col. Eliphat Leonard's regiment, which marched to the relief of Fort William Henry, Lake George, in the French and Indian war.

Children:

- i. JOHN, born Oct. 17, 1723; died Jan. 23, 1759.
- ii. MERCY, born July 17, 1725; married first Dec. 3, 1746, Nehemiah Randall; married second, Sept. 15, 1772, Daniel Littlefield.
- iii. JOSEPH, born Oct. 20, 1727; died Nov. 30, 1812.
- iv. JEAN, born July 15, 1730.
- v. HEZEKIAH, born Feb. 12, 1739; died Feb. 24, 1799.
- vi. THOMAS, born Feb. 12, 1739; died Feb. 9, 1798.

Fourth Generation

THOMAS, (Joseph 3) born Feb. 12, 1739, in Easton; died Feb. 9, 1798; married March 22, 1764, Mary Manley, born March 16, 1742, in Easton, died in Weybridge, Vt., March 31, 1839, a daughter of Ichabod and Experience (Phillips) Manley. Thomas started from Easton for Vermont with team and one son and died suddenly on the way, at Charlestown. The body was taken back to Easton for burial. Later the whole family moved to Vermont.

Thomas served as sergeant through the Revolutionary war, enlisting first Dec. 7, 1776, from Easton in Capt. Randall's company, Col. George Williams' regiment, serving a month in Rhode Island. We next find his name as sergeant on the payroll of Capt. Josiah King's company, Col. Daggett's regiment, Aug. 28, 1778, warrant to pay dated Jan. 31, 1783. On July 27, 1780, he enlisted in Rhode Island service. His next service was in Capt. Mathew Randall's company, Col. Abiel Mitchell's regiment, "raised agreeable to an order of the Great and General Court of the State of Massachusetts, June 27, 1780, to reinforce the Continental Army." This is undoubtedly the Thomas who was out at the Lexington alarm, in Capt. Macy Williams' company of "Minute Men" from Easton, April 19, 1775.

Children:

- i. ISAAC, born March 22, 1765; died March 15, 1830.

Their children were: Florence, born March 8, 1889; Edward Palmer, born Feb. 26, 1892; Lucille, born Jan. 18, 1903. He died at Kenosha, Wis., Feb. 18, 1939.

LEWIS

As early as the year 1000 A. D. this family is known to have lived in Wales and the name has been traced by given name, from long before the use of surnames through Elidm, second son of Lord Eyton; Meilor Eyton; Cadwgan; Gifford; Llywelyn; Madog; and finally Lewys as the name appears in the records of Glamorganshire.

EDWARD LEWIS, married May 8, 1550, Margaret Jones of Cardiff, Wales. He was Head Warder in 1574 and Capital Burgess in 1577.

- vi. HANNAH, born 1685.
- vii. MARY, born 1688.
- viii. MARTHA, born 1691.
- ix. BENJAMIN, born 1696.
- x. EUNICE.

BENJAMIN LEWIS, (Benjamin) born 1696, married Sarah De Forest, daughter of David and Martha (Blagge) De Forest, who was born Nov. 9, 1698. (See De Forest and Burritt 42).

LIVINGSTON

The family name of Livingston is derived from an Hungarian gentleman of the name of Livingius, who accompanied Margaret, sister of Edgar Atheling, and wife of King Malcome Canmore, from her native country to Scotland about the time of the Norman Conquest, 1066.

In the reign of David the First of Scotland (1124-1153), says tradition, Livingius received grants of land in West Lothian which was created a barony and named after the proprietor, Livingius' Town, later Livingston. This estate was transmitted through the descendents for nearly four hundred years, when in the reign of James I (1488-1513) Bartholomew Livingston, dying without heirs, the direct line became extinct. A co-lateral branch, however, in the meantime acquired wealth and consequence and it is from this line that the Earls of Linlithgow in Scotland and the Livingstons in America are descended.

In the reign of David II (1329-1370), Sir William Livingston, knight, marrying Christiana, daughter of Patrick de Calender, in the county of Sterling received the barony of Calender with her. His grandson, John, had Alexander, his heir; Robert, the ancestor of the Earl of Newburg; and William, progenitor of Viscounts of Kilsyth.

Sir Alexander, eldest son of John above, was, in 1437, on the death of James I of Scotland, appointed regent with Crichton during the minority of James II. Not long after, his property was confiscated and his son brought to the block. His other son, James, who succeeded to the barony of Calender, was created Lord of Livingston. He died in 1467.

The lordship appears to have been one of the more important baronies. William, the great-grandson of this James, Lord Livingston, married Agnes, sister or daughter of Sir Patrick Hepburn. Alexander, their oldest son, succeeded to the title. It was his daughter who was one of the "four Maries" that accompanied the Scottish Queen Mary to the French Court.

(See Mrs. Jameson's "Celebrated Feminine Sovereigns").

"Last night the Queen had four Maries
Tonight she'll have but three;
There was Mary Seaton, Mary Beaton,
And Mary Livingston and me."

Alexander was created Earl of Linlithgow in 1600. His second son was created Earl of Calender, who was also mentioned afterward in the title. These Earls distinguished themselves through five generations, more than a century, by attachment to the throne and the house of Stuart. In 1715 the Earl of Linlithgow joined the Earl of Mar. On the failure of that nobleman's enterprise, the former's title and estates were confiscated. The earldom was never returned as were some others. The heir to whom it was last offered declined "the barren honor."

From this ancient family of Scotland the American Livingstons originated.

Origin of American Line

Robert, second son of Lord William and Agnes (Hepburn) Livingston, was killed at the battle of Pinkie Field in 1547. He is called the ancestor of the American Livingstons.

John Livingston, his grandson, or perhaps his great grandson was the parent of Robert Livingston who was the first of the name to come to America.

This John was a minister, and was born in Monybrook in Stirlingshire, June 21, 1603. He married 1635 Barbara Fleming, daughter of Bartholomew Fleming, a merchant of Edinburgh. In 1630, while chaplain to the Countess of Wigtoun, he delivered at the Church of Shotts a sermon the eloquence of which produced an extraordinary effect.

Shortly after, he was called to the church of Killinchie, Ireland. Here he was harrassed on account of his non-conformity, and having a desire for liberty of religious thought, he embarked for Massachusetts Bay. His ship was driven back by adverse winds and he abandoned the attempt. In 1638 he was settled at Stencawer, Scotland. In 1658 he was one of the Commissioners sent to Breda, Holland, by the Scottish Church to treat with Charles II. In 1663, at the restoration, after refusing to take the oath of allegiance, he was banished and going o Holland, became pastor of the Scottish church at Rotterdam, where he spent the last days of his life, dying in 1672.

I

Robert Livingston, son of the Reverend John (1603-1672) was born Dec. 13, 1654, at Ancrum, Roxburgshire, Scotland, where his father had been preaching. He went to Holland with his parents and was a pupil of his father for the greater part of his education. Here he naturally became conversant with the Dutch language and customs. At the age of eighteen

Robert was left by the death of his father to decide his own future and influenced somewhat by his father's desire to go to the new country, he decided to go to America. Unlike his father, he is thought to have been more influenced by the hope for good business opportunities than for religious freedom. He made good use of these opportunities. In 1673 he came to America and acquired land near what is now Albany, ultimately approximating 160,000 acres. This tract of land lying on the east side of the river in what is now Dutchess County, N. Y.

This tract was secured to the Livingston family by Gov. Hunter in 1715, and was divided by will of the first Robert between two of his sons, Philip and Robert, the eldest son, John, having died before the death of his father. Philip, the second son, became the Lord of the Manor.

Several unsuccessful attempts were made to break up the estate, both by encroachments from the state of Massachusetts and by other attacks on the validity of the title. The law of entail was abolished by the Revolution, and as a consequence the extensive estate was divided fairly by the third Lord, Robert, among his heirs. Owing to continued disturbances, the proprietors finally, in 1844, sold the land to the tenants.

Robert Livingston married in 1697, Alida Schuyler, daughter of Philip Schuyler, and widow of the Rev. Nicholas Van Renssalaer.

Children:

- i. JOHANNUS or JOHN, born April 26, 1680.
- ii. MARGARET, born 1681; married 1700; died 1758.

- ix. CATHERINE, born 1698; died 1699.

CAPTAIN JOHN LIVINGSTON, son of Robert and Alida, was born April 26, 1680. When he was about ten years old, circumstances seem to have been such that he was left in the care of John Winthrop, then General of the Connecticut troops, for his education.

In the year 1690, the New York and New England colonies united their forces against Canada, from which French and Indians had issued and destroyed Schenectady, Feb. 8, 1690.

General Winthrop, in command of the land forces, with the rank of commander-in-chief, marched to Lake Champlain, but Indian auxiliaries failing, could go no further. Provisions were scarce and he was obliged to retreat to Albany for subsistence. The fleet was no less unfortunate, sailed too late, and found Quebec too strong for them. They returned home and the expedition was a failure.

The government of New York, greatly exasperated, attributed the failure to Gen. Winthrop, had him arrested and it was only by the adventurous friendship of the Mohawks under his command that he was freed. Winthrop's reputation in Connecticut was not diminished, the Legislature approving of his every act, and as we know, he later became Governor of that Colony.

John Livingston continued to live at the Winthrop home and married Mary, only daughter of Gen. Winthrop. He was one of the four first purchasers of Mohegan Reservation from the Indians. This tract of land lay in North Parish, New London. Here he had his country estate and continued to make his home, marrying as his second wife, Elizabeth Knight. In 1718 he seems to have gone to England on a business mission and died there Feb. 19, 1720.

This death was untimely and there was no Will and no record of the names of children but family tradition has it that he left a family and that among them was the son, John, of the following generation.

JOHN LIVINGSTON, said to be son of Capt. John, was born about 1615, married Martha ———, who died in 1768.

Children:

- i. JAMES, born May 23, 1741, at Wallingford, Conn.
- ii. JANE, born Oct. 1742; baptized same year.
- iii. MARY, born April 19, 1744.
- iv. MARTHA, born Dec. 5, 1745; baptized 1746.
- v. AGNES, born June 22, 1748; married Samuel Smith; died in Waterbury, 1770.

- vi. ABIGAIL, born March 17, 1749, at Wallingford, Conn.; married Daniel Seymour.
- vii. DANIEL, born June 22, 1752, baptized at Meriden.
- viii. A child baptized in 1754.
- ix. ISAAC, born Jan. 27, 1755.

ISAAC LIVINGSTON, son of John and Martha above, was born Jan. 27, 1755, married Ann Jackson, who was born 1763 and who died in 1836. Isaac died in 1823.

Isaac Livingston enlisted for service in the Revolutionary War first under Capt. Couch of Meriden, Conn., as soon as news of the battle of Lexington reached there. They were out only seven days, time to go to Boston and back. He then joined the regiment raised in first call for troops by the legislature in April or May 1775, Seventh Company, under Capt. Isaac Cook, Jr.

Took part in operations along Lake George and Lake Champlain under Gen. Schuyler; assisted in reduction of St. Johns in October and was afterwards stationed at Montreal. Discharged Oct. 17, 1775. He enlisted in Bradley's Battalion, Wadsworth Brigade under Capt. John Couch of Meriden, Conn., June 25, 1776. Discharged Jan. 19, 1777. He enlisted again for three years, May 17, 1777, in the Eighth Regiment of the "New Connecticut Line." He was sergeant under Col. John Chandler of Newton, in Capt. David Smith's Company. Discharged May 10, 1780. Evidently began service again Dec. 25, 1780, as "Connecticut Men in the Revolution" page 345 has this entry "Paid from Dec. 25, 1780, to Dec. 31, 1781. Held the rank of Sergeant." Also in list of pensioners, page 635.

In this last service he was in Fifth Regiment, Connecticut Line Formation of 1781 to 1783 which was composed of the First and Eighth regiments of the previous formation, with Lieut. Col. Isaac Sherman of New Haven, Capt. Sam'l Comstock's Company.

The movement of that part of the army of which he was a member is recorded as follows: Went into field at Camp Peekskill in the spring of 1777 under Gen. McDougall. Fought at Germantown and his detachment defended Fort Mifflin, Mud Island, Penn., Nov. 16, 17, 1777. Wintered at Valley Forge, '77 and '78 and on June 28, following, fought the battle of Monmouth. Encamped during the summer at White Plains, Huntington Brigade. Wintered '78 and '79 at Redding, Conn. Engaged in storming Stony Point, July 15, '79. Wintered '79 and '80 at Morrison Heights, N. J. Summer of '80, main army on the Hudson. Wintered '80 and '81 at Camp Connecticut Village. (pp. 231 "Connecticut Men in Revolution").

OLMSTED FAMILY

Olmsted Family Genealogies by Henry King Olmsted, revised and completed by Rev. George K. Ward in 1912 shows the Olmsted family in England back to 1242 but there are several gaps where the connections are not complete. Reference is made to Mordant's History of Essex, England, which says the family is mentioned in the Domesday Book in 1086.

James and Jane (Bristow) Olmsted of Great Leighs, County Essex, England, has a son Richard.

This Richard had sons Richard and James who emigrated to America.

RICHARD, of Norwalk, Conn., the oldest son, was baptized at Fairsted, County Essex, Feb. 20, 1612. He was twice married but the names of his wives are unknown. His sons were children of his first wife. His will is dated Sept. 5, 1684.

JOHN OLMSTED, second son, came to Hartford, Conn., in the summer of 1636 with a party from Newtown (afterwards Cambridge), Mass. He was a first settler and proprietor of Hartford. From his owning a house in Hartford, it is probable that he was married before 1640.

On June 19, 1650, articles of agreement were drawn up for the purchase of "Norwalke" from Roger Ludlow of Fairfield, Conn., and on Sept. 11, 1651, "it was ordained that Norwalk should be a town." He was there in 1650-51 as his name appears in the deed of the Indian chiefs, dated Feb. 15, 1651.

His Civil Services: In 1646 he was constable in Hartford. 1649 fence viewer. 1653 deputy of Norwalk to the General Court at Hartford. 1656 appointed by General Court as leather seller for Norwalk. 1657 chosen Townsman in Norwalk. 1660 was Grand Juror for Norwalk and deputy to General Court. He was chosen deputy of Norwalk a dozen times between 1660 and 1679. In 1665 Lieut. Olmsted was appointed to represent part of the Colony in defense measures. Oct. 12, 1665, he was appointed to view lands appertaining to Hastings and Rye for a new plantation. Many times he surveyed lines and ran lines. In 1669 was granted 60 acres of land "where he could find it." Nov. 26, 1673, he was Muster Master for Fairfield county. 1668-77 was Commissioner for Norwalk with magisterial powers.

His Military services: Served in the Pequot War and received a grant of land, May 1637. In 1653 was sergeant to a company of 65 men. Lieutenant in 1659. At 63 years of age he fought in King Philip's War in 1676. Was Captain in 1680 and appointed commissioner for the following six years. He died in 1686.

LIEUT. JOHN, (John 1) baptized at Hartford, Conn., Dec. 30, 1649. His estate distributed April 17, 1705. He married a first time, probably Nov. 11, 1670, Mary Benedict, daughter of Thomas and Mary (Bridgum) Benedict of (probably) Southold, L. I.; married a second time to Mrs. Elizabeth (Pardie) Gregory, born June 10, 1660, daughter of George Pardee and widow of Thomas Gregory. She outlived her husband. Lieut. John was selectman in 1699 and 1703.

DANIEL, (John 2) born 1682; married May 9, 1711, Hannah Ketchum of Norwalk, Conn. He with his brother Richard and 22 others, bought with permission of the General Assembly at Hartford, Sept. 30, 1708, of the Indian Sachem Catoonah and his associates for £100, a tract of land (200 acres) on which now stands Ridgefield, Conn. He was for many years an influential man in town affairs. In 1732 he was Ensign of the Train Band and Representative in 1742 and 1743.

AMBROSE, (Daniel 3) born at Ridgefield, Conn., May 9, 1719; died April 6, 1792; married a first time, July 9, 1742, Martha Comstock of Norwalk, New Canaan Parish, Conn., who was born about 1723 and died Aug. 4, 1814. He remarried but the name of his second wife is unknown.

AMBROSE, (Ambrose 4) born March 21, 1747 at Ridgefield; died at Auburn, N. Y., July 14, 1834; married Mary Palmer, who was born Nov. 2, 1755, and died at Auburn, Jan. 18, 1843. Lived at Ridgefield until about 1793, when they moved to Auburn, N. Y.

Their daughter, Deborah, was born at Ridgefield, Jan. 22, 1786, and died at Auburn, N. Y., Sept. 4, 1734. She married Rufus Remington. (See Burritt 106).

PARMELEE

This family is said to trace from Baron Maurice de Parmelee of Belgium, who fled from Spain to Holland in the year 1070. One John Parmelee, a descendant of the above was of Kent, England, in 1580.

The first of the name to come to America was John Parmelee, said to have been from Ockley or the Isle of Guernsey. He is listed as among the passengers from London in the "Elizabeth and Ann" in 1635, at the age of 21. This would show his birth date to be 1614. He married first in England, Hannah, and second, Elizabeth Bradley. He died in New Haven, Conn., in 1659.

Four years after coming to this country he went with forty nine settlers led by the Rev. Whitford, to Guilford, Conn., in 1639. They were mostly farmers and had come first with Gov. Eaton to New Haven in 1637. John's name is among those of twenty-five signers of the Guilford Plantation, June 1639.

He had one son, John.

JOHN PARMELEE, (John 1) born 1639; died 1725; married first Rebecca, who died Sept. 25, 1651. He married second Hannah, widow of William Plaine. John was one of the first planters in Guilford, with his father in 1650. He was a proprietor in 1685. For many years he acted as sexton and was a drummer in the Train band.

- ii. ANSON, born Sept. 14, 1810.
- iii. HARRIET, born March 11, 1822.

PHELPS

These records are given to show the ancestry of Elizabeth Phelps Burritt, wife of Giles Burritt of Parma, (now Hilton) Monroe County, New York.

The original name is spelled variously Phelips, Phellypse, Phelppse, etc., in old records in England previous to 1500.

Records are taken from Vol. 1 of Phelps Genealogy by Phelps and Severin, supplemented by data from Savage's Genealogical Dictionary of New England, 1860 edition, and Yules National Cyclopedia of American Biography.

JAMES PHELPS, born 1520, died between 1587 and 1591 in Tewkesbury, England, and buried in Tewkesbury Abbey Church with his wife Joan. Records of Prerogative Court of Canterbury, Administrations of 1587-1591, page 60: "Commissioned to Joan Phelps, relict of James Phelps late of Tewkesbury, deceased, to administer goods and chattels of said deceased." All nine children except Nicholas, the eldest, were baptized in the Abbey Church.

WILLIAM PHELPS, baptized Aug. 4, 1560, in Tewkesbury Abbey Church; died 1611, and interred in the Abbey

Church with his wife Dorothy, who died in 1613. Records of Prerogative Court of Canterbury, Sept. 28, 1611, Administrations of 1611-1614: "Commissioned Dorothy Phelps, relict of William Phelps late of Tewkesbury, deceased, to administer goods and chattels of said deceased." (As she died before the estate had been administered, her husband's brother, Nicholas Phelps, was named by the Court to Administer). All eight children were baptized in the Abbey Church except George, their youngest.

WILLIAM PHELPS, baptized Aug. 19, 1599, in Tewkesbury Abbey Church; died July 14, 1672, in Windsor, Conn. There were six children by his first wife Elizabeth ———, and two, Timothy and Mary, by his second wife, Mary Dover, also, with William, a passenger on the "Mary and John" sailing from Plymouth, England, March 20, 1630, and reaching Nantasket (now Hull, Mass.), May 30, 1630, with Capt. Squeb and 140 passengers and settled at Dorchester, Mass. William Phelps was delegate to the General Court in 1634 and 1635, and also presided at a Court in 1637. These settlers removed to a new territory in Connecticut, which they also named Dorchester, but renamed Windsor, and where he spent the last half of his life. (See Mills No. 4).

(LT.) TIMONTHY PHELPS, born Sept. 1, 1639, in Windsor, Conn., and died there in 1719. He married Mary Griswold, who was baptized Oct. 13, 1644, in Windsor, Conn., and predeceased him. She was a daughter of Edward Griswold of Kenilworth, England, who settled in Windsor in 1635, and later removed to Killingsworth, Conn. Timothy Phelps received his commission from the General Court in 1709, and had served in the Queen Anne War in 1707. See Stiles "History of Windsor," and the Hartford Probate Records, Vol. 9, page 338, for his will. There were twelve children.

WILLIAM PHELPS, born Feb. 4, 1699, in Windsor, Conn., where he died in 1733. He had William and Ebenezer by his first wife, who was Abigail Mudge and who died

April 24, 1705. He married a second time, Ruth Barber, and had three children.

WILLIAM PHELPS, born March 16, 1702, in Windsor, Conn., and died in army camp in Middlefield, Conn., in 1776. He married first ——— Moore, who died before 1760. She was a granddaughter of Andrew Moore of Windsor. They had Elisha and William. In 1760 he married a second time, Anna Bishop, and had seven children. His Revolutionary War record may be found on page 408 "Soldiers of Connecticut," a State publication.

(CORPL.) ELISHA PHELPS, born Dec. 1722, in Windsor, Conn., and died in 1818 at Scipio, N. Y. He married in 1742 Elizabeth Holcomb, who was born Nov. 9, 1723 in Windsor and died in East Windsor. She was a daughter of Joseph Newcomb(e) who was a grandson of Thomas Holcombe who settled in Boston in 1630, and whose wife Mary (Winchell) Holcomb was a great granddaughter of Robert Winchell, who left Dorchester, England, in 1638, and settled in Windsor. (His earliest traceable lineal ancestor is Robert de Winchelsea who was made Bishop of Canterbury in 1293.)

Corp. Elisha's eight children were born in East Windsor, Conn.

SHADRACH PHELPS, born in 1748, in East Windsor, Conn., and died at Scipio, N. Y. He married a cousin, ——— Phelps, (said to have been a sister of Oliver Phelps of the Phelps and Gorham Land Purchase who settled in Canandaigua, N. Y.) Three children were born in East Windsor, Conn., and one in Scipio, N. Y.

GEORGE PHELPS, born in 1770 at East Windsor, Conn., and died about 1810 near Sand Lake, N. Y. He married in January 1788, Evelyn Coleby (sometimes given Eve Coby) who died about 1820. She was a lineal descendant of Anthony Colby, who came to Boston in Winthrop's Company in 1630., and built the first "permanent" dwelling-house in Cambridge, Mass. He was the son of Thomas Colby and Beatrice (Felton) Colby of Sussex, England, and grandson of Sir Thomas Felton of Playford. George Phelps settled in Dutchess County, N. Y., and later migrated westward. In a storm on Lake Erie his boat overturned and two of his children were drowned. He returned to New York State and settled in Rensselaer County. In 1790 the first census shows that he was living in Livingston Town(ship), Columbia County, N. Y., with his wife and eldest son. There were six children, and one of these, the daughter Elizabeth, born Sept. 10, 1791, married March 5, 1810 Giles Burritt. (See Burritt 56).

SEWARD FAMILY

I

First Generation

WILLIAM SEWARD was born in Bristol, England, in 1627, sailed from the port of London for America during the year of 1635, (New England Genealogical and Historical Register), died at Guilford, Conn., in 1689. He married April 16, 1651, Grace Norton, daughter of Thomas and Grace (Wells) Norton of Guilford.

William Seward lived for a time in New Haven but soon after the birth of the first child Mary, 1653, removed to Guilford where he took the oath of fidelity May 4, 1654. His home lot is described as being next to that of Mr. French. He was by trade a tanner, a man of considerable property and eminence and possessed of a picturesque and individual personality. He was for a long time Captain of the Guard, or Train Band with the privilege of choosing his own men.

Children:

- i. MARY, born in New Haven, 1653; married John Scranton, and died in 1690 leaving three children.
2. ii. JOHN, born Guilford, Feb. 14, 1656.

A list of Revolutionary Soldiers of this name from Connecticut includes:

ABEL, ABIJAH, ANDREW, ANTHONY, BLACKLEACH, CHARLES, EBEN, ELIHU, ISRAEL, JOHN, JOSEPH, JOSIAH, NATHAN, PHILIP, SHERMAN, STEPHEN and WILLIAM.

From New York State:

WILLIAM.

Among those serving in the Civil War were:

DEXTER, DR. HORATIO CHARLES, IRA NICHOLS, LEWIS BENJAMIN, LOREN, NEWELL FLETCHER, PAYSON, PHILO, RUFUS HENRY, WILLIAM WALLACE.

Some of those of the name who have in more recent years attained prominence and including those cited in Who's Who in America are:

DR. ALEXANDER H., (b. 1805) Physician and Surgeon, New Orleans, La.

ELIHU, (1811-1879) Reformer, Linguist, Author. Connecticut.

CHARLES D., (1823-1856) Preacher, Educator. New York.

ORIN W., (1827-1908) Inventor, Manufacturer. New York.

DR. ALICE, (b. 1841) Physician, Author, Genealogist, Washington, D. C.

DWIGHT N. (1848-1914) Agriculturist, Educator. California.

ELDON GRANT, (b. 1868) College President, New York and Illinois.

CLAUD A., (b. 1878) Physician and Surgeon. New York.

BAILEY B., (b. 1878) Social Worker. New York.

MAURICE C., (b. 1883) Agriculturist. New York.

It is hoped that this index as arranged will prove simple but it must be remembered that males having no issue and female lines have been carried down under the ancestor last bearing the name of Burritt, so if you should be of the eighth generation and your grandfather the last to bear the name, you must look under his number in the sixth generation.

The Giles Burritt family is indexed separately.
