FOREWORD

Everyone has ancestors, an astonishing number, it seems, with a wide range of ability and interests. The families here recorded were not in the public eye though they were among those whose industry and integrity helped to build this country.

These people seem to have had a liking for the quiet life, and this has made the way of the compiler exceedingly hard. But this way has been lightened by the assistance of others. My gratitude is extended to all who have helped and especially to Alice E. Andrews, Harry L. Booher, Dr. Lester H. Hoyt, Mrs. Eleanore B. Huey, Florence Lehman, Marjorie E. Martin and Mrs. John A. Reagan.

INTRODUCTION

This material has been gathered from wills, deeds, census reports, local histories and family letters. There are doubtless errors in interpretation as well as fact which it is hoped will be cleared up by other members of the family.

For the background of the Boohers and Lehmans, read The Maryland Germans by Dieter Cunz, Princeton University Press, 1948, and the introduction to Pennsylvania German Pioneers, a publication of the original lists of arrivals in the port of Philadelphia from 1727 to 1808, three volumes, Ralph Beaver Strassburger, Norristown, Pennsylvania, 1934. Pioneer Life in Dayton by John F. Edgar, 1896, has several pages, 129-132, on the Boohers and Lehmans in Ohio.

DAVID LEHMAN BOOHER

David Lehman Booher was the son of Samuel and Susan (Lehman) Booher. He was born in Dayton, Ohio 27 December 1811 and died at Columbus, Georgia 17 July 1887. He was buried in Linwood cemetery in Columbus.

One incident of his boyhood in Ohio has been preserved. One afternoon he had been sent on a gentle old horse to bring the cows home. There was a stretch of woods with overhanging tree limbs through which the road ran. He had gotten the cows together and had just started through this strip of woods when he heard a panther scream. All the cows ran, and the horse also. David managed to keep his seat until clear of the woods when he was thrown in an open field. The panther did not follow in the open although it had jumped from limb to limb through the woods. When the horse came home riderless, David's father went to find him, a frightened ten year old boy, uninjured.

David married 1 August 1832 Elizabeth Nutts, the daughter of George and Mary (Polly) (Baum) Nutts of Miamisburg, Ohio. Elizabeth was born 24 December 1813, and died at Columbus, Georgia 20 August 1886. She was buried at Linwood cemetery.

In 1831 David and his uncle, Peter Lehman, organized the Dayton Comb Factory. David became acquainted with conditions in Georgia when he travelled through the state for the factory, and in September 1842 David and Elizabeth went to Columbus to make their home. They made the journey in a carriage stopping mostly in private homes where they were cordially welcomed. They were accompanied by their sons, Milo, nine, and Burnett, two. Two of their children had died.

Little is known of what David and Elizabeth took with them to Georgia. They did have the blue and white Enoch Wood pitcher. This belonged to a set purchased in New Orleans by Elizabeth's father, George Nutts, who died in 1828. Up to that time, pewter had been used by the Nutts family. They must have had a liberal supply of linen. In the Nutts' household, a certain amount of linen was woven each year to supply the house and fill the daughters' linen chests. Later Elizabeth's mother considered her extravagant because she had put away her linen sheets and was using cotton.

In Columbus, David and Elizabeth lived on upper First Avenue; then Olgethorpe Avenue. Charlie was born 5 April 1843, and Edward, 11 October 1845. In 1847 Milo was sent to school at Thomaston, Georgia to a Mr. O'Hara. David and Elizabeth's daughter, Belle, was born in Columbus 8 May 1848.

David formed a partnership with a Mr. Durr. They bought machinery and built a cotton mill near Wesson, Mississippi. The two families went there in June, 1848. David stayed over five years, and Laura was born there 20 August 1851. David lost money in Mississippi. When he returned to Columbus in September, 1853, he had only one thousand dollars and a small negro girl named Clary. Alice was born in Columbus 4 May 1854, and Susie (Sam) 6 November 1856 so there were four sons and four daughters in the family.

David had a planters supply house in Columbus and prospered. In June, 1862 he bought a house on Broad Street. It had been built in 1854 by James Johnson, later provisional governor of Georgia. The lot extended 75 feet on Broad, and 300 feet on Ninth Street, then Thomas Street to First Avenue, then Oglethorpe. The house was finished with a parapet. It stood high off the ground, and at one time the kitchen was on the ground floor under the diningroom. The front porch had six Doric columns about two feet in diameter. The front door was handcarved. On both sides and across the top there were red glass panels with white frosted design. The coolest place in the house on warm summer days was the hall, 12 feet wide and 32 long. All ceilings were 13 feet. The front rooms were $17\frac{1}{2}$ feet square, and those in the rear were $14\frac{1}{2}$ by $17\frac{1}{2}$. The woodwork was ivory. In the center of the ceilings in the front rooms and the hall, there was a design of acanthus leaves in plaster of paris about three feet in diameter. The molding around the rooms was of plaster like that on the ceilings. The house faced west, and in the afternoon the large back porch was the refuge of the family. In the yard, there were the smokehouse, wash house and stable. The servants stayed in the cottage facing First Avenue. Members of the Booher family lived in the house seventy-six years. It was sold in 1938 and in 1941 it was torn down.

THE CIVIL WAR. David and Elizabeth had four sons in the Confederate Army. Their military record will be given in the sketches of their lives. Two did not survive the war. Boxes of food and clothing had to be sent all the sons frequently as the army was poorly supplied, and the pay long in arrears. In addition, aid was given to George Ware, a nephew from Dayton, Ohio, who was in prison in Andersonville, Georgia and later at Florence, South Carolina. Toward the last of the war, David was a member of the home guard made up mostly of men from forty-five to seventy years of age.

Columbus was taken Easter Sunday, 16 April 1865, one week after the surrender, by the Army of General J. H. Wilson. The Federals were in Columbus until Tuesday. Alice Booher told her daughters of those days, and her recollections follow:

"The battle was going on over the river the night of Easter Sunday. Nobody went to bed that night, even the children being kept up. The next day Susie and I sat on the porch watching the soldiers march by. I was almost eleven years old.

Several men were shot down on the street and the people were very frightened. My father and Belle were walking up the street and met the entering soldiers. One of them raised his gun to shoot my father but another shouted. "Stop, there's a lady".

The soldiers searched our house but did not find the gold which my mother had hidden around the rosebushes. She had urged my father to send his horses down to the country. He could not believe the army would really take a man's horses, and he let them stay in the stable. Before daylight the three horses were gone, and in their place one rawboned mare was left. The soldier who searched the house took an old gun and wanted to take a suit of clothes that had belonged to Burnett.

When my mother told him that Burnett had been killed, he allowed her to keep the suit.

Looting was not permitted by the officers but it went on just the same. My father went to headquarters to ask for protection and three guards were stationed in the house. When morning came, the boots of the guard who slept on the back porch had been stolen. The Federals burned the iron works, mills and warehouses, and some residences caught fire from these.

My brother, Milo, was taken prisoner Sunday night and placed in a large stockade near the 14th Street bridge. The next morning he managed to send a note home asking for his civilian clothes. With these on he passed through the gate. When he reached home, Susie and I were sitting on the front steps, and he winked at us as he came by, fearing that we might give him away.

Our yard was a mass of roses in bloom. The soldiers admired them and heeded my mother's request not to tie their horses where they could nibble the roses. In return she invited some of the officers to dinner.

The soldiers were everywhere, and Susie and I watched from the dining room window and laughed at some of them trying to pour clabber into their canteens from the dairy near the well. The milk had been poured out into flat crocks.

We had 13 negroes and they were all as frightened as we were. The Federals wanted to take the men with them to work as laborers. Some of ours left with the soldiers, and others stayed. Clary was working in the yard wearing her husband's hat. Because of the high fence, the soldiers thought she was a man and called to her to join them. She ran into the house, much alarmed, her eyes as big as moons.

When the soldiers left the city we were under military rule. The barracks are on the corner of Ninth and First Avenue, across the street from us. The United States flag was raised at the corner of Broad and Tenth Street. A path was worn around the flag as no one would walk under it."

THE NEGROES. Among the negroes long remembered were Clary and Milly. Clary was born in 1841 and died in 1910. She came from Mississippi with the family, and became the mammy of all the younger children.

Milly was the seamstress, and part Indian. She had run away from the master whom she hated, and was caught in Columbus and put in jail. She knew that David treated his slaves well, and sent word to him begging him to buy her. She promised to be obedient and faithful. At first her owner refused to sell her but she made so much trouble for him that he finally consented. David paid one thousand dollars in gold for her about one year before the slaves were emancipated. She stayed with the Booher family a number of years.

Clary and Milly had a double wedding in the hall of the Booher home. The preacher was Burrell, also owned by David. His daughter, Belle, and her friend, Ellen Langdon, were the bridesmaids. Later there was a big bowl of eggnog for the negroes in their quarters.

When the slaves were set free, Elizabeth agreed to pay wages to all who wanted to stay, and warned that those who left could not come back. However, she learned later that the young girl, Kate, was ill. She sent for her and had her cared for until she died.

ELIZABETH (NUTTS) BOOHER. David's wife, Elizabeth, was a slender woman with dark hair and gray eyes. She was deeply religious and well informed in the Bible, and church doctrine. In Ohio, the family had belonged to the Christian Church, and Burnett was named for their minister in Dayton. Elizabeth and her children joined the First Baptist Church in Columbus, Georgia. David did not join the church though he attended regularly and supported church activities liberally.

Elizabeth's life was a busy one as she had the care of the slaves as well as her children. Their physician, Dr. Bacon, was paid three hundred dollars a year to attend the family and the servants.

Elizabeth taught her daughters to sit erect without touching the back of the chairs, as she herself had been trained. She disapproved of boisterous girls and careless talk. A certain girl who was in the habit of saying "Alabadamner" for Alabama did not receive a second invitation to the house.

On one occasion Elizabeth was summoned to the home of a friend whose daughter's face had been burned. She asked for all the tea in the house, and all that night she sat by the girl's bedside renewing the poultices of tea. As a result, her face was not scarred.

During the Civil War, Elizabeth gave much of her time to caring for the wounded, especially those in the hospital on the corner of Broad and Ninth Streets, diagonally across from the home place. One soldier wrote from Florida to express his gratitude to her for her help in saving his leg. The surgeon had thought it would have to be amputated. To make soft bandages Elizabeth had her daughters scrape the lint from some of the linen sheets she had brought from Ohio.

Elizabeth was a charter member of the Ladies Memorial Association. As long as she lived she helped decorate the soldier's graves in Linwood Cemetery on Memorial Day, and her daughters continued this work for her. On that day, only the soldiers' graves were decorated.

Elizabeth's flowers were her chief pleasure. When her daughter, Alice, was 20, Elizabeth turned over the housekeeping to her, and devoted herself to her garden. For many years, a large white crepe myrtle stood at the entrance to the yard. Its size and beauty brought comments from the passersby. Her amaryllis bulb and large azalea were in existence 55 years after her death.

David and Elizabeth celebrated their golden wedding anniversary 1 August 1886-54 years after their marriage. Five old friends gave David a goldheaded walking stick, and the four daughters gave Elizabeth a gold bar pin.

DAVID'S LATER YEARS. After the war, David traded in cotton and made money. Much of this he lost through a partner. One of David's ventures was the lease, 1868-1871 of Chalybeate Springs, a resort located near Warm Springs, Georgia. The family went there every summer for several years.

David was a large man with blue eyes. He was six feet tall and weighed over 200 pounds. He was a good provider, and liked as much food left on the table as was eaten. David was indulgent to his sons and gave them the luxuries customary for young of the South at that time. In addition he gave them the right to draw money on his account.

David had diabetes, and was blind the last years of his life. A small black and tan dog was his constant companion. David's friends would write notes for him, and the dog would take them home. When David returned home he would fetch his slippers. David died 17 July 1887, and the following comment appeared in the Daily Enquirer-Sun, Columbus, Georgia, 19 July:

"Mr. Booher was one of the best men in this community. He had been identified with the city's interests ever since his removal here. Formerly he was one of the largest merchants in Columbus and was favorably known by every trader in the contiguous territory. His eyesight failed about ten years ago and he was forced to retire from business. Of late years he had been totally blind. With this affliction, he was noted for cheerfulness and kindness. He had a kind word for everybody, and was beloved particularly by the young men for his pleasantries and genial manner. He had a rich fund of anecdotes and reminiscences of the earlier days of Columbus and was always the center and life of a crowd. No man here had more friends than Mr. Booher, and his death is sincerely regretted by all."

MILO JOHN BOOHER

Milo John Booher, the son of David Lehman and Elizabeth (Nutts) Booher was born at Dayton, Ohio,

3 September 1833, and died at Shreveport, Louisiana 2 June 1913. In September 1842 he accompanied his parents to Columbus, Georgia. He was sent to school to a Mr. O'Hara in Thomaston, Georgia in 1847. His health that began in his boyhood persisted, and his service for the Confederacy was interrupted several times. He seems to have been in the army most of the war years. His name is on the roll of the Columbus Guards 1 March 1861.

The Adjutant General wrote "This collection of records is by no means complete...Milo Booher, name also found as M. J. Booher, a private of Captain Nelson's Independent Company, Georgia Cavalry, Confederate States Army, enlisted 24 July 1862 at Knoxville, Tennessee. The company muster roll for July and August 1863 shows him absent - Detached as orderly to Genl. Bragg, Trans Miss Dept. 1862. No later record of him has been found."

From Milo's letters, we learn that he was a second lieutenant in a Tennessee company in the early summer of 1861. This company was disbanded because it did not reach the required complement in time to go to Virginia with the regiment. Later that summer he joined his brother, Burnett, who was with the Columbus Guards in Virginia, and received permission to stay though his name was not placed on the company roll. In 1863 Milo was serving under General Kirby Smith in Louisiana, and his parole, dated 18 May 1865, Columbus, Georgia, gives Nelson's Rangers Lee's Escort, as his outfit.

After the war Milo went into business with his father. One of their ventures was the lease of Chalybeate Springs, Georgia, a resort near Warm Springs. Here Milo married 10 October 1867 Louisiana (Lou) Zenobia Burks, 31 March 1843 - 14 February 1910, niece of Mrs. Isaac Chaney of Chalybeate Springs, and of Dr. Pope of Eufaula, Ala.

In 1873 Milo and his wife moved to Shreveport, La. They made the trip by steamboat stopping in New Orleans. They landed in Colfax, Louisiana, a river port in the central part of the state 13 April 1873, the night of the Colfax Riot. It lasted two or three days, and both white people and colored people lost their lives in skirmishes. The trunks and boxes containing the things Milo had brought from Georgia for their homes were lost. Later Milo went back to Colfax but was unable to recover anything.

In Shreveport, Milo was in the cotton business. He was a buyer for Gregg and Ford, cotton brokers, and spent a good deal of time away from home as he left on Monday and did not return until Saturday. Their home for many years was on Milam Street, across from the Caddo Parish Courthouse. This is now one of the main business streets in Shreveport. A large department store is located on the site of the Booher home, 1951.

Milo's latter days were spent in the home of his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Elliott Martin. He was much loved by all the family.

DAVID BURNETT BOOHER. David Burnett Booher, the son of David Lehman and Elizabeth (Nutts) Booher, was born at Dayton, Ohio, 9 September 1840, and was killed at the Battle of the Crater, Petersburg, Virginia, 30 July 1864. He was an apt student, loved by all the family. He was called Cap by his brothers. Burnett joined the Columbus Guards in 1861 as a private, and was a lieutenant at the time of his death. He was in Company I, 64th, Georgia Regiment. When he was killed, he was leading his men in the charge to recapture ground lost in the mine explosion.

Starting 25 June 1864, a Pennsylvania regiment composed mainly of coal miners dug a tunnel enabling them to place a four ton powder charge beneath Pegram's Confederate battery. This was exploded 30 July. The battery was destroyed and nearly 300 men. Burnett's last letter follows:

In trenches near Petersburg
July 24, 1864

Dear Mother,-

As Charlie has been writing every day or so it has been some time since I have written to you, as he has informed you we are in the same Brigade and therefore see one another every day, he well and looking as hard as a lightwood knot. My health is much better than when I first arrived here, and owing to the fact that we have had no marching to do I have been able to keep up with the Regt., and on duty for six weeks or more but I am satisfied that when we are ordered to march I will soon break down as I am not strong enough to march.

I wish you would have me a pair of shoes made to order. The ones you sent me are common and the leather so poorly tanned that I cannot walk where the grass is wet without getting my feet wet and the rheumatism comes. Send two pair thick socks.

I received the box you so kindly sent by Schley and am very thankful. I am out of money but do not need much when on duty but have a horror of being out when I am sick. But think we will surely be paid some money by the Q.M. soon. So I shall not call on you for any money. Charlie told me he wrote for a box and when it comes we can both be supplied.

I suppose he has given you all the information concerning this country that I could so I shall say nothing about the news. We are all jubilant over the news from Atlanta and waiting patiently for more for the soldiers in this army are very anxious for the year to end the war.

They are well aware that they have done their duty nobly, have whipped Grant, and deserve to go home and rest.

Our works are some 300 yards from the Yankees. They are very quiet in our front scarcely firing a gun all day.

Give my love to all the family. We will be in reserve in a few days and I will write again.

I am as ever, your affectionate son,
D. B. Booher

CHARLES E. BOOHER. Charles Edward Booher, the son of David Lehman and Elizabeth (Nutts) Booher, was born at Columbus, Georgia 5 April 1843, and died in 1882. As the result of an accident, he was drowned in a fall from a steamboat in the Red River near Grappe's Bluff, Louisiana. His body was recovered and returned to Columbus, Georgia for burial in Linwood Cemetery.

Charlie married in October 1861 Eliza Virginia (Sissie) Barden, the daughter of William Barden of Columbus. She was born in 1843 and died 30 November 1871.

Charlie was a member of the City Light Guards, and left Columbus with them 1 April 1861. The records of the Adjutant General, Washington, D. C., though incomplete, show that "Charles E. Booher, a private of Company A, 2d. Battalion Georgia Infantry, Confederate States Army, enlisted 10 August 1862 at Columbus, Georgia. The company muster roll for September and October 1864, latest on file, shows him present. He was surrendered by General Robert E. Lee, Confederate States Army, and paroled 9 April 1865 at Appomattox Court House, Virginia".

The Second Georgia Battalion was in Wright's Brigade, Anderson's Division Hill's Corps. Charlie was not in the same company as Burnett but he was with him the night before he was killed, and went back the next day to mark his grave and wire his parents.

After the war Charlie was in business with his father, and later was captain of a steamboat on the Chattahoochee River plying between Columbus and Mobile. Alabama.

Charlie and Sissie had one son, Marshall. He was born at Columbus, Georgia, 22 March 1863, and died 22 August 1905 at Pasadena, California. The family lived at the Booher homeplace until Marshall was eighteen. Then he and his father moved to Shreveport, Louisiana, where Charlie's brother, Milo, was living.

Marshall Booher married 5 November 1890 Myra Nolan, who was born 28 January 1870 and died 3 November 1937. She was the daughter of James Valentine Nolan, 1845-1891 and his wife, Jane Bond, 23 January 1850 - 20 March 1946, of Brighton, England, and Shreveport, Louisiana. Myra married second, Sibley Brown. They had one son, Benjamin C. Brown.

Children of Marshall and Myra (Nolan) Booher:

- i Ethel Booher, b. 25 April 1892, m. Wallace Davis.
- ii David N. Booher, b. 27⁵ January 1895.
(See further.)

DAVID NOLAN BOOHER. David Nolan Booher, the son of Marshall Howard and Myra (Nolan) Booher was born 27 January 1895 at Shreveport, Louisiana, and died 1 September 1936 near Bishop, California. His home was at Pasadena.

David married 18 August 1917 Ernestine Louise Franz the daughter of Ernst H. and Clara (Homrighausen) Franz who spent their early married life in Arizona and moved to Pasadena, California before 1910. Ernestine's Grandfather Franz was the grocer in St. Louis who loaned Mr. Burroughs one thousand dollars to start work on his adding machine. Ernestine was born 31 August 1899 at Springerville, Arizona and died with her husband in the automobile accident that took his life.

Of the remarkable tributes to David that appeared in the Pasadena Star News for September 2, 1936 from the leaders of the city, only a few can be given here:

"Pasadena mourned today as news of the deaths of David N. Booher and his wife, Ernestine Franz Booher, and the serious injury of their son, Marshall, in an automobile head-on crash yesterday afternoon near Bishop, spread throughout the city... A tribute to Mr. Booher was voiced today by Dr. Z. T. Malaby, outstanding local physician. Dr. Malaby said 'As a boy, young Dave moved into my neighborhood and for the past twenty-five years he has seemed almost like my own son. I was proud to have been one of his sponsors when he was elected to the directorship of the Tournament of Roses and the Chamber of Commerce. Indeed, I have never known a young man with such splendid character, integrity and ability. He was undoubtedly one of Pasadena's leading citizens'...

"Speaking officially for the City of Pasadena, E. O. Nay, Chairman of the Board of City Directors, said 'I consider the life of David N. Booher a fine exemplification of true American citizenship. He was a man who could be depended upon to do his full share in all worthwhile civic enterprises, a true friend and an outstanding gentleman'...

"As President of the Chamber of Commerce in 1935, Mr. Booher established a record that has seldom been equalled. His success as a Chamber of Commerce president came because of his knowledge of men and because the business men he named on committees worked with a Booher-inspired enthusiasm. He served on the Tournament of Roses Parade committee last year, and was its chairman for 1936...

"Probably Mr. Booher's employees at the Tanner Motor Company feel his loss greatest of all. In him they found a kindly employer. He was ready at all times to listen to and help solve problems. His splendid deeds of Christian understanding are best known to the men and women who worked with him. His firmness in the matter of safe driving for all drivers of Tanner Motor taxicabs and limousines was well known throughout the city...

"Mr. Booher was loved by his employees partly because he too rose from the ranks. He entered the employ of the Tanner Motor Company in 1919 at the bottom of the ladder. But, through close attention to his duties and because of hard work he mounted the ladder speedily, arising to the top within a comparatively few years. At his death, he was president of the company. One of his chief pleasures was a Kentucky thoroughbred horse, Student Prince, the gift of Mr. C. C. Tanner...

"Scarcely an institution in the city has failed to benefit from Mr. Booher's kindness. The American Legion will miss him greatly, according to Robert M. McCurdy. As a Kiwanian, he was a leader, and as a Mason, he achieved the 32nd degree."

Marshall Howard Booher, the son of David Nolan and Ernestine (Franz) Booher, married Jane Donohue. They have three children: 1, ~~David Booher~~, born 3 September 1939; 2, Anne Louise Booher, born 2 October 1943, and 3, Mary Kathleen Booher, born 12 February 1947.

JAMES EDWARD BOOHER. James Edward Booher, the youngest son of David and Elizabeth Booher, was born in Columbus, Georgia, 11 October 1845. He was an indifferent student, and difficult to control. Finally he ran away and joined the Columbus Artillery encamped near Savannah. His parents went after him, and because of his youth they secured his release and brought him home. But he ran away again and this time they let him stay in the army. After what seemed a slight illness he died in camp suddenly 1 September 1862. Through an oversight his parents were not notified of his death, and the first they knew of it was the arrival of his casket at the front door. David stood in the doorway and tried to shield Elizabeth from the shock of seeing it brought in but just at that moment she entered the hall. The following letter from the company commander explains the circumstances:

Savannah, Ga. Sept. 3d. 1862

Mr. and Mrs. Booher,-

I feel it a very sad duty to write you

David Howell Brown, incorrectly listed as David Booher, is the son of Benjamin Chambers and Bonnie Virginia (Rear) Brown. They were married 5 October 1935.

David Howell Brown was born 3 September 1939. He is the grandson of Sibley and Myra (Nolan) (Booher) Brown. Myra's first husband was Marshall Booher, grandfather of Marshall Howard Booher.

the particulars of your son Edward's death. Nothing was so unsuspected to me as his death. On the morning of the night of his death he was free from fever and apparently much better than he had been (never having been considered dangerously sick by the Surgeon). On that morning he walked about with the aid of his servant boy and at 12 o'clock that day cast his vote for a member of the Company at an election held for Jr. 2d. Lieut, indeed he was perfectly rational and appeared to be much better. Towards dark he lost consciousness and his breathing was very laboured. From that time he continued to get worse until he died at half past eleven o'clock on the night of the first of September. Everything was done for him that could possibly be done.

On the morning of the first when he seemed so much better, he requested that you should be telegraphed to come down that he was sick, which was done. Had he been considered dangerously sick, I would have telegraphed myself to you but he seemed so very much better it was not necessary. The night of his death I was confined to bed with fever.

I regret exceedingly that the Sargt. in charge of his body to Savannah neglected to telegraph you of his decease before the body arrived in Columbus as it was necessarily a great shock to you.

I can state with pleasure that Edward seemed to improve in every respect in the last few months. His whole character changed and he was as good and faithful a soldier and as clever a man as any in the Company. His death has cast a sadness over the whole Company and from my heart I sympathize with you, his bereaved parents. Since Edward's death, we have lost another and still others seemed doomed to die. May God and the knowledge that your son died in the service of his country sustain you in the day of your calamity.

With much sympathy and respect

I am yours most truly

A. I. Young

THE QUESTION OF THE COAT OF ARMS

The result of the search for the Coat of Arms proved to be inconclusive. The Coat of Arms given by Mackenzie in the sketch of the Booghers in Colonial Families of the U.S.A. is that of the Thomas family, allied to the St. Louis branch, though he writes that Peter Boogher, ancestor of Nicholas, was given a Coat of Arms in 1450.

Mrs. William Seth Kenyon, heraldic specialist, writes "I can show several Arms borne by families by the name of Bucher (Boogher, Booher) in several areas of Europe in Rietstap's Armorial Général, but I have not been able to find any actual proof of Nicholas Bucher's birth-place and parentage to connect him with any of these Arms."

Mrs. Kenyon expressed her belief in the probability that a search of the records in Germany would result in the finding of this proof. This search is left to those whose energy and funds are equal to the task.

BOOHER LINE OF DESCENT

Nicholas Booher	1680 -
Balgas
Bartholomew	1792
Daniel	1808
Samuel	1780 - 1857
David Lehman Booher	1811 - 1887

THE BOOHER FAMILY. The Booher name was spelled Bucher by the earliest colonists. Alfred Wilfrid Dellquest in These Names of Ours, Crowell, 1938, says that it was a Norman-French name meaning woodhouse from bois, a wood, and that it was pronounced Boo-shay. Other variants are Bouchar, Boucher, Bouger, Bougher, Boogher and Booker.

George Norbury MacKenzie in Colonial Families of the United States of America 3.46, states that:

"The first of the family of Boogher in America was Nicholas Boogher, Sr. born 1680 in Germany who came over on the Friendship in 1727 and settled in Pennsylvania. He was descended from Peter Boogher who received a grant of arms from his sovereign for military services in 1450.

The line of descent is given through Nicholas, II, 1712-1767. From the first Nicholas, David's line was worked out by William Fletcher Boogher, genealogist, of Washington, D. C. and given to Mrs. Belle Booher Gager of Dayton, Ohio.

BALGAS BOOHER. Further research is needed on Balgas Booher, the second in the line. It is possible that he didn't come to this country until later, and sent his sons Bartholomew and Peter to join their grandfather, Nicholas. Bartholomew and Peter arrived in Philadelphia

3 September 1739 on the Loyal Judith from Rotterdam but last from Deal in England. This is from Pennsylvania German Pioneers, 1.266. Johan Baltes Booher arrived 27 September 1746, 1.360.

This Peter Booher might have been the Peter reported to have given a 99 year lease to a tract that included the site of the Custom House in Baltimore. In the 1870s a Washington lawyer visited various members of the family in an attempt to interest them in this claim but the effort was not made.

BARTHOLOMEW BOOHER. The first record we have of Bartholomew after his arrival in 1739 is a warrant 15 August 1748 for 100 acres of land in Lancaster, now Franklin County, Pennsylvania. He was living in Frederick County, Maryland in 1757 as he was paid 22 pounds for supplies in the French and Indian War. (Maryland Historical Magazine 9.370.).

Bartholomew's first deed in Frederick County was in 1760, others from 1773 to 1791. A patent for 317 acres in 1785 and other deeds show that he was a landowner in Bedford County, Pennsylvania. Possibly some of this was in Maryland before the Mason-Dixon line was established.

Bartholomew lived southwest of Middletown, Frederick County, Maryland. Lutheran church records there and at Frederick include the family names. Bartholomew's will was probated at Frederick 1 May 1792, G. M. 2.431. It mentions his wife, Margaret and 14 children. His widow died in 1796. In 1941 Bartholomew's desk was in the possession of D. G. Fox, Miamisburg, Ohio, a descendant of one of his daughters.

DANIEL BOOHER. Daniel Booher, the son of Bartholomew and Margaret Booher, was born about 1750, and died near Zanesville, Ohio in 1808. By his father's will Daniel was given 200 acres of land and a share of the money due the estate. His wife's name is thought to have been Catherine Gaver. She married, second, John Miller, who died in the 1830s. She lived to be 98, and was active and industrious.

Daniel's name is on the list of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Frederick, Maryland. It is also on the list of non-enrollers fined by the Committee of Observation of Frederick County, 29 April 1776. (Maryland Historical Magazine 11.249.) Old Kentucky Entries and Deeds, edited by W. R. Jillson, 1926, records a deed in Daniel's name to 400 acres in Jefferson County, Kentucky, 16 June 1780.

According to the 1790 Census of Maryland, Frederick County, p. 65, Daniel Booher's household included one male over 16 besides himself, one under 16 (probably his son Samuel) and his wife and one daughter. We have no records for Samuel's brother and sister. His brother might have been the Daniel Booher who was married 25 December 1811 to Christena Hobbble, Montgomery County, Ohio.

Daniel Booher and his son, Samuel, made a prospecting trip to the Ohio Country in 1804. They returned to Maryland and made plans to settle in Ohio at the small settlement of Dayton. Daniel sold his land in Bedford County, Pennsylvania, in June 1807, and in September 1808, he sold a tract in Frederick County, Maryland, called "I Hope It's Well Done, near the main road from Middletown to Sharpsburg. He acknowledged the deed before a justice of the peace 2 September 1808, and received payment 2 November 1808.

Mrs. Belle Booher Gager of Dayton, Ohio related that on the way to Dayton, at Zanesville, Ohio, Daniel was taken ill with black tongue fever. He died and was quickly buried and his money belt with him. His wife and his son, Samuel, went on to Dayton with the party. Later Samuel accompanied by Peter Lehman returned to Zanesville and secured the money. Samuel was appointed administrator of his father's estate 1 May 1810, Montgomery County, Court of Pleas, Dayton, Ohio, A-106,61. Inventory of the estate listed wagons, horses, copper kettle, bedding, sausage stuffer, 1 fur hat, cash on hand at death $2500.00, bonds due the estate $1865.00. Signatures of Samuel Boogher and Peter Lehman. Samuel was appointed administrator of the estate also in Bedford County, Pennsylvania, 6 September 1813, 2.390.

SAMUEL BOOHER. Samuel Booher, the son of Daniel and Catherine (Gaver) Booher, was born in Frederick County, Maryland, 1780, and died 12 April 1857 at Dayton, Ohio.

Samuel married at Dayton 8 December 1808 Susan Lehman, the daughter of Peter and Catherine (Eller) Lehman. The two families were friends in Frederick County, Maryland. Samuel and Susan were betrothed before the Lehmans left Maryland, and when Samuel and his father went out to Ohio, they took a trunk of nice things for Susan.

Susan was born in Frederick County, Maryland, 12 March 1790, and died at Dayton, Ohio, 11 February 1871. The Dayton Journal 13 February 1871 gives the story of her life. At the age of 15, she accompanied her father in the perilous trip from Frederick across the mountains to Wheeling and thence to Dayton,- about 800 miles. Dayton at that time contained perhaps a dozen houses. When the emigrating party from Maryland of whom the senior Lehman was the leader arrived near Dayton, the townspeople came out to welcome the newcomers with a barbecue. We know little of Susan's life after her marriage to Samuel Booher. In 1826 Susan became a member of the Christian church under the ministry of the Reverend David S. Burnett and was the first convert baptized by him. She left forty-four grandchildren and thirty great grandchildren.

Most of the information we have about Samuel Booher is contained in his obituary from The Dayton Daily Journal, Tuesday 14 April 1857:

"Died on Sunday morning, the 12th of April of congestion of the lungs, Mr. Samuel Booher, age 77. The funeral will take place this morning from his late residence on First Street near the head of the basin.

"Mr. Booher was one of the earliest settlers in Dayton, having come here from Maryland in December 1807. In 1808 he married in this place. He at first engaged in the business of wagon-making as will be recollected by old citizens which he continued for a number of years. When the Miami Canal was completed, Mr. Booher commenced the produce and transportation business, and owned besides one of the first packets which ran between Dayton and Cincinnati. His transactions were extensive but he subsequently failed. For many years before his death he was engaged in the business of pump-making and his industry and promptness will be well remembered by all who employed him.

"He passed away at last in a ripe old age, and after having experienced many of the vicissitudes of life now rests from all his labors. The companion of his earlier years and later life survives him. Four sons, Capt. Daniel of this city, David L. of Columbus, Georgia, Gideon of Lorain county, Ohio and Jesse of this city, with two daughters, comprise the family which is left to mourn his loss."

DANIEL G. BOOHER. Daniel G. Booher, the son of Samuel and Susan (Lehman) Booher, was born 4 May 1810, on the old Bradford farm, Van Buren township, near Dayton, Ohio, and died at his home in Madriver township near the Greene county line, 16 July 1882. An account of his life was given in The Dayton Journal at the time of his death, and the following is taken from it.- Daniel's schooling was had in the seminary on St. Clair Street, but he was soon trained in the rough school of life... His sobriquet - Captain- was earned by his service through many years, as captain of canal packets plying between Dayton and Cincinnati... The canal traffic had grown to vast proportions and to be captain of a boat was a position of more responsibility and importance than can be conceived of by the present generation... For nine subsequent years he was local agent at Dayton for the C.H.&D. Railroad, in which capacity he gained an enviable reputation as a man of the strictest integrity and sound judgment, being often placed in charge of trusts for business houses, both in Cincinnati and Dayton, involving large sums of money. His tact in purchasing almost any kind of machinery was recognized as very shrewd, as well as conservative, and to him was intrusted trade transactions for many of the wholesale houses of Dayton.

During the rebellion at the time of Kirby Smith and John Morgan's raids, a number of the business men and bankers of Cincinnati, fearing the capture of their moneys at any moment, almost forced him to take in charge, large sums for safe-keeping, amounting in several instances to fifty thousand dollars. He would chuck it all in a valise and travel by rail from Cincinnati to Johnson Kneisley's station from whence to his home he must need proceed through a heavy timber of a mile, and a long bridge. He secreted the treasure about his premises and, as may be anticipated, was for several months an anxious custodian.

Having acquired by years of toil a good competence, he retired from active business life in 1867.

Daniel Bocher married 18 April 1830 Rachel Danforth of Hamilton, Ohio. Rachel was born 3 September 1809 and died 24 January 1883. Her mother, Nancy Danforth, died 6 June 1862.

JOHN MILLER BOOHER. John Miller Booher, the son of Samuel and Susan (Lehman) Booher, was born in Dayton, Ohio in 1813, and died in the Mexican War. He married 28 April 1835 Harriet Nutts, the daughter of George and Mary Magdalene (Baum) Nutts of Miamisburg, Ohio. Harriet's sister, Elizabeth Nutts, had married David Lehman Booher, brother of John Miller Booher. Harriet married, second, Perry Smith.

John Miller Booher and Harriet had one son, Carsner Jean Booher who married in Pana, Illinois 30 September 1872 Sarah E. Nolen. They had one daughter, Leta Booher, born 24 September 1876, in Shelbyville, Illinois. Sarah died in Denver, Colorado in 1884, and Carsner sent their daughter to Columbus, Georgia in May of that year. Leta was reared by her father's double first cousins, Laura and Susie Booher.

Leta Booher married 30 July 1897 Perry Nance Hill, born in Columbus, Georgia 12 February 1877, and died there 19 September 1937. Perry was the son of John Hill, born 6 September 1839, New Salem, Illinois died Columbus, Georgia 20 January 1898, and his wife, Loula Clara Crawley, born Jacksonville, Illinois 12 November 1854, died in Columbus, Georgia 14 March 1910. John Hill was the son of Samuel and Parthenia (Nance) Hill. They were married in Sagamon County, Illinois 28 July 1835.

Perry Nance and Leta (Booher) Hill had one son, Perry, born in Columbus, Georgia 19 May 1910. He married 8 June 1935 Mildred Brown, daughter of Judge Nathan and Annie (Daniel) Brown of Columbus. They have two children, Carol Hill and Perry Hill, Jr.; residence, Norfolk, Virginia.

GIDEON BOOHER. Gideon Booher, the son of Samuel and Susan (Lehman) Booher, was born at Dayton, Ohio in 1817 and died at Norton, Kansas in 1905. He married Jane Lawson who died at Norton, Kansas in 1891. Gideon lived in Coshocton, Ohio for some time, and Jane may have been a member of the Lawson family of that county. Gideon bought property in and around Winesburg, Holmes County, Ohio in Paint Township. The first lot was bought in 1851, one in 1864, and there were several others. The family moved to Norton, Kansas about 1876. In 1878 Gideon sold a tract in Holmes County, Ohio that was signed, Gideon Booher and Jane Booher, his wife, of Mahaska County, Iowa.

CATHERINE (BOOHER) WARE. Catherine Booher, the daughter of Samuel and Susan (Lehman) Booher, was born in Dayton, Ohio 31 August 1819, and died there 5 April 1908. The Dayton Journal had an account of her life, and mentioned the arrival in 1806 of her grandfather, Peter Lehman, leader of a party of 96 people from Frederick County, Maryland. Her father, Samuel Booher, came in 1808. When he first came he engaged in making road wagons on East Second Street. The residence which he built on the north side of Second between Jefferson and St. Clair Street was still standing in 1908. It was in this house that Catherine was born.

At the time of her death, Catherine was the oldest resident born in Dayton and remembered much of the early history of the town. When the canal was opened to Cincinnati, her father transported large quantities of produce and owned a packet boat running between Dayton and Cincinnati. Catherine often told of the arrival of the first packet boat. The people turned out in their best clothes and made a holiday of the affair.

Catherine was a member of the Central Church of Christ, and active in the church societies, and benevolent work. She lived in the family home on Wayne Avenue until the last four years of her life when she went to the home of her daughter, Mrs. L. S. Bryant.

Catherine married 26 May 1840 John Thomas Ware of Ellicot City, Maryland. He was born in 1807 and died 17 December 1860.

LEHMAN LINE OF DESCENT

Christian Lehman

John Adam 1732 - 1823

Peter 1761 - 1818

Susan (Lehman) Booher 1790 - 1871

CHRISTIAN LEHMAN. Information about the Lehman family comes from relatives in Dayton and Columbus, Ohio. Miss Florence Lehman of Columbus secured a copy of the entries in the Bible of John Adam Lehman from Miss Florence Doub of Frederick, Maryland, and supplied additional material on later generations. The Lehman name has been spelled about twenty different ways.

The family Bible states that John Adam Lehman was the son of Christian and Maria Lehman. He may be the Christian Lehman who arrived in Philadelphia 29 August 1730 - 77 Palatines with their families, in all 260 persons imported in the ship Thistle of Glasgow, from Rotterdam but last from Dover. On board was the famous Peter Miller later for many years the leading spirit of the Seventh Day Dunkers at Ephrata. (Refer to Pennsylvania German Pioneers, 1:31.)

JOHN ADAM LEHMAN. John Adam Lehman or Adam Lehman, as he was sometimes called, was the son of Christian and Maria Lehman. He was born 20 November 1732 and died August 1823, Frederick County, Maryland. Adam married 16 April 1753 Anna Margaretha Steltz, born 7 July 1729, died February 1818, the daughter of Christian and Eva Margaretha Steltz. Christian Steltz arrived in Philadelphia 14 September 1749. (Pennsylvania-German Pioneers 1:401.)

It is thought that Adam was in Frederick county, Maryland by 1765. In March 1778, John Lemmon signed the Patriot's Oath of Fidelity and Support in that county. (Refer to National Genealogical Society Quarterly 6:34, and Brumbaugh's Maryland Records, p. 23.) This has been accepted by the D.A.R. in the membership of Miss Florence Lehman-national number 403988.

In The History of the United Brethren in Christ, 1924, A. W. Drury wrote: "Among those whose awakening and in some cases, beginning labors belonged to the period before 1774, were Frederick Schaffer, who was converted during Mr. Otterbein's labors at Lancaster, Martin Crider the oldest preacher in the revival movement after Otterbein and Boehm, and Adam Lehman then living near the northern line of Frederick county", p. 110, and on page 156, "Adam Lehman in 1774 lived on Sams Creek near the northern line of Frederick County, Maryland. While here he was one of the leaders of Sams Creek class. At an early time there were many followers of Mr. Otterbein at this place. He afterward moved to near Frederick. Rev. Peter Kemp was his son-in-law. Mr. Lehman's preaching probably began about 1777."

Adam Lehman was one of the organizers of the United Brethren in Christ. The Maryland Guide, 1940, reports - "In the Peter Kemp House fourteen ministers of various denominations organized the United Brethren in Christ 25 September 1800. This house was used as a meeting place as early as 1790. It is two and a quarter miles west of Frederick.

Adam spent the last years of his life in this house, the home of his daughter, Mary, wife of the Reverend Peter Kemp. Near the barn is Doub's cemetery. The Reverend Valentine Doub married Esther Kemp, daughter of the Reverend Peter Kemp, and occupied the farm when this cemetery was designated as a common burial ground of the United Brethren church. Adam Lehman and his wife were buried there. Adam's will was probated at Frederick, Maryland 30 October 1823. An extract follows: As I have at sundry times given to my beloved children, Catherine, Elizabeth, Jacob decd., Peter, Martha decd., Adam decd., David, Christian, Eve, their respective shares of my estate which may be seen in notes as well as book accounts against them, I do now give and bequeath all my remaining property now in my possession as also a note of hand against Johnson & Davis for one hundred pounds to my beloved daughter, Mary, for the many favours and services received from her.. this 19th day of February 1817.

The marriage was proclaimed at the Evangelical Lutheran Church, Frederick, Maryland, 27 May 1783, witnesses, Adam and Martha Lehman. Catherine Eller Lehman lived to be 100 years old.

Michael Eller arrived at Philadelphia 30 September 1743. (Pennsylvania German Pioneers, 1:346.) His will is on file at Frederick, Maryland, Box 7, Folder 39. It was made 25 August 1778, and names his wife and nine children, Peter, Leonard, Elizabeth, Eve, Catherine, Jacob, John, Maria and George. Elizabeth Eller married in June 1777 Henrich Reb, son of Casper Reb of Bucks County, Pennsylvania. Jacob Eller married 14 October 1792 Mary Willard.

County, Maryland 25 August 1792. W.R. 11:38. Catherine Lehman, his wife, joined in the deed.

In 1805, Peter Lehman led a party of 96 colonists to the small settlement of Dayton, Ohio. The following account is from John F. Edgar's Pioneer Life in Dayton and Vicinity, 1896:

"When they reached the hills east of town they sent a runner with word of their arrival--and the next day the citizens turned out to give them a most hearty welcome in the way of an oldfashioned barbecue, roast ox and all....

This party..camped in their wagons on the northeast quarter of Section 27 on the Xenia road, now Oakland, until each of the families could find a location on which to settle..Then all the others would join with him in building his cabin, and within 24 hours from the time the selection was made the cabin would be completed and the family moved in. There were 16 families in the group.

Peter Lehman selected the northeast quarter of Section 27 where the company camped, built his cabin on the edge of the road and opened a wagon yard and tavern..After some years he removed to town and commenced building a stone house on lot 43 on First Street but did not live to complete it."

In the History of Montgomery County, Ohio, 1882, it is stated that Peter Lehman began the preparation of a history of Mad River Township but did not finish the work.

She married 16 July 1816 Jonathan Stutsman who was born in 1786. In 1814 Jonathan came to Dayton from Hagerstown, Maryland with his brother Daniel.

Susan Stutsman, the oldest daughter of Catherine and Jonathan Stutsman, married 5 March 1842 Amos Eaton. Their daughter, Alla Eaton married 9 June 1881 Charles F. Powell, born 23 September 1857, the son of John C. and Hester A. M. (Wells) Powell. Their children were Milo E. Powell, Lottie B. Powell and Cyrus W.

Powell.

MARGARET (LEHMAN) STUTSMAN. Margaret (Peggy) Lehman, the daughter of Peter and Catherine (Eller) Lehman, was born in Frederick County, Maryland, and died in Dayton, Ohio. She married 15 August 1816 Daniel Stutsman born 1790. John F. Edgar in Pioneer Life in Dayton and Vicinity, 1896, reports that Daniel nursed the sick in the cholera epidemic and died 5 September 1833. He left his wife and six children. The oldest son, John Grover Stutsman, was in his sixteenth year when his father died. The son died in 1869.

PETER LEHMAN. Peter Lehman, the son of Peter and Catherine (Eller) Lehman, was born in Frederick County, Maryland 2 January 1798, and died at Dayton, Ohio 21 March 1878. Peter's will was made 4 March 1878, and probated 4 April 1878 - J 253.

Peter married, first, 15 November 1824 Mary Carroll. She was born in 1800 and died 20 September 1862. He married, second, Elizabeth. For a while, Peter's business was wagon-making. Then in 1831 he and his nephew, David Lehman Booher, established the Dayton Comb Factory. Refer to The History of Dayton, Ohio, United Brethren Publishing House, 1889. Later, as will be seen by his will, Peter was engaged in pump-making.

The following children are mentioned in his will:

- i Daniel S. Lehman, m. Catherine. By his father's will, he received tools and instruments in pump-making.
- ii Sarah Eliza Lehman.
- iii Tilly Lehman.

iv Henry G. Lehman, executor of his father's will.

v Peter Lehman.

DAVID LEHMAN. David Lehman, the son of John Adam and Anna Margaretha (Steltz) Lehman, was born 11 March 1770, Frederick County, Maryland, and died in Montgomery County, Ohio. David Lehman married 3 April 1793 Magdalena Worman, born 1 November 1772, and died 4 April 1847, Montgomery County, Ohio. David and Magdalena were in the Lehman party of 96 people who went from Frederick County, Maryland to Dayton, Ohio in 1805. Refer to Pioneers of Dayton and Vicinity by John F. Edgar, 1896.

David and Magdalena settled on a farm five miles south of Dayton. Of the nine children, three of them, Susanna, Sophia and Matilda, were born after they settled on this farm. Sophia Lehman married 26 January 1830 Joseph Pomfrey, and Matilda married 5 January 1830 Elijah Bradsbey.

In The Religious Telescope 28 April 1847 there is a notice of the death of Magdalena (Worman) Lehman. She was survived by nine children, eighty grandchildren and twenty-five great grandchildren.

NUTTS LINE OF DESCENT

Frederick Nutts	1700 -
George	- 1776
Frederick	1758 - 1833
George	1786 - 1828
Elizabeth (Nutts) Booher	1813 - 1886

The first of this family in America may have been Frederick Nutts, age 32 who landed in Philadelphia 11 October 1732. George Nutts, age 29 arrived 16 September 1748. Refer to Pennsylvania-German Pioneers. A further note about the first Frederick is given in the records of the German Reformed Church, Frederick, Maryland, - Frederick Nutstt and wife, Maria Appolonia, witnesses of the baptism of Maria Appolonia, daughter of George Hoffman and Eva Margaret, 5 March 1755.

George Noots of Frederick County, Maryland in his will, 30 May 1776 - 7 November 1776 left thirty pounds to his son Frederick, one third of his property to his wife, Magdalena, and the remainder to be divided among his five children, Regina, Eva, Julianna, Magdalena and Frederick. Liber A No. 1 Folio 588. Could these four sisters have been the four great aunts of Elizabeth (Nutts) Booher, who, according to family rumor, together weighed one thousand pounds?

The Frederick Nusz who was a silversmith in Frederick, Maryland around 1800, is apparently not closely connected with our family. A George Michael Nuss arrived in Philadelphia 9 November 1767. The Evangelical Lutheran Church of Frederick records the birth of four of the sons of George Michael and Maria Elizabeth Nuss, 27 January 1771, Johann Jacob Nuss; 24 July 1772, George Fredrich Nuss; 15 April 1788, George Ludwig Nuss; 22 August 1791, George Jacob Nuss. This family was buried at Mt. Olivet Cemetery, Frederick. The will of the silversmith was filed at Frederick in 1842.

FREDERICK NUTTS. No records of Frederick Nutts have been found in Frederick County, Maryland, after the death of his father, George, in 1776. He settled in Ohio, south of Miamisburg, about 1800. The following comment is from the History of Twin Valley, J. T. Hentz, 1882, Germantown, page 52, - "Early settlers of Germantown in quest of a location followed north up the Miami valley south of the present site of Miamisburg. Here lived a wealthy farmer whose name was Nutts who spoke German... After forming his acquaintance and finding him a genial and kindhearted man, they concluded to camp awhile on his farm. It was now midsummer, 1804."

In the 1810 tax list, Washington Township, Montgomery County, Ohio, Frederick Nutts listed 300 acres, Township 5, Range 1, Section 35.

We do not know the name of Frederick Nutts' first wife. His daughter Catherine was born in 1784, and his son, George, in 1786. Frederick Nutts married, second, Mrs. Sarah Higgins.

The stone house mentioned in Frederick Nutts' will, 1833, was located about a mile and a half south of Miamisburg, Ohio. It was weakened by floods from the Miami River, and in 1902 it was torn down.

Information about it was furnished in the summer of 1941 by Albert Emert whose family lived in the Nutts' house from 1858 to 1900. The house was 32 to 34 feet square, two stories and an attic. It was built of chiseled stone, the interior beams of oak and the window frames walnut. Stone from the house was used in the construction of houses on Pearl Street in Miamisburg.

FREDERICK NUTTS . One of the family stories about Frederick Nutts is that he buried some of his money, and it was never found. This story was still current in his section in the summer of 1941, and it was related that occasionally treasure hunters would come to dig on the knoll around his grave. If any money was found, no one knew of it. He was buried on his farm.

Frederick Nutts' will was made in May, 1829, and probated in September 1833, Dayton, Ohio. His gravestone has the following marking: Frederick Nutts Died August 1833 Age 75.

After providing for his wife, Sally Nutts, late Sally Higgins, Frederick left seven hundred dollars to his daughter, Catherine Banta, and five hundred to - "the widow of my son George Nutts for his children". After bequests to his Banta grandchildren, he directed that the estate be sold and divided at the death of his wife. This was done in 1850, with sixteen heirs participating.

CATHERINE (NUTTS) BANTA. Catherine Nutts, the daughter of Frederick Nutts and his first wife, was born 12 September 1784 and died in November 1849. She married 27 November 1800 Abraham Banta who was born 27 June 1778 and died 4 December 1864. He was the son of Albert and Stynie (Montfort) Banta. Refer to The Banta Genealogy, - descendants of Epke Jacobse who came from Friesland, Netherlands to New Amsterdam, February 1659, by Theodore M. Banta, 1893.

Abraham Banta was baptized at Cone-wago, Pennsylvania. The family was living in Kentucky in the 1780s, - a short time in Mercer and Clark Counties, then back to Shelby County in 1786. Abraham and Catherine (Nutts) Banta lived on Banta's Fork, Preble County, Ohio.

Children:

- i Solomon Banta, b. 2 October 1801, m. 25 December 1828, Malinda Small, b. Montgomery County, Ohio 10 February 1809, d. 12 September 1870. Lived at Eaton, Ohio, and Topeka, Kansas.

- xiii Catherine Banta, b. 27 January 1827, m. 1, Emanuel Wyrick (Wierck), 2, Beaufort Banta.

GEORGE NUTTS. George Nutts, the son of Frederick Nutts and his first wife, was born in 1786, probably in Frederick County, Maryland, and died near Miamisburg, Ohio, in October 1828. He married 24 October 1810 Mary Magdalene (Polly) Baum, the daughter of Jacob and Catherine Baum of Miamisburg, Ohio. The minister was the Reverend Andrew Simon of the German Lutheran Church.

George and Polly probably lived on his father's farm just south of Miamisburg, Ohio. George served in the War of 1812, 23 August 1812 - 22 February 1813 in Captain Michael Gunckel's Company. (Refer to The Roster of Ohio Soldiers in the War of 1812.)

Elizabeth (Nutts) Booher often told her daughters of her father's going down the Miami, the Ohio, and the Mississippi Rivers to New Orleans to trade. In 1815 he bought 146 acres of land in Montgomery County, Ohio. George died early, in 1828, and Polly was appointed administratrix of his estate 25 October 1828. In 1835

Polly was living with her daughter, Elizabeth. Polly died at the age of 65.

BAUM LINE OF DESCENT

Theobald (Dewald) Baum	1693 - 1762
Jacob	1723 -
Jacob Baum	1764 - 1830
Mary Magdalene (Polly)
(Baum) Nutts

THEOBALD (DEWALD) BAUM. Mrs. Eleanore B. Huey and her sister, Mrs. L. Gertrude Fryburg, secured the information about Theobald Baum, and the first Jacob, and prepared the sketches. The first settler bearing the name of Baum in Berks, then Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania, was Theobald (Dewald) Baum, pioneer ancestor of the family generally alluded to as the Berks County Baums. He was born 15 March 1693 and died 27 April 1762.

The exact date of his arrival in America is not known. It is believed that he came in the 1720s and was then a young man with a wife and two children. He came to this country from Strassburg, Alsace, Germany. In the petition for the setting aside of Alsace Township, 2 December 1744, which he signed, it states, - "they wish the name to be Alsace because the first settlers came from there". In another article it states that his son Jacob was born in Strassburg. Nothing more on this subject is known though a search in Europe was authorized and probably made. We have no report on the findings.

The name of Baum was variously spelled on the records as - Bawm, Bahm, Balm, Bom, Bomm, Bumm, Bohm, etc. Theobald's name as given on his tombstone was Johann Theobald Baum, and we find him sometimes called Theobald and then again Dewald, its equivalent.

A letter from James Logan to George Boone gives permission for Theobald Baum, John Brown and Jno Havermaker to sit down on any small piece of vacant land. (Logan Papers, Blue Letter Books, vol. III, p. 174, Historical Society of Pennsylvania.)

The earliest date that we find Theobald Baum's name recorded is 1731 when a warrant for 250 acres of land was given him. The survey was made on 30 April 1734, and shows that at that date the surrounding land was vacant with the exception of one adjoining plot owned by Jacob Spengler. This gives proof also to the claim by both families that the Spenglers and the Baums were the first to settle in this section. It is believed, however, that Theobald Baum had settled on the land long before the date of the warrant.

Theobald Baum took the sacrament 4 February 1740 and was naturalized 10 April 1741 at a Supreme Court held in Philadelphia. His name is there written Theowald Baum. The names of Jacob Spengler and Dewald Baum headed the list of signatures to the petition for Alsace Township presented to the Philadelphia County quarterly Session Court, 2 December 1744. The petition was granted 3 March 1745. In 1756 Alsace had a tax list of 77 taxables and Dewald Baum was among these.

The first church in the neighborhood was built in 1737 with the ground donated by the Baum and Spengler families. It was built of logs by the exiled Alsatian Protestants who settled there. The services were conducted in French and German. It was a union Lutheran and Reformed church, the services conducted by wandering preachers because of the scarcity of regular ministers. This practice probably accounts for the lack of ministerial acts of that period. In the plot of ground south of the church still may be found the grave of Theobald Baum. There are now in fact two fine churches, the Alsace joined with the Schwartzwald, and Trinity Church. The marker of sandstone of Theobald Baum is the oldest dated stone there. The inscription is in German. On the back there are some further cuttings, too faint to be read.

Here lies the body of a wise,
peaceloving Member, his name

JOHANN THEOBALD BAUM

He was born Mar. 15, 1693

He slept in peace August 27,

Dewald Baum's will was made and signed 25 August 1761 and probated 9 October 1762 at Reading, Berks County, Pennsylvania. He signed by making his mark but this undoubtedly was because he was ill. Other documents carrying his signature were in German and of fine and plain writing. The original will written in German is missing but the English translation is on file. His wife, Anna Margaret, was one of the executors, and his sons, Peter and John.

A deed dated 7 December 1766, recorded 17 May 1779 in Berks County deed Book, volume 7, pages 20-22, names most of the children of Theobald Baum. This shows that Jacob Baum of Maryland and Margaret, his wife, and Frederick Baum and Eve Barbara his wife who appeared in Maryland and then later in Cumberland County, Pennsylvania were the sons of Theobald Baum. His wife evidently did not survive long as her name does not appear in this sale.

JACOB BAUM. Jacob Baum, the son of Theobald Baum and his wife, Anna Margaret, was born about 1723 in Strassburg, Alsace, Germany and came as a young child to America with his parents. We first find him on the tax list in Berks County, Pennsylvania in 1759. About 1763 he and his brother Frederick went to Maryland. He was a blacksmith. We find a deed dated 8 October 1765 to him from Christopher Darbin both of Frederick County, Maryland. (Deed Book K, page 39). The deed states the land lies near the said Baum's house so he either bought property prior to this deed, though we find none earlier, or he previously had been a renter in Frederick.

Jacob Baum married Susanna Margaretha Kershner the second daughter of Martin Kershner and his wife Margareth. Martin Kershner was one of the earliest and most influential settlers of Hagerstown, Maryland. This connected the Baums of Berks County, Pennsylvania with two of the well-known families of Maryland, the Kershners and the Hagers. Captain Jonathan Hager married Elizabeth Kershner in 1740.

Proof of the marriage of Jacob Baum and Margaretha Kershner is in the will of Martin Kershner, 30 November 1769 - 30 December 1769, in which he mentions his wife, three sons, Martin, David and George, two daughters, Magdalena and Margaretha and three grandchildren, Jacob Baum, Martin Baum and John Baum. He left each of the grandsons fifty pounds.

In 1778 Jacob Baum signed the Patriot's Oath of Fidelity and Support in Frederick County, Maryland. Refer to Revolutionary Records of Maryland edited by Gaius Marcus Brumbaugh and Margaret Roberts Hodges, 1924, volume 2, part one, page 22.

It is not known just when Jacob Baum removed to Derry Township Cumberland, later Mifflin County, Pennsylvania but it is believed that he joined his two brothers and their families there, probably upon the death of his wife. She did not appear in the sale of his Frederick County property in 1788. Refer to Frederick County Deed Book WR8, page 167. In 1787 Jacob's name is on the tax list of Cumberland County, Pennsylvania with his brothers, Frederick, John, Jonas and his son, Jacob, Junior. Here we lose contact with Jacob, Senior, and it is believed he passed away there in Cumberland County.

- ii Martin Baum, b. 1765. Leading citizen of Cincinnati. (Refer to The Ohio State Archeological and Historical Quarterly 44:205.)
- iii John Baum. Refer to Maryland census of 1790. Frederick County, page 60 - John Baum, 2 sons and 2 daughters.

JACOB BAUM, JUNIOR. Jacob Baum, the son of Jacob and Margaretha (Kershner) Baum, was born at Hagerstown, Maryland in 1764, and died 10 February 1830, Miamisburg, Ohio. Jacob married Catherine, 1762-1806. He may have married, second, 5 January 1812 Anne Coleman, Butler County, Ohio records.

Jacob Baum's name appears in the Official Roster of Soldiers of the American Revolution who lived in the State of Ohio, 1938, volume two, page 52. This was reported by William Pettit of Dayton, and was based on militia service in Cumberland later Mifflin County, Pennsylvania. Fifth Series Pennsylvania Archives. Volume four, page 278, six, page 650, Continental line, Cumberland Militia, 1782, Col. Lamb, volume 6, page 649, muster roll 1783 Captain William Lamb.

In 1787 in Derry Township, Cumberland, later Mifflin County, Pennsylvania, we find three Jacobs, - Jacob, Senior, Jacob, Junior and Jacob, referred to as the younger who was the son of Jonas Baum.

The 1790 census, Mifflin County, Pennsylvania lists Jacob, Junior. His household included two males over 16, probably he and his father, one son under 16 (his oldest son, Martin K.), his wife and two daughters. We also place both Jacob, Senior and Junior in Derry Township as late as 1797 when their names appear as purchasers of articles from the estate of Jonas, Junior, son of Jonas Baum.

Jacob Baum, Junior moved to Kentucky probably about 1800. He may have been the Jacob Baughman granted fifty acres of land in Lincoln County, Kentucky in 1782. Refer to Kentucky Land Grants edited by Willard Rouse Jillson, Standard Printing Company, Louisville, 1925, page 21. In 1790 Jacob Beam was on the list of taxpayers of Lincoln County. Refer to First Census of Kentucky, 1790, edited by C. B. Heineman and Gaius Marcus Brumbaugh, Washington, D. C.

Information about the Baum family in Ohio comes from the records of Montgomery County, Ohio at Dayton, and from The History of Montgomery County, Ohio, published by Beers, 1882, p. 135. The section on Miami Township was written by Zimmer from information supplied by Blossom. ---

"In 1806 Jacob and Catherine Baum, natives of Maryland who had been residing in Kentucky previous to this date, came to what is now Miami Township and located northeast of Hole's station, on the east bank of the Miami River. They brought with them nine children, viz. Martin K., Mary, Elizabeth, John, George, Susan, Barbara, Jacob and Joseph. The mother died about 1806 and the father about 1830. Jacob, Jr., the only survivor of the family, was born February 4, 1801 and is now eighty-one years old.... He was married to Elizabeth Cramer who bore him three daughters, Margaret, Eliza and Mary, the eldest of whom is the only one living, she being the wife of John H. Schaffer of German Township with whom Mr. Baum makes his home."

Page 145, "The Reformed Church of Miamisburg was incorporated jointly with the Lutheran in 1822, and the first trustees in that year were Jacob Baum, Emanuel Gebhart and Frederic Gruendner."

Jacob and Catherine Baum and others in the family were buried in the churchyard of St. John's Lutheran Church east of Miamisburg, Ohio, known also as the Gebhart cemetery. The land was given by George and Elizabeth Gebhart, and the deed recorded 27 February 1816.

Joseph Baum and Mary Nutts were appointed administrator and administratrix of Jacob's estate, 9 May 1830. Bond in the sum of $2400.00. Papers in the settlement of the estate have disappeared. Montgomery County, Ohio, Wills, Dayton.

THE KERSHNER FAMILY

This family name has been spelled Karsner, Kirshner, Grischner, Carsner, Crisner, and doubtless, in other ways.

According to the Baum records, Jacob Baum, Senior, married Margareth Kershner, daughter of Martin Kershner of Hagerstown, Maryland. His will dated 30 November 1769, and probated at Frederick, 30 December 1769, left property to his wife, Margareth, his sons, Martin, David and George, his daughters, Magdalena and Margareth, and three grandchildren, Jacob Baum, Martin Baum and John Baum. Jonathan Hager was an executor.

Mrs. John A. Randall of Keedysville, Maryland, did most of the research on the Kershner family, and her report follows,- "My first effort was to check Pennsylvania German Pioneers by Strassburger and Hinke to see if there was a record of the arrival in this country of a Martin Kershner. I found a good many arrivals named Kershner but only one Martin. In the list of passengers, List 14A (I.39,40,41) on the Ship Samuel, Hugh Percy, Commr. from Rotterdam, arriving at Philadelphia August ye 16th. Anno 1731 were the following:

Men of 16 years of age and upwards:

George Crisner (first name in list)

Women of 16 years of age and upwards:

Ann Crisner

Children:

Mertin Crisner

Elizabeth Crisner

Barbary Crisner

p. 41 List of Palatines imported in Ship Samuel, Hugh Percy, Mr. from Rottr but last from Cowes in G. Britain. Qualified August 17, 1731.

Johann Görg Kirschner (first name on list)

Well, here is a George Kershner with a daughter named Elizabeth and a son named Martin, arriving in this country well before 1740 the date when Elizabeth Kershner married Jonathan Hager. Elizabeth was under 16 in 1731 but we do not know how much under 16. Since Barbara's name comes after we rather assume that Barbara was younger than Elizabeth. Martin may have been older than Elizabeth or listed first because he was a male and this was a German family which favored the males always. I cannot guarantee that this was your Martin nor that this was the Elizabeth Kershner who married Jonathan Hager in 1740 but it looks very likely that both were true, and that they were brother and sister, and that George was their father. Martin named a son George which was another indication that his father may have been George. I believe, however, that his eldest son was named Martin. This was not typical German procedure for the eldest son was usually named for the child's paternal grandfather.

Scharf in his History of Western Maryland, p. 1060, quotes from Jonathan Hager's Bible in which he states that he and Elizabeth Grischnner were married in 1740. Another note on Jonathan Hager stated that his wife's people lived near him, a little way west of what is now

Hagerstown which would place them in or near Clear Spring."

Martin Kersner received warrants No. 108 and 109 dated 5 October 1743 for 298 acres of land in three tracts in Bern Township, Lancaster County, now Berks County.
