Your writer feels a deep gratitude to those who have been of assistance by furnishing material for this study of the Bullen family, and wishes to thank all those to whom she is indebted.

Organizing the material and setting it up in proper order was no small task and errors may occur. However, much care has been taken to reduce them to a minimum. We ask your indulgence if any such errors should affect you.

EUROPEAN BACKGROUND

The name Bullen is Anglo-French. The first to use it were those who lived at Boulogne, France. The prefix "de" was used before the name of the city to designate the residence of persons who came from there—as "Sir Thomas de Boulogne". The name came into England with the Normans in the eleventh century. The Bullen family was introduced into England by Sir Thomas or Sir Richard de Boulogne, one of the knights of William the Conqueror A.D. 1066. This knight was granted the lordship of Wernfawr in Talgarth, Brecknockshire, Wales; The Bullens of Blicking and Norfolk, England, are said to be descended from a branch of the Welsh line.

The name has had various spellings in England and in America. Here are some of them: Boloyne, Boleyne, Boleyn, Bullene, Boloynne, Bologne, Boolon, Bulline, Bullin, Bulling, Bullan, Bullein, Ballaine, Bullen, and others. Bullen is the form most often used in America today.

History of Brecknockshire - Jones - Volume 1, Page 61.

"To Sir Thomas or as others, Sir Richard Bullen or de Boulogne, the manor of Wernfawr". This was one of the many castles given to Normans who had accompanied Bernard Newmarch, said to be the uterine brother of William, the Conqueror, though not confirmed. The descendants of most of these Normans continued in the country and in the neighborhood in 1805 though several of them had changed their names according to the Welsh custom.

Among the monuments at Talachddu is one to Lewis Williams, Esquire of Pentury, Trawscoed, who with other members of the same family at one time held considerable property here and one who had been here as esquire since the beginning of the sixteenth century. Lewis Williams, father of the above mentioned was of the family of Williams of the Rhos in Tolgarth, a branch of the Bullen family, descended from the Thomas Bullen of Llangathin, grandson of Sir Thomas Bullen, Knight of Wernfawr. For a further account o fthis family see the Parish of Gwenddwr —".

History of Brecknockshire. Vol. IV, page 148, The Abercromlais and Penpont Families.

"The first of this family of Bernard Newmarch's knights was Sir Thomas or as others Sir Richard Bullen or de Boulogne, though after they came to England they assumed the Bull's head and affected to borrow the name from thence. The conqueror conferred upon the first knight by the name of Bullen a lordship, in Tolgarth, called Wernfawr, and he and his immediate descendants connected themselves so well in Herdfordshire that they must have greatly improved their property. From one of these marriages as we apprehend came the Bullen or Bullens of Blicking and Norfolk. But English genealogists are involuntarily silent, and cannot be persuaded to introduce us to any of the ancestors in the line prior to Sir Thomas Bullen 1411 from whom Ann Bullen, Queen of England, fourth in descent of whom as being always considered of the same family there is a very good picture in Penpont".

"The law of gavelkind had the same operation upon the property of the Brecknockshire branch of the family, when they became numerous as it had upon all others; rending into four or five shares and then dividing and subdividing it into freeholds, which were either insufficient for the maintenance of the proprietors and consequently sold to more opulent neighbors, or else, it was occasionally increased and preserved by fortunate connexions with the ancient inhabitants of the country, with whom they became so intermixed that little of the Norman blood remained in their veins, and even the surname would have been forgotten, but for the professional and untiring industry of the heralds of the Arwydd feirdd. This family was in a greater hurry to part with their surname in Wales, while they retained it in England, then any other of Bernard's knights, except Surdwal for they only adopted it for four generations after the first."

"The restoration of the eldest branch into affluence and consequence like that of Llwyncyntefu is attributable to a clergyman by the name of Thomas Williams, who proud of his descent from the same ancestor as Queen Elizabeth I as appears by an inscription upon his gravestone in Llanspyddid Church, most certainly exerted himself strenuously in support of the reformed religion and from his having been the first who introduced the use of the surplice in the church service he was called vicar gwyn Llanspyddid.

He was master of the arts, though not named by Wood, who however, after mentioning Thomas Williams, the compiler of the Welsh Dictionary and Thomas Williams of Broadgate Hall who took the degree B.A. in 1592, adds "But there were several others of this name before and after these".

The Thomas Williams, last named, was certainly after our Williams time for he was instituted in 1571 and died in 1613. The pedigree from his tombstone differs in one name from ours, reciting him to be Thomas Williams, son of Henry (instead of Phillip) son of Richard, son of Lawrence Bullen.

His only son was a clergyman, as indeed were all his descendants in the eldest line, except one, for eight generations. He built the present house of Abercamlais since frequently altered, repaired and almost rebuilt, and settled there. The pedigree of the family follows—

Bullen, now Williams of Abercamlais.

3. Thomas Lawrence - married (?) Phillip, son of Richard Lawrence, married Jane, daughter of Lewis Harvard of Tredomen William Phillip of Llanspyddid, son of Philip Lawrence, married Gwenllian, daughter of Rich—son of Ievan Meredith.

Son, Daniel Williams, clerk vicar of Myddfe and Llans, married Sarah, daughter of J. Lewis A. Flrwdgred.

One of the earliest records of the family in England is that of Sir Gilbert de Boolon who was living in Northumberland in 1168 A.D. Other records include the name of John de Boleyne whose name is on the "Hundred Rolls" and Pharamund de Boloynne who was living in Buckinghamshire in 1273 —also of Richard de Boloyne of Cambridgeshire in the same year. Thomas Boloyne of Essex lived about the same time. There was also Simon Count of Buloyne who lived in Oxfordshire during the same period, and another family of the same name was early living in Lincolnshire. For the most part these lines appear to have belonged to the nobility and landed gentry of Great Britain.

Simon de Boleyne who resided in County of Norfolk in the thirteenth century was the father of another John de Boleyne who was the ancestor of Sir Thomas Bullen of Blicking and Sall. This Sir Thomas married Joan, daughter of Sir John Bracton and was the grandfather of Sir Geoffery Bullen (also called Sir Godfrey Bullen) who settled in London and was Lord Mayor of that city in 1457 or 1458. He married, Anne, daughter of Thomas. Lord Hoe and Hastings and was the father of William Bullen of Blicking and Norfolk. Sir William married Margaret, sister and co-heir to James Butler, Earl of Ormond and Wiltshire. To this union was born, among other children, Sir Thomas Bullen — Bulleyne or Boleyne—who was made Vicount of Rockford by King Henry VIII, and was Earl of Ormond and Wiltshire in the twentyfirst year of the reign of the same monarch. He married Elizabeth Howard, daughter of the Duke of Norfold and died about 1537. He was the father of George, Anne and Mary. The daughter Anne was the unfortunate wife of King Henry VIII. George, Vicount of Rockford, the only son of Sir Thomas was one of the most favored noblemen of his day, but was committed to the tower and beheaded in the year 1536. He was married to Jane, daughter of Henry Parker, but some writers say he left no descendants.

Other writers say that George Bullen was the ancestor of the first Samuel in America. It is said that King Henry VIII had all records of the Bullen family destroyed after George's death. As to whether this is true your writer is unable to say.

Among the later records of the name in England are those of Sir Nicholas Bullen who married Jane Carr in London in 1734; Thomas Bulline who was married in 1739 to Mary Stanfield of London, and Ann Bullen of London who married Ralph Cooper in 1759.

The Bullen coat of arms as given by Burke in Heraldic Armory—

Arms quarterly—first and fourth argent a chevron gules between three bulls' heads sable, second and third sable, three mullets or a chief dancettee.

Crest a Talbot gules Collared Or. The bulls' heads are used in reference to the name Bullen. It was much the custom to use for an heraldic device something which had reference to the name—for example a swan for the Swan family, a fish for Fisher, etc.

The style of arms was called a canting, and as a rule when you see a canting arms you may take it for granted that the grant is an ancient one. The colors symbolize sincerety, great courage, constancy, magnanimity, and generosity. This is the coat of arms given by Burke for the Boleyn family and for the name Bullen.

Early Settlers In America

Part 2

EARLY SETTLERS IN AMERICA

The first account of the Bullen family in America was that of Samuel Bullen in Watertown, Mass., in 1636. He was later in Dedham, Sherborn, and Medfield, Massachusetts. His descendants are found to have lived in towns in Massachusetts, Connecticut, Maine and Vermont. Sometimes we found records duplicated. Most by the name of Bullen were found in historical records and vital statistics from Medfield, Sherborn, Medway, Sutton, Dedham, Wales, Brimfield, Framingham, Hingham and Bellerica, Massachusetts. Others were found in Windham County, Connecticut, Hallowell, Farmington, Norway, and Augusta, Maine.

Mary Lovering Holman and Winfield Lovering Holman, Schenectady, wrote the book "Dana Ripley Bullen". As to whether he is connected with the Samuel Bullen family, your writer is unable to say. In the Vital Statistics Records in all these towns there are many by the name of Bullen. Many of them fit into the genealogy of the first Samuel. Some could not be placed.

One Nathaniel Bullen, born September 2, 1677, son of Joseph and Sarah in Medfield would seem to indicate that perhaps Samuel had a brother named Joseph who settled there. (Vital Statistics of Medfield). No further record was found.

There is also an account of the death of a John Bullen by the overthrowing of a cart October 27, 1678. Since John (second generation) son of Samuel was married in 1683, lived in Medfield, died in 1703 and his son John was born in 1691, and died in 1741. There must have been others besides Samuel's descendants by the name of Bullen living in this part of New England.

However, we are sure that one New England branch of the Bullen family began with Samuel who was in Watertown, Massachusetts in 1636. He was one of the signers of the Dedham Compact, and took the Freeman's Oath (making him a citizen) in 1641. He owned a house in Dedham in 1646 which was burned by the Indians prior to 1651. Philip with 500 warriors laid town in ashes and massacred eighteen persons.

Samuel escaped to Sherborn, where in 1679 he sent a petition to General Court for abatement of taxes, having suffered losses in time of war. While in Sherborn he was a tenant of his brother-in-law Daniel Morse. Samuel removed to Medfield soon after 1679 and rebuilt. He was one of the selectmen there in 1682 and was chosen deacon prior to 1689. His home was standing as late as 1798. His tombstone, erected by his descendants, about a century after his death, declared that he was the first European with a family in the Town of Dedham.

In 1641 he married Mary Morse, daughter of Samuel and Elizabeth Jasper Morse. She joined the church in Dedham June 7, 1646. "Genealogical History of Medfield" says that Samuel and Mary both died in 1691. Another source says that Samuel died January 16, 1692. Widow died February 14, 1693.

It is said that a John Bullen was living in Medfield in 1649. Possibly he was a brother of the immigrant Samuel. It is believed that he died without issue.

Of Samuel's and Mary Morse Bullen's five sons who grew to maturity, John, Ephraim, and Elisha are known to have had families.

In "History of Framingham", Barry gives the distribution of Samuel Bullen's estate June 24, 1697. He shows that Samuel, Joseph, Elisha, John, Mary and Bethia were still living—"To sons, Samuel, Joseph and other heirs, namely, Mary Clarke, John Bullen, Elisha Bullen, the children of Elizabeth Wheelock, the children of Ephraim Bullen, children of Meletiah Fisher, and Bethia Colburn".

Genealogical History of Medfield.

Medfield was the first town settled by the Dedham proprietors, 1640. This history gives an account of the immigrant Samuel who was at Watertown in 1636, and an account of his children, all of whom have already been mentioned, along with their mother, Mary Morse Bullen.

It also gives an account of John, son of Samuel and Mary Morse Bullen.

"History of Sherborn" by Bigelow gives this account:

"A gravestone, found near the dwelling house of Mr. Isaac Cozens and preserved in a faced wall which inclosed his door yard, it is said was intended to be erected in the central yard in memory of the person whose name it bears; but it was not procured till her friends had forgotten where they had laid her. She was the wife of Ephraim who was the son of Samuel and Mary Morse Bullen.

Ephraim signed with others the list of resolutions toward building of new meeting house, engaging Mr. Gookin as new minister, finishing and fitting house for him, etc. From manuscript of Rev. F. Lewis Weis we have the following:

Part 3

REV. JOSEPH BULLEN, JR.'S WORK IN VERMONT

At this point we will concern ourselves with Rev. Joseph Bullen, Jr., fifth generation in America who was your writer's great, great grandfather.

He was born July 8, 1750 and was recorded as living in Brimfield, Mass. in 1774 when he married Hannah Morse of Sutton.

Joseph was graduated from Yale College in 1772 and was included in the "Yale Biographies and Annals", 1763-1778 by Dexter. He afterward studied Theology. After his marriage to Hannah Morse in 1774 he was ordained July 6, 1774 as pastor of the Congregational Church of Westminister, Vermont where a brother of Hannah's had already settled. Rev. Joseph Bullen followed a Rev. Goodell (Yale 1761) who had been pastor from 1767 to 1769.

In 1867 a Centennial of the Church at Westminister was held and Rev. Pliny White preached the Centennial sermon June 11. Part of the sermon follows:

"Church was served by Rev. Joseph Bullen, second pastor 1774-1785 or soon after, during which time forty-six persons were added to the church. Joseph Bullen was born in Sutton (?), Mass.; was a graduate of Yale, and married Hannah Morse, a relative of the inventor of the telegraph. He was a man of learning, talent, and piety, a fine writer, and a clear and sensible and instructive, though not eleoquent preacher. His usefulness, however, while in Westminister was much impaired by his devotion to money getting. He kept a store, manufactured potash, speculated in land, and was considered over shrewd at a bargain. Having acquired a large quantity of wild land in Athens he removed there in 1785 or as soon after, the relation between him and the church being dissolved by his asking dismission, the church granting it, and his certifying it in writing September 26, 1785, that he accepted the dismission and released the church from obligation to him."

> At the same Centennial meeting there was an address by Rev. A. Stevens, pastor of the Church in Westminister (west parish). June 11, 1867. (Westminister Congregational Church) (Newberry Library, Chicago, Ill.).

"In 1797 there was a congregational church in Westminister. She reports in the Consociation only once, Sept. 25, 1798, by name of Rev. Joseph Bullen, former minister of the church, who after leaving this church, served in Athens for a number of years in the treble office of minister, farmer and miller".

A highly embellished account of a case of discipline which occurred during Rev. Bullen's pastorate at Westminister may be found in Graham's "Descriptive Sketch of the Present State of Vermont" on pages 111-115, and it is repeated in Hall's "History of Eastern Vermont," pages 732-733. It must be taken "Cum grano Salis".

Following is a story of Captain Azariah Wright and his attempted excommunication. He was bold, rough and out-attempted excommunication. He was bold, rough and outspoken. When the Rev. Joseph Bullen was first settled in West-

When the Rev. Joseph Bullen was first settled in Westminister, Uncle Riah was a church member of good standing. He adhered strongly to the cause of Mr. Goodell, whose evil conduct had induced him to depart secretly from the town.
His antipathy to Mr. Bullen was as great as his friendship for Mr. Goodell.

He had tweaked his nose, cuffed his cheek and performed many other enormities for which he was prosecuted, fined and put under bond to keep the peace. Notwithstanding these punishments he committed another assault upon Mr. Bullen in consequence of which the church resolved to excommunicate their rebellious member.

On the Sunday appointed for this purpose Uncle "Riah" made his appearance at church duly equipped with his trusty "Queen's Arms" with which he paced the aisle during the whole of the service. As the exercises were drawing to a close, Mr. Bullen drew forth the letter of excommunication, and as he did so Uncle "Riah" brought the gun to his shoulder. The minister began to read. "Make ready", shouted the Captain, suiting the action to the order. Mr. Bullen, though intimidated, proceeded with the reading, but had enunciated only a few words when Uncle "Riah" said and did "take aim". Penetrated with a thrilling fear that any further attempt on his part to publish the proscription might put an untimely end to his own preaching, the minister passed the offensive order to John Sessions, his eldest deacon. Scarcely had the deacon commenced to read when Captain Wright, with a threatening look, brought his piece to bear upon him.

"All things are lawful, but some things are not expedient", remarked Deacon Sessions to Parson Bullen in the language of St. Paul, and returned the paper to his Reverence.

A consultation was then held among the spiritual officers of the church, which resulted in a decision favorable to a stay of proceedings. Thereupon the letter of excommunication was folded up, the benediction was pronounced and Uncle Riah marched home in triumph.

An altogether different version of the foregoing incident is told in a ballad by Margaret Wright Bent found in "History of Westminister Vermont". All of which may give us reason enough to take the account "Cum grano salis".

> Way back in 1774 In History we're told There lived on Azariah Wright Who was brave and bold.

A Captain he, severe and strict Eccentric to the core And when he spoke, his voice pealed forth Quite like a lion's roar.

The records show he beat his wife, Waved weapons o'er her head; And once the Rev. Bullen's nose He tweaked, the papers read.

In spite of all his recklessness A pious man was he Each Sunday found him in his pew Where good folk ought to be.

Now Uncle Riah, as sometimes called Was bothered by a bear That trod his cornfields, spoiled his crops He'd raised with utmost care.

That cunning but ferocious beast Would wait for Sunday morn And while the captain was at church Would raid his field of corn. These oft repeated trespasses Aroused the captain's ire; To have a bear elude him thus He soon began to tire.

One Sunday morn with loaded gun Behind some bush concealed He waited for that old he-bear To come into his field.

At last from out the thicket He spied Old Bruin's head He aimed his gun, the trigger pulled Shot the offender dead.

The loud report was heard at church In session close at hand Such daring, bold impiety Was hard to understand.

Acquainted with the cause at last The parson, deacons too With all the elders went to work To see what they could do.

They called a meeting of the church The offending brother stood And from the scriptures tried to show 'Twas lawful to do good.

But all in vain the judges gave No signs of approbation And Azariah was condemned To excommunication.

Accordingly, he was enjoined To go on Sunday next And hear the parson read his doom At close of the morning text.

He did attend—with loaded gun Nor did he try to hide His cartridge box and trusty sword Close hanging by his side

The benediction was pronounced, And then the Parson read, "Offending Brother"—that was all "Proceed and you are dead".

These words rang out with mighty force As Azariah stood And aimed the gun; the Parson knew That aim was all too good.

So down behind the desk he shrunk Some moments passed ere he Quite dared to take a tiny peek At his bold enemy.

He found the hero at a rest And reached with trembling hand To Elder Deacon the order gave "Read it", was his command.

With staring eyes and accents strained The Deacon in wild affright Began to read—But, a levelled gun Greeted his dimming sight.

Rev. Joseph Bullen, Jr.'s Work In Vermont

"Desist and March", the victim roared, "I will not live in shame" "Desist and march", I say, "or you Are all dead men", he flamed.

No need, had he to repeat his threat, Confusion great prevailed, The man of God leaped from his desk The women and children wailed.

In equal trepidation The Deacons and Elders too, And congregation, all escaped The best way that they knew.

At last, sole master of the field And of the church as well The victor calmly locked the door The records go on to tell.

He sent the keys with his respects To the Pastor—then marched home With all the honors of a war, To be compared to none.

It was nineteen years ere he and the bear Could by chance have a reunion, Azariah died, as die he would A brother in full communion.

A descriptive sketch of the Present State of Vermont by John Andrew Graham, 1797.

From Westminister, Vermont, John A. Graham wrote the story of the bear and the members of the second Protestant Church in the state. It was told as in the ballad. But no names were mentioned.

These stories brought us far afield from the family of Rev. Joseph Bullen, but they were too full of human interest not to be included.

When Rev. Joseph Bullen, Jr. left Westminister in 1785 he moved to Athens, Vermont where he had purchased land.

For several years he preached in that town with little or no compensation, and in 1797 his labors resulted in the organization of a Congregatinal Church of which he and his wife were two of the eleven constituent members.

In 1788 and 1791 he was the representative of Athens in the legislature of Vermont. While there he was made Chaplain of that body and on October 9th the Governor and Council joined the General Assembly in attending divine services which were performed by the Rev. Joseph Bullen. For this patriotic act he was cited as assisting in the establishment of American Independence in the War of the Revolution, thereby making any of his descendants eligible for membership in the Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and Sons of the American Revolution organizations.

WORK WITH THE NEW YORK MISSIONARY SOCIETY

In 1796 the New York Missionary Society was organized in the city of New York and offered to send missionaries to destitute parts of the country, especially to the Indians.

Rev. Joseph Bullen, Jr., was the first and only one to answer this call and a full report of his dedication, charge and excerpts from a copy of his Journals written on a long trek by him and his son, Joseph III, who was then about sixteen years of age, to the Indian country in Northern Mississippi follow. This was copied from the "New York Missionary Magazine", Volume I in Swift Hall Library at the University of Chicago.

Volume I. P. 5 - New York Missionary Magazine

"In autumn of 1796 a number of ministers in the city of New York, being informed of the exertions which were then, and had been for some time, made in Great Britain, to spread the knowledge of the gospel among the heathen, became impressed with the duty of making a similar attempt in America. They engaged a number of clerical brethern and private Christians in the city of different denominations. These met November 1, 1796 and organized themselves into a society for sending the gospel to the frontier settlements and among the Indian tribes in the United States. They agreed to a constitution and address which were soon published.

Next meeting Nov. 7, 1796 or 1797

In the evening the Society adjourned to the Old Presbyterian Church in Wall Street where a sermon suited to the occasion was delivered by the Rev. Mr. Mason of the Scots Presbyterian Church in Cedar St. Large, attentive, serious crowd. Large collection after the sermon.

On the first Tuesday of November 1798 the Society met. Did little but elect officers on account of a malignant and mortal disease which had prevailed for some time.

They met early in 1799. Sermon by Dr. Livingston in Scots Presbyterian Church. Audience large, attentive and solemn. Collection made after the service was comformable to the usual liberality of the citizens of New York. On Wednesday, April 24, Dr. McKnight delivered a sermon in the North Dutch Church. Another large crowd—generous collection in spite of foul weather.

Report made to Directors-

The Directors wished to begin a mission as soon as possible and early appointed a committee to obtain missionaries. The committee advertised time after time, with little apparent success, receiving, however, intimation from the Rev. Joseph Bullen of Vermont, that he would be willing to accept an appointment as a Missionary and being ascertained as to his character and gualifications, they recommended him; and the directors agreed to employ him at the annual salary of $375.00 and to defray his expenses in travelling to the place of his destination. They agreed at the same time that it would be most eligible to attempt the establishment of a mission first among the Chickasaw Indians, a nation on the western borders of the state of Georgia (what is now the northern part of Mississippi); and Mr. Bullen was requested to come without delay. They advanced him part of his salary to assist in his preparation and requested him to preach on a certain evening in one of the churches, on which occasion the President of the Society was appointed to give him a charge as to the duties of his mission.

The above request was complied with on the 21st of last month (March) when Rev. Bullen preached, received a charge and was set apart to his work by solemn praver. The directors supplied him with a few books and articles which were deemed proper, and advanced him $250.00 to defray expenses incident to his journey and mission. He left this city on the 26th of last month (March), accompanied by his son, a lad of about 17 years of age and who is supposed will readily acquire the Indian language and may be useful in teaching the Indian children, but he is not at present in the employ of the Directors. Certain documents from the Government of the United States were cheerfully granted in Philadelphia to Rev. Bullen and private directions were given him by gentlemen who kindly and warmly interested themselves in the business. The last account of him is from Lancaster, Pennsylvania, on the first of April when he wrote that his journey had been so far prosperous, and that he had not been without evident tokens of divine presence.

This report was signed by order of the Directors,

John M. Mason, Secretary

A charge to the Rev. Joseph Bullen first Missionary to the Indians, from New York Missionary Society, for propagating the Gospel among the Heathen; delivered by Appointment of the Society in the New Dutch Church, March 21, 1799 by John Rodgers, D.D., senior minister of the United Presbyterian Churches in the City of New York, and President of the Society.

"Reverend and Dear Brother, the character in which you stand before this assembly is highly important, and peculiarly interesting to all who regard the souls of men and the prosperity of the Redeemer's kingdom. You stand here as the first messenger employed by the New York Missionary Society to carry the glad tidings of salvation to the heathen on our borders, who are perishing for the lack of knowledge.

"You have the honor to be the first in entering upon those labors, which the liberality of our Christian brethren has enabled us to commence and to which we hope others, provided by the great Lord of the harvest, will soon follow you. Every pious heart within these walls feels a tender interest in your undertaking, and beats high with anxious hope for the result of your mission.

"You are entering upon a new and untried scene of labor. Though you have been for some years clothed with the honorable character of an ambassador of Christ, you cannot but be sensible that the field of ministerial exertion to which you are hastening, is widely different from that to which you have been hithereto accustomed. You are going to a region which the joyful sound of the Gospel has never yet reached to a howling wilderness where the arts of civilized life are almost unknown-to a people covered with the gloom of ignorance, superstition and barbarism. You are about to take upon yourself the mighty task of proclaiming the good news of salvation through a crucified Savior, to those who never heard his name, and of carrying the light of the Son of Righteousness to those who are sitting in the region and shadow of death. Who can tell the consequences of this solemn undertaking? Who can calculate how deeply the Glory of God—the interest of the Redeemer's Kingdom—and the salvation of millions yet unborn may be involved in this mission?

"Permit me therefore My Dear Brother, before we bid you adieu, permit me with all plainness and affection in the name of the Society to which you are engaged, to offer you a few words of parting counsel and to commend you by prayer to the great Head of the Church. Page 30—

"In a word Dear Brother you may have reason to expect that you will meet with many trials, and even formidable difficulties. You will have to contend with the perils of the wilderness, and with the numerous inconveniences of barbarous life. You will have to encounter the obstacles arising from the ferocious temper, the roving disposition, the superstitions, prejudices and the profound ignorance of the heathen tribes to which you are going. In addition to the numerous discouragements which ordinarily beset the ambassador of Christ, you will have many peculiar to your situation as a missionary among the heathen. These are considerations, which, were there nothing to counterbalance them, would appall the stoutest heart.

"But let none of these things move you. Remember the divine commission 'Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature.' And remember the gracious promise with which it was accompanied—'Lo I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world.'"

"Go in peace. May you have the grace to be faithful unto death, and when the Chief Shepherd shall appear, may you receive a crown of glory that fadeth not away."

Amen.

Extracts from the Journal of the Rev. Joseph Bullen, Missionary to the Chickasaw Indians from the New York Missionary Society.

(He was accompanied by his oldest son Joseph Bullen, III - who was at that time about 17 years of age.)

On the 26th day of March, 1799, we took our departure from New York, encouraged by the prayers, counsel, and kindness of the Directors and other members of the Missionary Society.

March 29, 1799.

Arrived in Philadelphia, and were loaded with kind offices by the Rev. Ashbel Green, Hon. Mr. Pickering, Secretary of State, and other respectable persons in Philadelphia; by these we were encouraged to hope that it is among the wise and gracious purposes of Jehovah to make our way prosperous for His own glory.

April 13.

Came to Botetourt (Va.); the politest attention from a family by the name of Delzill; on the Sabbath preached.

April 23.

Came to Knoxville (Tenn.); the attention of Col. Henley was to us of importance as also that of Col. Butler at Southwest Point.

"Earlier in the same year Rev. Joseph Bullen also of Vermont in returning from a missionary journey to the Chickasaw Indians in behalf of the New York Missionary Society passed thru the Cherokee Nation and from Knoxville reported to his society that "The Cherokees who reside in the vicinity of Tennessee are desirous of having missionaries among them.""

Page 453-454 - Mr. Bullen had lodged at a hotel kept by Captain Stone in Knoxville - a German.

April 26.

Entered the wilderness on our way from Clinch to Cumberland, the afternoon rainy, at evening came up with Mr. M'Orkle, brother to the Rev. Dr. M'Orkle of North Carolina. This man with his wife and her sister were passing in a carriage; the wife, a pious woman was taken very sick, but could not be secured from the present rain which was heavy on us. She had been several months away from her children, wanted much to get to them; she will never see them in this life.

April 27.

Sat out; had to stop two miles ahead to assist our friends in descending a hill, called Spencer's Hill, at the foot of which the woman breathed her last. From hence we went two miles to a place called Crab Orchards. This is remarkable for a stream of water large enough to carry a mill, which goes into the ground a little below the usual ford, and is not known to appear above ground. Here is also a cave in a rock said to consist of several rooms. The adjacent country is pleasant and covered with an agreeable verdure. Here it was concluded that the rights of sepulchre should be performed; the weeping husband and sister enwrapped the body in its grave clothes and assisted in laying it in the dust. The grave was dug and covered with a narrow piece of board, about one foot and a half long and two levers. The body was interred about three feet below the surface; we had neither axe, hoe, nor shovel. The service was performed with as much decency as circumstances would admit of. After which we kneeled down and prayed to that God, who has power of life and death. Here we stayed and rested the Sabbath day and worshiped. At evening we removed two miles to a creek which appeared too much raised to pass, where we lodged.

Monday, April 29.

Went on to one Blackburnes 47 miles on our way; we had to cross water almost to the horse's back; though often wet; our health continued. This week were hindered by rains: came Saturday morning (April 27) to Nashville. The attention of Judge McNairy was to us of great use, and merits grateful notice. Near Lexington, Va., we were made acquainted with the Rev. Mr. S. Houston, with Mr. Crawford in Washington Co., with Mr. Craighead, near Nashville, with each of whose conversation we were instructed and encouraged. Our friends at Nashville informed us that it was 270 miles to the Chickasaw towns and that there were several swimming waters to cross; that for us to go without guides would be very dangerous; and even added that we could have but little rational hope of doing them good; that in one month we might get company, therefore they would have us stay with them for the present.

May 10.

Being weary of delay, we sat out by ourselves for the Indian Country; our horses were so encumbered with baggage that we could move but slowly on and our situation was rather lonesome; but we had provided victuals, blankets, an axe, and gun and were frequently met by people from Natchez and Orleans, returning to Kentucky. Were impeded by rains waters of Tennessee high.

May 19 (Lord's Day)

Met General William Colbert a Chickasaw Chief who gave us an introductory letter to his brother Major George Colbert and directed that our business be deferred till his return.

May 20.

We came to Big Town, weary, hungry and myself much unwell. Here we got hominy with milk and bad water. The Indians appear to be poor but kind. With these I held some talk by the help of a negro who could interpret. Lodged in a warm home on a bearskin.

May 21.

Could get nothing for breakfast unless it were thin drink and damaged meat. This town consists of 200 houses, is situated on an eminence, has good air and an agreeable prospect, but is badly watered; they are a people generally less in size and stature than the whites. Most of them appear to have the manners of ancient simplicity; labor is done by the women, hunting by the men; their visage differs but little from that of other Indians; their houses are made of poles, from three to five inches in diameter, and plastered with mortar, are 16 feet by 22 on the ground, floored with earth and covered with clapboards. We went to Long Town, five miles, where we expected to find George Colbert, to whom we had a letter; in this we were disappointed, for tho sent for he did not come, being on a visit with one of his wives. The Indians were together on account of a letter from the Cherokees on some National business; had some talks here assisted by George Colbert, in which he endeavored to recommend the beloved speech and make them know its contents; but my letters and the design of our coming, we thought it our duty not to disclose as yet. The Indians are kind, and their best fare coarse, and I am much unwell, in a great measure owing to want of comfortable subsistence; we have a house to ourselves, but competent food is not to be had.

May 22.

Our Indian friends noticing our situation directed Joseph Colbert to conduct us to his brother's Levi's; was but poorly able to ride; came to Levi's, who with his two wives appears to live comfortably; here we were politely received, well fed, and kindly treated; with him we were soon on terms of agreeable familiarity; to him the design of our mission was disclosed, with which he was evidently pleased.

May 23.

Employed in reading, writing and in conversing with Levi and the others. Taught Levi to write his name, made him and others acquainted with the history of the creation, apostasy, Noah's flood and the confounding of the languages; learnt some Indian words. The Indians tho strangers to letters have characters which they mark on trees and like Oriental people they begin at the right and write or read to the left; they also go to the off side to mount a horse; their women ride their feet the off side; they are left handed people.

May 24.

Found myself in better health than when we came. The Chickasaws are without any kind of religious observances and without temple and priest, except that a few of their enchanters have images, the use of which is little understood by the nation in general; were assisted in conversing with the Indians by Joseph Colbert, who speaks both languages. My son teaches them reading to which they attend with apparent delight. Close application does not consist with their indolent habits.

May 25.

This day became acquainted with the history of the nation, as given Colbert by his Mother.

"We are only a family from a great rich nation toward the sun setting, as far as Indian could travel during two moons; our fathers dreamed that away towards the sun rising was land of life; that people know more than Indians, and above want; from them our children learn good things. Our fathers then sat out, travel, come where we live, here land of life. Our great Father's white children know more than Indian; Chickasaw no hurt any of them. By and by we learn of them things make us glad."

May 26.

Went to M'Gee's the interpreter; was kindly received and hospitably entertained. Delivered him a letter from the Secretary of State; found him kindly disposed but a stranger to everything of religion. So I read and explained to him several things in the Bible; he gave attention and promised me every aid in his power in making known the good things but added that his ignorance of the gospel was such that at present he could not interpret it; he could not read and had never heard a sermon. M'Gee's wife and slaves, who all understand English, are fond of hearing, so that the time is agreeably, and, I hope, usefully spent.

May 27.

On consulting M'Gee, he told me that the white men, half breeds, and slaves, who all speak English have great influence with the Indians; he therefore advised that to effect the good proposed by our mission, we begin with those, who, he says, as they learn, will have good talks with the Indians, and so the knowledge and practice of these things will soon become national; the counsel I think good, and will endeavor to follow it. M'Gee was born in the city of New York. This day we came to Mr. McIntosh's, who talked in a discouraging manner, and deems it a weakness in any man to think of making Christians of the Indians. I told him that I was of the same opinion, but believed God is able to make them good Christians, and that we wish for the honor of being workers with God. On being further acquainted with this man we found him an honest, agreeable man, and, useful, as he talks good Indian in helping me to hold good talks to the Indians, who continually frequent this place and wish to know the beloved speech.

May 28.

This day became acquainted with William Mizle, long resident in this nation and sometime interpreter at the Bluffs. From him I learnt something of the customs and language of the Chickasaws; he says the method of healing in this nation is to take water, soak roots in it, and blow in it with a pipe, and say over it a number of words by way of charm, and wash the body of the sick with this preparation. This is performed by people they call witches, who are initiated as follows—

The preceptor takes the candidate for this dignity in summer weather, shuts him in hot-house four days, to live on amber, a strong drink made of tobacco and water, then sets him to air, gives him gruel, heats the house anew, shuts him in four days more; he is then suffered to come out emaciated; he must then for 12 moons abstain from women, meat, fat and strong drink, and is then a complete witch; can make storms or fair weather; can cause or cure a disease; foretell future events, and give good or ill success to any undertaking. Thus far Mizle.

This day had conversation with numbers. My son teaches the youth to read and gives them books; we hope some good may be done here.

May 29.

My employment was reading, writing and improving opportunities which were continually presented for conversation. Several people here wish to understand the doctrines and duties of Christianity. On mentioning marriages among Christians, was informed of their usages in such cases. When an Indian wishes a young or single woman to become his wife. he sends her a small present of clothes or trinkets, which if she accepts, she becomes his wife, and from that time there devolves on her the duty of keeping fire, raising corn, and other vegetables for the family, and supporting the children. The man's only business is hunting and war. A man may have any number of wives; marriage is only during the pleasure of both parties. In case of separation the children all belong to the mother. When a person dies, a grave is dug in the house nine feet deep, the body is washed and dressed in its best clothes and then interred; if a man of account, a pipe, tobacco, rifle gun, ammunition, feed, corn, etc., are buried with him. Boards are laid six inches below the surface, then a covering of mortar levels the grave with the floor; then women are called to mourning and those skilful at lamentation to wailing. This continues twelve moons about two hours in a day. When a person expires, they shoot three guns, as they say, to keep off the evil spirits.

May 30.

Unwell, propose riding out. Here a Mr. Shepherd accompanied us to a Thomas Love's where our reception was cordial, and treatment kind; though wet with a shower on the way, yet I feel in better health. I am like to have the opportunity to preach next Sabbath at this house.

May 31st.

In conversation endeavored to show the evil of a practice among Indians of bringing up their boys without work or restraint. Levi Kemp and Love's children begin to learn reading and other good things.

June 1st.

Strong drink has overcome several of my Indians, others are conversible and wish to learn. I wish they may learn to fear God, and receive everything as from him; part of each day is spent in learning their language.

June 2nd.

Preached the first sermon in the Chickasaw nation; read and explained the first chapter of Genesis. These people attended with the utmost seriousness and solemnity; they expressed great joy that they had an opportunity to worship God, and hear of things concerning Jesus Christ. After sermon there came to me an old man, who fifty years ago had heard preaching; he told me it was the most delightful season of worship he had ever experienced; to me, indeed, it was a happy day.

June 3rd.

Had an interview with Col. M'Kee, agent for the Chocktaws, who appeared disposed to encourage our exertions and wished similar endeavors might be used with the nation to which he was going. My week end employments are reading, etc., when retired and with this people, conversation. My own leanness and the indolent habits of the Indians are discouraging considerations, but I hope in God's goodness, to carry on his own work. If but a barley loaf fall into the host of Midian, it is enough. God will work for his own name, tho the instrument be a poor worthless worm. When Philistia is to be smitten, it will be effected, tho a dry bone be the weapon.

June 4th and 5th.

Numbers attended on us, to learn reading, writing, catechisms, etc.

June 6th.

In conversation with some Indians who had sundry scruples to solve, two of which were as follows:---

On being informed that the great Father above maketh all things, knoweth all things, governeth all things—the Indians say, "Great Father Make all things, how come he make rattle snake; make thunder and lightning?"

The other I shall mention is, on hearing one of us teach the Ten Commandments, that clause in the second, visiting the iniquities of the fathers upon the children, etc., raised a scruple, how it could be just to punish children for wrong done by fathers. I considered I had cause to bless God for the attention among them, which would induce such inquiries, and was enabled to give such solutions as appeared fully satisfactory to them.

June 7th and 8th.

Returned to M'Intosh's who received and kindly treated us; my son teaches the young people. I am endeavoring to learn the language and to translate the Lord's Prayer and the Commandments into Indian.

June 9th.

Preached from Romans VI, 23 - "For the wages of sin is death." The design was to show the grievous destruction sin has brought on us, and the fullness, freeness and efficacy of that remedy provided in Jesus Christ. The hearers were numerous, serious, and attentive. In this service, read and explained the second chapter of Genesis.

June 10th.

Employed as usual. James Allen undertook to teach his wife reading and catechism.

June 11th.

Returned back to Levi's; were kindly received and had such talks as we hope will do good.

June 12th.

Weary with the fatigues of yesterday; one of Levi's wives from home; the other lies out; they have times of separation like the ancient Hebrew women; in this nation they have great faith in dreams; they believe there is a good Father above, but pay him no kind of religious homage; am laboring to show them the nature and propriety of devotion; their want of words to express several important ideas is a great inconvenience.

June 14th.

Am this day three months from home, and long after my own house; I think as ardently as Jacob did for his fathers; the inconvenience is trifling, if the good proposed can be effected.

June 15th.

I had a notice of the return of Chief Colbert, and a prospect of a public talk. The Lord grant everything may be so conducted as shall be for His own glory.

June 16th.

A beautiful morning, but the season dry; expect this day an interview with the Chief Colbert, who has sent for me; went to his home accompanied by Levi and my son, were very politely received and attended to, had some talks upon righteousness, temperance and a coming judgment. In the afternoon the Indians went to Big-Town; would have us stay until tomorrow, and then come because they said we should get nothing to eat in town. Here the slaves dressed themselves, met together, requested my son that I would preach to them; they are about twenty in number, were admitted into my apartment: we prayed together. I read to them several passages in the New Testament, explained to them the character and great love of Christ, that he loves poor blacks as well as others; told them how we should love Christ, and how a poor woman washed his feet with tears. It was a happy season: the parade of a royal palace would be nothing to it.

June 17th.

Went to Big-Town expecting a talk with the nation; in this I was disappointed; here we were made acquainted with a family of the name of Underwood who showed us no small kindness, with these we held some good talks.

June 18th.

At Big-Town they had a ball play; then spent the last night in a frolic; on the ball ground they divided into two parties, the ladies who attend sing and dance; the mysteries are conducted by one of those witches heretofore mentioned for each party. At each end of the play ground they erect two poles five yards high, one yard asunder; four yards behind them they set up an image, the likeness of a man, with painted face, one yard high, and decorated with a raven's skin and feathers; the leader in the mysteries is in a manner naked, his head adorned with a pair of buffalo horns, his face and body painted different hues; to his left arm hangs the wing of a crow; he is often falling down before the image, muttering and taking a strong physic which these people believe has a great influence in the success of the game. While the singing and dancing was performed by the ladies, a drum. made of a cypress tree, was beating, and the young beaus, about eighty in number, who were to play ball, beautified with vermilion, bears oil, lamp black, and white clay, their heads with feathers, red binding, etc.; jewels in their noses and ears, dance a while, then utter a hideous yell, and run around a circle they have round the place of mysteries, which may not be passed unless by the performers. My son and I had well nigh spoiled the whole by entering the holy ground, but being beckoned to, we went round. As they pass this they yell with all apparent zeal, then return and repeat the singing, yelling, running, etc. These pious ceremonies being ended, the play begins; the charms used by the witches had no effect, or an equal effect, for neither party prevailed. The Chickasaw women appear to be meek, modest, and temperate; the men are more virtuous than one would think, considering they are brought up to no business but hunting and to little or no restraint. At evening we came away and lodged at Long Town.

June 19th.

Returned to Levi's; the people are very attentive, but there has been yet no national talk with us, or act for receiving us, we think of leaving the nation.

June 20th.

The heat intense; these Indians are wanting to learn, so we are not idle; they do not know their age, and but little of distances.

June 21st.

Left my son to teach in this part and went myself to McIntosh's, 26 miles; things look doubtful here; these deluded people will get drunk, and we can yet have no public talk, though Levi says we shall soon have one.

June 22nd.

Have noticed ever since I came here that when appearances are discouraging one day, they are encouraging the next; it is so now; we have become acquainted with James Colbert, a native of this country, who has been baptized, reads and writes, is a man of property; one quarter Indian; is a sober man; knows something of religion, wishes his nation to know and observe the same; believes his soul is immortal; hopes he shall regard its good; is disposed to explain the beloved speech, and my talks to the nation; had also good talks today with M'Ghee and others.

June 23rd.

Had this morning by M'Gee's help, a good long talk with Wolfe's friend, head man of this nation, informed him of the creation, and how all men are brothers—of sin—of redemption —of the promise to all nations—of the good rules in the beloved speech—of the great love the Council at New York have for the Chickasaws, and of the good will of his great father the President, expressed in a letter from the Secretary of War. He looked pleased and said, it made him very glad to hear these things, that he wished to hear more, so in about four days we will have big talk. Preached at James Colbert's; read the XIVth Psalm; laboured to show the folly and sin of forgetting God, and to persuade my hearers to realize his presence; they were seriously attentive; was mightily encouraged; this was a happy day. After service one James Gun, a white man, came to me and said, "I am glad —it is good to be in the presence of the Lord; I pray that I and my house may serve the Lord.

June 24th.

Being requested I preached again. I now love to be here; James and Susannah Colbert consent to the marriage covenant, and are declared husband and wife. Charles, their only child, and Peggy Allen, daughter of Colbert's sister, were baptized, and also Mary Hannah, James and Margaret, children of James and Jane M'Kim. An aged negro woman, property of William Colbert has come 30 miles to hear sermon and said, "Me live long in heathen land, am very glad to hear blessed Gospel.

June 25th.

Went to M'Gee's, read and explained to him out of the Sermon on the Mount. Mr. M'Gee and I were invited to Wolfe's friends to dine tomorrow; the day after we are to have a great national talk.

June 26th.

Went with M'Gee to the friends, who received us very politely; explained to him more fully our business. P. M. went to Levi Colbert's in order to get things ready for the talk.

June 27th.

Returned, find everything prepared for the talk. A large parade, a standard erected 30 feet high, a white cloth flying in token (M'Gee says) of love and peace. The Indians are fast coming together; it is a clear hot day; an agreeable shade and seats were fixed for the head men; I was seated next to the principal chief and the interpreter on the other side; they were dressed neat and clean, and most of them very fine. I began by reading a letter from Captain Pike, announcing the safe arrival of their presents at the Bluffs. I then added that I was glad that their presents were come, hoped they would do them good, and brighten the chain of friendship between the two nations; then told them I had yet better news to tell them, that I had come to bring them the word of life; read to them the letters of the Missionary Society, and from the heads of the departments; explained as fully as I could the Christian religion; gave them a Bible in the name of the Society, explained to them the benefits of learning; informed them that the Great Father above had given white people the knowledge of 26 characters, that knowing these, when they look in one book they can see how they have the Great Father above to be their friend, do them good and keep them in the right way. Look in another book, it will tell them how to do all sorts of work; also gave the two chiefs and interpreter each a Testament. After consulting among themselves, and a good talk from their head man, I was informed they were very glad to hear these things, were thankful to the Council of New York for their love to them, a people they had never seen and to me and my son that we had come such a long journey to teach them good things; that we were received as their own people; that they would have me bring my wife and children, and come and live with them; that the land is before me, to settle where I please, but that if I had come from the adjacent states, I should not have been received: but now they would have me to do whatever I think best to make their people know good things, that we may depend on kind treatment. After the talks we all partook of a plentiful repast, provided at the expense of Wolfe's friends.

July 3, 1799.

Proposed going round to hold talks in the several towns expected Colbert to go with me. There are a number of sick men from Orleans, mostly Kentucky people; not less than one thousand annually pass this way on their return from market. They go down the Mississippi with their produce, then get horses and return this way. Those who return after the 20th of June are generally sick; those who come sooner are generally in very good health. Those who carry on this trade ought therefore to send early.

July 4th.

Have been waiting all this week for James Colbert to go with me as interpreter; he was to have come on Tuesday, and is not ready yet; has sick folks to attend. Within these few days ninety gallons of rum have come into the nation, with which I suppose 200 Indians will get drunk. Thus I am troubled.

July 5th.

This morning died here, Captain Christopher Chinasman, of good repute. Since he was thought dangerous, he has not been able to speak; the other sick people are likely to recover. At the funeral, prayed and discoursed to the people on the immortality of the soul and the importance of providing in time for a happy eternity, some serious impressions were visible—several persons seemed fond of hearing. My son teaches reading and the catechism—we both attend to get their language.

July 6th.

Retired to Christopher Oxbury's wishing to engage him as an interpreter. The house is on an ancient mound. The field where was an encampment of about twelve acres, very rich. Here is an eminence of about 1000 acres, which appears to have been an island and there works a garrison to secure from invasion. From these works it is apparent they were a people more industrious than the present Indians. This was considered by Richard Hide, one of Blackbeard's men, who lived in this nation, and died about six years ago, the finest place in the nation.

July 7th.

Assisted by Oxbury, held good talks with some Indians here, which they liked to hear. Encouraged him to attend to the beloved speech which I gave him. He can read some and is quick of apprehension.

July 8th.

Left Oxbury's and came to Wolfe's friends; was very kindly received with many professions of love, in which he appears sincere. He gave me his two youngest boys, who he says shall come and live with me, and learn good things, when I get my family here. On our talks here with Wolfe's friend and others present, was assisted by one of the negroes.

Stayed here generally till the 13th. The Chickasaw men are very effeminate and dressy—the head is in a hot summer day, bound with a handkerchief, over it a thick binding of fulled cloth covered with broaches; to the nose hangs six bobs, one in each ear, the outer curl of which is slit and enraped in silver. One bunch of hair is tied on top of the head to which is fastened in seven locks, enclosed in silver and beads, the hair of a deer's tail colored red; this hangs over the face and eyes; the face is painted with streaks and spots of red and black; the beard is pulled out; the neck adorned with a dozen strings of beads of different sorts, besides a silk handkerchief; the arms and wrists adorned with silver bands; the body and arms covered with a calico shirt; the dress of the lower limbs is various. The women have no covering or ornament on the head but that of nature, unless a little paint and the hair clubbed behind with binding. The men have a bunch of white feathers fastened to the back part of the neck and if a person of note, a black feather; and lest the dress or clothing should be discomposed, carries his glass in his pocket, or hanging by his side.

July 13th.

Visited Levi Kemp who is sick; noticed their manner. A number of Indian doctors or witches were together, they conclude that he is witch-shot; they, therefore, after washing him, caused him to lie down on skins on his back; they then in turns suck and bite his skin, beginning at his forehead and extending on his face, neck and trunk, to the navel, professing that in this way they can suck out the witch ball. On my coming in, he soon retired with me to another apartment, where I informed him of the goodness, fullness and power of Christ, to which he listened.

July 14th.

Preached from Acts IV, 12, Neither is there salvation in any other. To know the nature of salvation—the need of it the fullness and certainty of it in Christ was the design. The people were seriously attentive; was more encouraged.

July 16th.

Removed to Mr. James Guns, where we expect to live by ourselves; have a great sense of the kindness of Mr. McIntosh.

July 17th.

My son, having procured a house for the purpose has opened a school at Pontetok; was myself employed in reading and talks, in which James Gun assisted me.

July 18th.

Went with Oxbury, the interpreter to Wolfe's friends; had a talk at his house; they appear friendly, and fond of learning the doctrines and precepts of Christianity, and of having their children learn reading. The scholars learn well; Mr. Gun reads abundantly in the Bible and Dodridge's "Rise and Progress," and other books.

July 19th.

Am this day 49 years old; a few days we go whence we return no more. This day was visited by Samuel Sealy, a half breed, and a considerable person among the Indians; to him I explained the Ten Commandments and the duty of prayer, to which he listened; he can talk English and we have shown him something of reading, and he has attended sermons; was invited to attend the eagle tail dance; it is an annual festival; they dance, sing and drum through the night, and feast in the morning. The chiefs attend and smoke, but do not dance. There is a small land turtle here called terrapin; the shell of which filled with gravel, serves the young ladies, who intermix in this dance, as ornaments to the legs, and adds to the melody a grating sound, though in this instance, most of them were covered to the feet with a calico petticoat.

July 20th.

What time could be spared from talks spent in preparation for the labours of tomorrow. My son went on business to Levi Colbert's.

July 21st.

Preached from Proverbs XV, 3. The eyes of the Lord are in every place, beholding the evil and the good. The design was to show, that the Lord always sees us, and all we do, and that therefore we should always strive to, please him and trust in him. Today the negroes appeared to have the most serious impressions of any who heard me.

July 22nd.

Alone most of day. My son came home at evening sick. July 23rd.

Last evening died Charles, son of James Colbert, after a distressing sickness; this day interred. Being requested I attended on the occasion, and discoursed to the people present, on Isaiah XL, 6. All flesh is grass and all the goodliness thereof is as the flower of the field. They were seriously affected. Returned.

July 28th.

My son's sickness continues; was bled this morning; am much concerned for him. Preached from Matthew XXII, 37. Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. Towards evening my son revived. Prayer is a natural duty; mine is, Lord rebuke his fever; save him and he shall live; thy will be done.

August 9th.

Visited Eli Kemp, who has been sick; my son went with me, was much bettered by riding. I explained to Levi the Christian religion—was particular in giving him an account of the resurrection of the body and a judgment to come. To these things he listened. We returned to our house.

August 11th.

Preached from John I, 29, "Behold the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world." Attempted to show what it is to look to Christ, and that in Him is found the only remedy for souls ruined by sin. It was a good day for us baptized five negro servants of James Gun; William, the father of the other four, appears to be a true disciple of Jesus; the children are teachable; their mother is dead; their master reads and prays with them; teaches them reading and catechism, the negroes say it is a blessed thing to have such a master. There are other instances in which baptism is requested which cannot be gratified consistent with my instructions.

August 12th.

Had company in the morning. We rode seven miles in the afternoon, and visited several families; were kindly received and entertained; these people appear overjoyed that the Great Father above has been gracious and restored my son labored to recommend and enforce Christianity—stayed at James Colbert's, where we had a good time in conversation and in prayer with him and his family, who appear to delight in serving the Lord.

August 13th.

Visited and catechised James Gun's family, and returned home.

August 14th.

My son continued to gain strength and appetite. Deaths are frequent among children in this place, and the voice of mourning is all around us. My people are every day coming to have talks. This makes me glad.

August 18th.

Preached from Jude 14, And Enoch also, the seventh from Adam, prophesied of these saying, "Behold the Lord cometh with ten thousand of his saints." The design was to show Christ's second coming; the certainty, the manner and consequences of it. The most serious attention I have ever seen in this nation was visible, both in time of service and after it was concluded; it was a refreshing season, and to me, indeed opportune, and I find my body and mind impaired by my late trials, and was yesterday laboring under discouragements; am persuaded God has here a work to do, and a people to save.

August 19th.

Read some—had opportunity to explain the Christian religion, and recommend its observance. Some black people came to me for directions how the Sabbath should be kept.

August 24th.

Mr. Mitchell, agent for the Choktaws, visited me; appears friendly to the Mission, though not a man of religion; said some things to him of the necessity of being religious.

August 25th.

Preached from Second Corinthians V, 14, "For the love of Christ constraineth us." Took a kind leave of my congregation of white, black, and mixed people; they were seriously attentive. Several stayed to ask what they should do; am happy that an increasing concern is here apparent for their souls. Was yesterday informed that a minister had been sent to the Cherokees, who got discouraged and gone back; if I am to be alone the Lord give me strength.

August 26th.

Disappointed of an interpreter to go with me to Wolfe's friend and Big Town, went to McIntosh's, Colbert's and Gun's.

August 29th.

George Colbert, a Chickasaw chief, called in a decent dress, and lodged here. He informed me how he and his brother Levi, had laboured to further the pious and benevolent designs of the society; that he, Levi, and a number of others, wish to learn good things; no get drunk, but work make corn, cotton, cattle, hogs, etc. Wolfe's friend made out his talks today; he says head men and warriors, all wish to come back, if possible, by April next. He also appointed two chief men to accompany us as far as Knoxville and wished we might be in the holy keeping of the Great Father above.

August 30th.

Removed from Pontetok to Levi Colbert's; have left some books with friends Gun, Colbert and Oxbury, who I expect will have good talks with the Indians.

August 31st.

At Levi Colbert's, somewhat out of health; laboured to explain and enforce on their minds the truth and importance of revealed religion, to which they attended.

September 1st.

Had a public service; had an opportunity to impress on their minds a sense of truth and necessity of religion and of the sanctity of the Sabbath. This peoples have no songs or poetry.

September 2nd.

Waiting for Mr. Lewis and our guides to the Cherokees. Mr. Lewis called on us; we took one talk to the Secretary of War and one to Dr. Rodgers, from the Colberts.

September 3rd.

Went to Billy Colbert's and to Long Town; was unwell; my Indian guides will be ready tomorrow; had good talks at Long Town, assisted by Joseph Underwood, a half breed.

September 4th.

Sat out for the Cherokees, in company with Captains George and Chagniby, camped by a creek and slept comfortably.

September 5th.

Went on a considerable distance and encamped. Continue to be unwell.

September 6th.

Went on; my son unwell; some wild grapes revived him; he was better in the afternoon; had to pass a terrible cane break and wind fall; had thunder and rain; got very wet.

September 7th.

Very unwell; could eat scarcely anything; and was but poorly able to ride; at night came into a very fine country, and to a spring branch of excellent water; here we camped; the water did me much good, so that I felt better.

September 8th.

Somewhat unwell; had no meat; and scarcely any bread. Our red brothers have helped away with our provisions, and have diminished our coffee and sugar; after attending worship, and eating such as we had, we came on. This day we bought meat of a creek hunter.

September 9th, 10th, 11th, and 12th.

Continued to travel in the wilderness.

September 13th.

Came to a house where we got bread, meat, and milk, which mightily strengthened us; went on—a heavy rain wet us; we camped and lay wet; our Indians made us a fire.

September 14th.

Went on wet. This day a negro who found our situation and business sent us a good supply of bread and meat, which was very timely, as we were weary, hungry, and faint in the wilderness. These negroes have been visited with the outpouring of the spirit of God, inducing them to worship Him, to keep the Sabbath day, and to be exemplary in their lives, while their masters remain in a carnal state. God exalts those of low degree, but the rich he sends away empty. At night we came to a house at Will's-Town, where we were well fed and kindly entertained.

September 15th.

Waited on the council sitting. Here was a meeting of the four nations and an annual festival, called the Green Corn Dance. I made known my mission and the love the council of New York have for their Red Brothers. Moses Price, a Cherokee half breed, assisted me as interpreter. They replied, to hear these things makes us glad, but our national business does not allow us leisure to worship now—we retired to one Alexander Campbell's. Here we kept the Sabbath in retirement.

September 16th.

Attended the council; these people are hospitable, but in other respects, not very agreeable.

September 17th.

Was unwell; there appears but little hope of any considerable good thing being done here at present. A minister to reside here might soon gain their confidence. In language and morals they are different from the Chickasaws.
September 18th.

Rainy in the morning. Went with a Mr. Ross 23 miles, a wilderness, and had much rain; came to one Woodward's very wet and unwell. Slept here on blankets by a fire.

September 19th.

Went seven miles; were kindly attended to; here we staid; the horses unfit for the journey, and sick myself; had some good talks here assisted by Ross.

September 22nd.

Our Indians came to us; had no public service.

September 23rd.

Came on, yet unwell; found my flesh and strength much gone, these fatigues and hardships have brought me low; my son endures much better than my fears.

September 24th.

Rain; came to the house of one William Springstone, a white man; here we staid, and were well lodged and fed; here we found a bed and sheets to lie in, a favour which we have not had since we left Cumberland last May, for which I find cause to bless God, as much as I needed it in my weak state of body and mind. After resting here I felt better.

September 25th.

Fair weather; came to one Coody's. Here had some good talks, which were listened to. These people are in the habit of neglecting religion, and are immoral. Here too we had beds to lie on, a great refreshment; since my son's sickness my bones have been much pained with hard lodgings; before that being in good health, I perceived less inconvenience.

September 26th.

Sat out in hopes to gain Telico Block-house, but my son's horse failed so much, that we were again obliged to camp out; unwell and poorly supplied.

September 27th.

Came on as far as Telico Block-house. Here we dined.

After drinking one gill of peach brandy which greatly revived us, to find dinner provided in white peoples' way and to see and converse with them, afforded unspeakable satisfaction, after spending nearly five months in the wilderness, among Indians and Indian country folks. After dinner we came on to the house of Mathew Wallace, Esg., seven miles.

September 28th.

Quite unwell; concluded to stay here till next week; these appear to be a sober Christian people, well informed find much pleasure in their conversation—the worship of God is statedly observed in the family. While at Will's-Town a Cherokee woman appeared before the Council, and gave her testimony against the polygamy and divorce so common among the Indians; her talk was much thought of, and will, it is hoped, have some good effect.

September 29th.

Preached from I Peter II, 7 - "Unto you therefore which believe, he is precious; but to them which be disobedient, the stone which the builders disallowed, the same is made the head of the corner." This people were destitute of a minister; were seriously attentive; appear glad to hear preaching; made a small contribution; requested me to stay at least one Sabbath more; was so weak as to be scarcely able to speak so as to be heard; was much exhausted after speaking.

September 30th.

October 1st.

Went to Mr. Blackburn's, Maryville, Mr. Blackburn is said to be a zealous, able preacher and an exemplary man, there are more than 300 communicants in his church, here we lodged, and were happy with our situation and company.

October 2nd.

Procured our horses to be shod, and proceeded to Knoxville; here we became acquainted with a Mr. Fisk, late from Dartmouth College. Col. Henley received and entertained us in the politest manner.

October 3rd.

Rainy. Col. Ramsay conducted us to his house where we staid, and were kindly entertained until the 8th. Preached on the Sabbath; my health is better, and our horses are recruited, so that we hope we may go on; this week were impeded by rains, which came every day but one, so we came only to Green Co., to Mr. Balch's; here we kept the Sabbath, and received the sacrament; several ministers were present. The difficulties here have in a great measure subsided; the meeting-house is large, but not sufficient for the people; numbers were unable to get in, so staid at the door. Being requested I discoursed from those words, Phil. II, 5, "Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus." Went on this week as far as the Royal Oak in Washington Co., Va.

October 20th.

Preached from John III, 7, Ye must be born again. There are a number of Christian people. Rev. Mr. Crafford, who is the nearest minister, directed me here. This week we came to Botetourt Co. (Va.); here kept Sabbath and preached; this week we came on the Rev. Mr. Wilfon's in Augusta Co. of whose kindness I have a great sense.

November 3rd.

Preached from Col. I, 19, For it pleaseth the Father that in him should all fulness dwell. My health is better; came this week to Miller's Town; here we attended meeting. Mr. Paxton preached, and also Mr. Laird, a candidate. Came this week to Gen. Brearly's in New Jersey; here was no meeting to attend; the day was spent in retirement, and on the 20th of November we came to New York, and on the last day of November we came home; found occasion to rejoice in that goodness which had preserved us all, in our long absence from each other, to meet in comfortable health to praise His name.

The following spring, March 1800, Rev. Joseph Bullen made plans to take charge of the mission in the Chickasaw nation for three years. His first son had died in infancy and his three oldest daughters, Hannah, Sarai and Susannah, had married and settled in Vermont. So, taking his wife, Hannah, and their remaining five children, Joseph III, Benjamin Morse; two daughters, Abiel (Abigail), and Mary; and the youngest, a son, Samuel, who was twelve years old, he set out on the long journey to the Chickasaw nation. He went by the city of Troy, New York, and as far as Bedford, Pennsylvania, with plans to procure a flat boat at Pittsburgh and float down the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers to the Chickasaw Bluffs where the city of Memphis now stands.

At Bedford several members of the family were stricken with a severe illness and their journey was interrupted for some time. Abiel did not recover and was buried "among strangers." The others improved so that they were able to proceed to Pittsburgh and on to their destination as planned.

In the New York Missionary Magazine on pages 302-303 we find the following letter written by Rev. Joseph while at Bedford to the Secretary of the New York Missionary Society:

The Rev. Joseph Bullen's letter to the Secretary of the New York Missionary Society.

Dated

Bedford, Pa. May 26, 1800.

Rev. Sir:

We came on our journey with as good speed as could have been hoped in such a season, till sickness in my family impeded us; yet considering our getting to Pittsburgh important for the purpose of the mission, and for ourselves, we delayed as little as possible; if we had reached the Ohio, we might have gone down, and that, I suppose, without any material detriment to invalids, but by the time we came here the sickness of my daughter, Polly, was so sore upon her that I durst go no further; besides, my wife was quite unwell. My daughter's sickness has continued till this time; her fever has so affected her nervous system, that she has had but little use of her reason, and we had for some time but faint hopes of life. We find cause to bless God, her health and reason appear to be returning. Yesterday, she was able to walk several times across the room. We shall proceed on our way as soon as may be. We have been kindly received in these parts, and the people seem disposed to receive a preached Gospel, and are generally destitute of stated ministrations. Bedford is a vacant congregation, and there appears to be serious attention here. They have shown us much kindness in our affliction.

My worthy friend Deacon Rice, his family, and the young men are gone on, and are, I trust, in the Indian Country by this time, so that I hope the work of teaching the Chickasaws good things is not neglected; yet I want to be with them. If my folks were well, we might go in five or six days from this place to Pittsburgh and from thence to Chickasaw Bluffs in usually twenty days. We have had the happiness to become acquainted with the venerable Dr. Cooper, whose conversation and friendship have been very consolatory and encouraging in our afflicted circumstances. Good man, he has great hope for the Heathen, that they will soon be given to Jesus for a possession. We have made no delay for the sake of ministerial services; but where delayed by sickness, have thought it a duty to improve every opportunity in this way—the people attend with great seriousness—they tell me the white Indians want teaching as much as the red ones; 'tis some consolation to me that though I cannot be with the Indians, the Lord hath opened the hearts of the people in this new country to hearken to the plain doctrines and precepts of Christianity. From what I have observed, am induced to believe, that the plainest talks, such as may be understood by the weakest minds, are generally apt to take hold of the minds of the people and do them good, especially where they have had but little instruction, as is generally the case in these parts. The continuance of your prayers for us, and for the Chickasaws is desired. Any additional instructions will be thankfully received. It is the desire of my brother Rice and myself, that the New York Missionary Magazine and some one of the newspapers, may be regularly sent to us by mail, and the expense be charged to his account or mine.

With deference and esteem, I am yours, etc—

Joseph Bullen.

In 1865 Rev. J. G. Jones wrote a book called Protestantism in Mississippi and the Southwest. The following information came from that book.

"After a long and tiresome trip by flat boat down the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers, Rev. Joseph Bullen and his family were received at Fort Pickering which surmonted the Bluffs where the city of Memphis, Tennessee now stands. The fort consisted of a stockade and several block houses where sixty or seventy U. S. soldiers, including their officers, were stationed. The family was received cordially and hospitably entertained during their brief stay.

"There were no wagons, nor were there roads to the Chickasaw Nation. Rev. Mr. Bullen purchased a number of packhorses from the Indian traders to carry his family and goods about one hundred miles southeast to the Indian town of Pontotoc where he procured an old Indian settlement for a family residence.

"The Chickasaws received him kindly and he began his work. He had an interpreter to help him in preaching the Gospel, and organized a school which was taught by his son, Joseph Bullen III. He also had a blacksmith and a wood worker in the mission family and taught the use of tools.

Some good was accomplished. There were improvements in farming and in the use of machines. Some learned to read and a few became Church members. Several white men and half-bloods consented to be married to Indian women with whom they had been living.

"But there were wicked traders, whisky and rum to tempt the young Christians and discourage the missionaries. When Rev. Joseph's term was up in 1802, he decided to leave the Indian Nation. His thoughts were to return to his home in Vermont which had not been sold. But after talking to three missionaries, Messrs. Montgomery, Hall and Bowman, sent out by the Synod of Carolina, he decided to move farther south. So, early in 1803 he moved his family to southwest Mississippi. He was about twenty miles northeast of Natchez, and in the southern portion of Jefferson County."

REV. JOSEPH'S WORK IN SOUTHERN MISSISSIPPI

In this new location, Rev. Joseph taught school and preached in the nearby neighborhoods. In 1804 he organized the first Presbyterian Church in the Mississippi Territory. The house was constructed of hewed logs and was built near Uniontown, on land belonging to Alexander Calendar. The Church was called Bethel. It was used as a place of worship until 1822 when it was dissolved and Harmony Church was organized a few miles south of Fayette. Later Harmony Church was dissolved and the members transferred to Ebenezer. Rev. Joseph, by this time, venerable with age, and weighed down with infirmities, was for many years pastor of Bethel Church. Rev. J. G. Jones relates in his book that he heard him preach and says this of him—

"He was a tenderhearted man, and manifested great affection for his auditors. He was more a son of consolation than a son of thunder. Toward the close of his life his voice became feeble and his enunciation very slow but his sermons abounded with good sense and were made up of doctrinal, experimental and practical Christianity."

He lived near the Bethel Church, but did not limit his labors to that vicinity. He organized a church called "Bayou Pierre". Their place of worship stood on the road near Port Gibson. This was the second Presbyterian Church organized in Mississippi.

In 1811 he organized the eighth Presbyterian Church in Mississippi in what is called the Scotch Settlement in the eastern part of Jefferson County. It was called Union. So far as is known this was the last Church Rev. Joseph organized and had as a pastoral charge.

In 1815 it was apparent that the eight Presbyterian Churches in Mississippi were too remote to enjoy the full benefits of association with other presbyteries, so in Danville, Kentucky, the Kentucky Presbytery set aside the eight churches in Mississippi to be organized into a Presbytery in Mississippi. Here is an extract from the minutes of that meeting:

"The Committee of Overtures reported a petition from the West Tennessee Presbytery, praying that a new Presbytery might be formed, having for its boundary the Perdido River, from thence a direct line to Fort Jackson, at the junction of the Cousa and Talapoosa Rivers, thence to the line of division between the Choctaw and Chickasaw Nations of Indians along the line indefinitely, forming a division between the contemplated Presbytery, the West Tennessee Presbytery to be composed of Rev. Joseph Bullen, Rev. William Montgomery, Rev. Jacob Rickhow and Rev. James Smylie, which petition was granted; and it was ordered that said Presbytery hold their first meeting at Pine Ridge Church in Adams County on the first Wednesday of March next, and that Rev. Joseph Bullen or in case of his absence, the senior member present, preside as Moderator."

Thomas Cleland, Clerk Pro Tem

In accordance with this action of the Synod of Kentucky, the following ministers and ruling elders met at Pine Ridge Church March 6, 1818 and organized the Mississippi Presbytery with ample boundaries above written. Ministers - Rev. Joseph Bullen, William Montgomery, Jacob Rickhow and James Smylie. Rev. Daniel Smith who was laboring as a missionary at Natchez was also present as a corresponding member. Ruling elders present - John Grafton of Pine Ridge Church, John Bolls from Bayou Pierre, and Daniel Cameron from Ebenezer.

On October 17, 1818 Joseph's wife, Hannah, died "in the faith" and was buried at Bethel. On March 26, 1825 Rev. Joseph Bullen closed his stay on earth and was buried beside his wife.

The graves, visited by your writer in 1947, were neglected with overturned and broken markers. Inscriptions were still legible:

In

Memory of Rev. Joseph Bullen who died Mar. 25, 1825 - about 75 years. A preacher of the Gospel nearly 50 years native of Massachusetts

In

Memory of Hannah, consort of Rev. Joseph Bullen who died Oct. 17, 1818 age 72 yrs. A native of Massachusetts.

On Sunday, December 9, 1956 the Ashmead Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution dedicated the Historical Commission highway marker honoring Rev. Joseph Bullen, at the marker site just outside of Cannonsburg, Mississippi. A number of his descendants were present for the occasion. The marker is located on Highway 61, four and three-fourths miles from Old Bethel graveyard where Joseph Bullen sleeps beside his wife Hannah and other members of that early church.

The Marker has this wording:

Joseph Bullen

W. 3.4 mi. is grave of minister who came to Pontotoc area in 1799 as missionary to the Chickasaws. Moving in 1803 to Jefferson County he helped establish Bethel Church first Presbyterian Church in the State.

Joseph started mission work among the Chickasaw Indians. He also moved with them to Jefferson County, Mississippi. He was a member of the Methodist Church. He served as Captain in the War of 1812 and was at the Battle of New Orleans. His company was Seventh Regiment of Mississippi Militia, Perkin's Battalion. He married Lydia Matilda Marble October 15, 1816. He died November 26, 1870, age 82 years, 2 months, 17 days. They had eleven children. He was a large landowner, holding 10,000 acres which at his death was divided equally among his remaining ten children. Much of the land is still owned by his descendants.

Inscription on Captain Samuel Bullen's marker:

"In memory of Captain Samuel Bullen who was born in Windham Co., Vermont on the 8th of Sept. 1788, Emmigrated to Mississippi with his father A.D. 1800 who came out as a missionary to the Chickasaw Indians, at that time, removed from there in 1803 to Jefferson Co., Miss. and rested on the homestead until his death which took place on 26th of Nov. 1870 without a struggle in his 83rd year. He was a consistent Christian and a member of the Methodist Church for 26 years. Always moral, never known to deviate from a consistent course. Served in the War of 1812, always at his post in the defense of his country, an honest man, noblest work of God."

(B) TENNESSEE BRANCH

F. 6. Joseph Bullen, III, sixth child of Rev. Joseph, Jr., accompanied his father on his first trip to Mississippi, and was the son mentioned in the Journals elsewhere in this study. He also went along when the family made the trip in 1800 to establish themselves in the Indian Country. He helped in the mission, established a school and taught until Rev. Joseph gave up the mission and moved to Jefferson Co. in S. W. Mississippi. Joseph III is the sixth generation from the first Samuel and is the great grandfather of your writer.

We do not have the exact date of his leaving the family, but he was in Greene Co., Tennessee, and married Jane Ross on March 15, 1803 (Court House Record). Jane was the daughter of William Ross, a revolutionary soldier. Joseph took his wife to New England where he would probably have settled, but his sisters who had remained in Vermont, would not accept Jane socially. She had traveled through the country in an open vehicle, exposed to sun and wind, and her skin was quite brown. A sun tan was frowned upon in those days. Joseph brought her back to East Tennessee and returned later to New England to dispose of some property. On the return trip traveling in a buggy and carrying considerable money in gold and silver in a small chest he took a man in to share his conveyance. He became ill and his fellow traveler gave him poisoned whiskey. He became worse and they stopped at a farm house where Joseph was put to bed. His companyion left, taking the horse and buggy, presumably, to bring a physician. He was never seen again, nor was the money. The metal chest was found a short distance away and was in the possession of my father's brother for many years.

Joseph recovered, settled in Greene Co., Tenn. and became the progenitor of the Bullen family in that area. Greene Co. Court House records give Joseph and Lee Bullen, taxed in the 13th district in 1840-1841. Also Lloyd Bullen, taxed in 12th district in 1840-1841. (Same dates).

Joseph owned a total of 990 acres in three land grants in Greene Co. Son Lloyd's property in 1850 was estimated to be worth $2500.00.

Joseph was an elder in Mount Bethal Cumberland Presbyterian Church near Greeneville. Since that time the church was dissolved and its membership absorbed by other churches.

Joseph, his wife Jane, their son Lee M., Lee's wife Nancy G. Bullen, and Lee's daughter Jane Bullen Weems, and William Ross, Jane Ross's father are buried in the old Mount Bethel Cemetery. Some of the graves are unmarked.

Jesse Roberts Justice of the Peace Greene County.

This family as many families did, grew up and managed with difficulty during and after the "War Between the States". East Tennessee, being a border region, had many in sympathy with the Confederacy, also many who favored the side of the Union. With three sons in the Confederate Army, Lee and Nancy Bullen and the remaining children suffered indignites at the hands of neighbors who favored the opposite side, causing loss of property and breakage of household furnishings. They were forced to leave Greene County and live for some time in Sullivan Co. near Bristol. After the War they returned to and resumed residence in Greene County. They had eight children.

No information regarding them.

The following information came to me from Buford Reynolds of Greeneville, Tenn., who examined the Chancery Court Records there concerning the settling of the Joseph Bullen, III's estate. According to the records, Joseph III and Jane Ross Bullen had nine children instead of the six already recorded in this study. Some data was also furnished by Mrs. Tom L. Bell of Tyler, Texas, who is descended from Joseph's daughter, Susan, who married Col. Thomas W. Bell.

The children of Joseph, III and Jane are not in chronological order. Since Susan married in 1827, she is probably the oldest or next to the oldest child.

Some Families Associated With the Family of Bullen

Part 8

SOME FAMILIES ASSOCIATED WITH THE FAMILY OF BULLEN

1. Samuel Morse

In the genealogical section of the Newberry Library in Chicago, Ill., is a book called "Memorial to the Morses" by Abner Morse. It is concerned with the descendants of 6 men by the name of Morse who came to America in the early days of our country. I fail to recall whether any of them were related, except there were two brothers. The Bullen family is closely connected with the descendants of two of the men.

The earliest account is that of Robert Morse, the ancestor of the immigrant Samuel Morse whose daughter Mary in 1641 married the immigrant Samuel Bullen who was in Watertown, Massachusetts, in 1636.

2. Their son Thomas Morse of Stoke by Neyland, was born 1520. He was buried there February 17, 1566.

3. His son Reverend Thomas Morse, named in will of his grandfather Robert Oct. 5, 1551, made his own will Nov. 10, 1596, and died before March 10, 1597. Rev. Thomas Morse married at Boxted, County Essex.

(1). Margaret King, May 19, 1573. She was buried at Hinderclay, County Suffolk, July 28, 1585.

(2). At Boxted, County Essex (married) (name unknown) Nov. 2, 1585. She was survived by her husband who established a church at Boxted 1573-1578. He was Rector of Hinderclay July 14, 1583-1594 and Rector of Foxearth, County Suffolk, 1594-1596.

Samuel, son of Reverend Thomas and Margaret King Morse, was baptized at Boxted, June 12, 1576 and died at Medfield, Mass., Dec. 5, 1654. He was married at Redgrave, Co. Suffolk, June 22, 1602. Elizabeth Jasper who was baptized at Redgrave, Jan. 20, 1579 or 1580, and died in Medfield, Mass., June 20, 1655. She was the daughter of Lancelot Jasper of Redgrave, England.

Samuel and Elizabeth Jasper Morse embarked on the "Increase" of London for North America (N. E.). They settled in Watertown, Mass. He administered a church there. He was a proprietor at Dedham, Massachusetts, in 1636 and a member of the first church there. He took a Freeman's oath making him a citizen, October 8, 1640. He was a town officer and later settled at Medfield, Massachusetts, where he died April 5, 1654.

It is said that Samuel Morse, son of Samuel and Elizabeth resided at Dedham, and it appears that he returned to England and served under Cromwell and to have fled when Charles II was restored to the throne. It is also said that he died at the Eastward, Sept. 26, 1688. He married Mary Bullen in Dedham. Their daughter, Mary Morse, married Joseph Plimpton.

Daniel Morse, son of Samuel and Elizabeth was born 1613 and died June 5, 1688. He married Lydia (Fisher?) and resided at Dedham, Medfield, and Sherborn, Massachusetts. Lydia died Jan. 29, 1690. Their son, Nathaniel Morse, died October 11, 1728. He married Mary(?). Daniel's and Mary's daughter Ruth was born 1688 and married Ephriam Bullen, Jr., grandson of the immigrant Samuel Bullen. They lived in Sherborn, Massachusetts. Ruth Morse and Ephriam Bullen, Jr., were second cousins.

Samuel's and Elizabeth's daughter Mary who died in 1688 or 1692, was married to the immigrant Samuel Bullen who died in 1691 or 1692.

According to Abner Morse in "Memorial to the Morses" Samuel Morse belonged to that class of Puritans who strove to separate from the corruption of the English Church, yet continued in her communion until their embarkation for this country.

2. Anthony Morse

Another by the name of Morse connected with the Bullen Family was Hannah Morse who married Reverend Joseph Bullen, Jr. He was the fifth generation of Bullens in America. Hannah, the fifth Morse generation, was descended from Anthony Morse, and here is a brief account of him and his decendants.

Anthony Morse of Newbury, Massachusetts, was born at Marlboro, England, May 6, 1606. He and his brother William emigrated to this country and settled at Newbury, Massachusetts, in 1635. He died there October 12, 1686. He married (1) Mary Barnard. Later married (2) Ann Cox who died March 8, 1679. When Anthony and William embarked for America they were registered as "MORSS" and this spelling was adopted by a part of their descendants; while others spelled the name "Morse".

Benjamin Morse, son of Anthony and Mary Bernard Morse was born March 28, 1640. He married Ruth Sawyer August 26, 1667. She was born September 16, 1648. Benjamin was deacon at First Church of Newbury, Massachusetts. Instead of making a will he made a deed of gift to his son Philip with the stipulation that he should pay out certain sums to his sisters after his parents decease. This deed of gift was drawn November 22, 1707.

Benjamin Morse, Jr. (Third generation), son of Benjamin and Ruth Sawyer Morse, was born at Newbury, Mass., Aug. 24, 1668. He was a member of the Second Church which is now first Church of Newbury Port, Mass. He was married Jan. 28, 1691 to Susannah Merrill, daughter of Abel and Priscilla Chase Merrill. Susannah was born in 1673. Benjamin, Jr., died October 24, 1734.

Dr. Benjamin Morse, III, fourth generation, son of Benjamin and Susannah Merrill Morse, was born in Newbury, Massachusetts, March 25, 1716. He married Abigail Dudley, daughter of Samuel Dudley, Essex, May 25, 1735. Dr. Benjamin died April 2, 1776. He joined the Congregational Church in 1741 and was its seventh deacon in 1761. He was a very prominent man in town and was town clerk for several years.

A brief biographical sketch was published in the "Worcester Spy", May 10, 1776, dated April 6. "Last Thursday died Deacon Benjamin Morse, M.D., of this town in the sixtysecond year of his age. Very few persons have passed so many years with more reputation to himself and usefulness to others. His private and public conduct in life merits general applause. Sensible of the particular obligations resulting from private connections, he was led to show himself the kind husband, tender parent, obliging neighbor, social and sincere friend. He envinced his piety toward God, and benevolence to men, in action, the genuine offspring of these noble principles, well esteemed in the church of God, as a physician, eminent and useful.

For months a disorder of a nervous kind attended him; which he was convinced would close the scene of life. In much Christian patience and submission, he awaited the event. His removal is to the mourning family, town, and church a deep felt loss, though doubtless gain to him."

"Among God's saints he sang surprising Grace. Met death with joy and closed his eyes in peace".

"The memory of the just is blessed". - Solomon.

Hannah was the fifth generation. She was the third cousin of Samuel's grandfather, Jedediah Morse, fifth generation. Direct line.

4. Dudley

Sutton, Massachusetts.

Governor Thomas Dudley - b. 1576 - d. 1663. Second Colonial Governor of Massachusetts, born in Northampton, England. Emigrated to Massachusetts Bay Colony in 1630 as Deputy Governor under Winthrop, and was next to him probably the most influential man of the colony. Served thirteen years, four times as governor of the Colony 1634-1640, 1645-1650. He was chief founder of Newtown (Cambridge), active in founding Harvard College in 1636. Twice elected president of United Colonies of New England.

Thomas was the only son of Captain Roger Dudley and was a page in the household of the Earl of Northampton, married Dorothy Yorke, daughter of Lord Saye and Sele. Had five children. Was steward to the Earl of Lincoln. Came to Massachusetts in 1630 to Salem and later to Roxbury.

Joseph Dudley - b. 1647 - d. 1720, was the son of Gov. Thomas Dudley and was also Governor of Massachusetts 1702-1715. He was the seventh child of a father already seventy years old.

Francis Dudley, probably son of Joseph Dudley, supposed to have been descended from Gov. Thomas Dudley, was the ancestor of the Dudleys, of Sutton, Mass. Francis was born in England, emigrated to America and settled in Concord, Mass., about 1663. Married Oct. 26, 1665 to Sarah Wheeler of Concord who died Dec. 12, 1713.

Son Samuel Dudley - b. 1666 - d. 1775 (109 years old). m. Abigail King 1704. History of Sutton Pages 396-414-635-636.

Abigail Dudley who married Dr. Benjamin Morse was the mother of Hannah Morse who married Rev. Joseph Bullen. Abigail was the daughter of Samuel Dudley and Abigail King. Francis married Sarah Wheeler of Concord Oct. 26, 1665, who died Dec. 12, 1713.

In Sutton the name of Dudley (Samuel, son of Francis), appears upon the records May 26, 1726 as the purchaser of land from the proprietors and frequently after that date, as a purchaser of land. He also bought of individual owners, and in 1740 was one of the largest land owners in the town of Sutton. He was justice of the peace and evidently a man of prominence and influence. His age, 109 years at his death, is greater than has been attained by any resident of Sutton.

The Dudley farm is situated on the country road running from Milbury through Wilkinsonville. Samuel Dudley first settled there about 1725 and built a house upon the site of the present dwelling, and occupied until his death. Samuel Dudley was the forefather of the present Dudley family. His descendants have been remarkable for their honorable position in society.

"During the year 1716 three families were found with sufficient nerve and enterprise to pioneer the settlement of this town. These families were those of Benjamin Marsh, Elisha Johnson, and Nathaniel Johnson.

They built their cabins near the center of town and spent the winter there 1716-1717. It proved to be a trying winter for them. It was the winter made memorable by the deep snow, which fell the last of February and wholly covered the cabins." Some Families Associated With the Family of Bullen

"The next place was settled by Elder Benjamin Marsh, who came from Danvers and was one of the first settlers in the town.

This place was afterward owned by his son Benjamin March to whom it was given by the will of Elder Benjamin Marsh, made Dec. 3, 1762 and approved by Jedehiah Foster, Judge of Probate Dec. 4, 1775. Benjamin Marsh deeded it to his son Joshua, March 10, 1795. Joshua deeded it to his son Warren June 2, 1810. Joshua and Warren conveyed it by deed to Archelaus Putnam, etc.—etc."

"Benjamin Marsh was one of the first three who spent the winter 1716-1717 in Sutton. He does not seem to have occupied the place which has borne his name until 1719, from which circumstances it has been supposed by some that he was not a settler until that date. In the history of the home he occupied it is said that he came from Danvers in 1619 which is probably a mistake."

"Builders of the Bay Colony" by Morrison

In the spring of 1629 the New England Company obtained fresh blood, more money and a royal charter as the Massachusetts Bay Colony.

In that same spring it sent three hundred colonists to Salem in the "Tallbot", "The Lions Whelp", and the "George Bonaventure". The most interesting of the group were two ministers, Francis Higginson and Samuel Skeleton, who were to organize the first church in Salem, and in the colony. Both were graduates of the University of Cambridge. They separated themselves from the "corruption" of the Church of England and organized a Congregational Church in Salem. They were duly ordained by each other, and members of the covenant of thirty heads of families. Elders and deacons were elected and ordained Aug. 30, 1629.

Susanna Skeleton, daughter of Rev. Samuel Skeleton, was born in 1613-1614. She married John Marsh who sailed from England in 1633. Their son Zachery Marsh married Mary Sillsbee and were the parents of Benjamin Marsh who married Hannah King. Their daughter Mary Marsh married Joseph Bullen Jan. 4, 1739 (or 1740).

7. Ross

William Ross was born in Ireland of Scotch-Irish descent. He belonged to the Ross Clan who proudly wear their tartan of bright red background with black and other dark checks. The tartan is a cloth bearing a pattern of overlaid checks in several bright colors, which is called the sett. A plaid, actually, is the blanket like piece of tartan worn over the shoulder. The age and origin of tartans are not known, but they are several hundred years old.

William Ross was born in 1744 and died in Greene Co., Tenn., April, 1834. He married 1777, Jane Alison. He settled in Botetout County, Virginia and in 1778 he volunteered and served as teamster under Captain Roberson and Col. Skeeler in the Revoluntionary War. He drove his own wagon hauling for the army. He was at the Battle of Reedy Fork and Guilford, and served until after the surrender of Cornwallis, amounting to between two and three years.

He later moved to Greene County, Tennessee and settled on what is now the Kingsport road north of Greeneville. The brick house still stands on the left side of the road as you go to Kingsport, a few miles north of Greeneville.

He was buried in Mount Bethel Cemetery on Tusculum road, near Greeneville, Tenn., a Cumberland Presbyterian Church. The building was torn down several years ago and the members were absorbed by other churches.

9. Broyles

Isabel Broyles who married William Allen Lenning, Dec. 10, 1857, was one of the hundreds of descendants of John

Some Families Associated With the Family of Bullen

Broyles (Johanne Breil German Spelling) who brought his family to America from Germany about 1717. A study of the Broyles family history was made by Dr. Arthur Leslie Keith, also a descendant. It has not been published, but it was the writer's good fortune to have access to the twelve hundred typewritten page manuscript which is in the genealogical section of the Newberry Library in Chicago. It was easy to read and to locate almost anyone by the name of Broyles, or descended from the first Broyles family.

According to Dr. Keith, John Broyles was born in Germany about 1680 or 1685. He emigrated to Virginia in 1717. He died in 1734 in what is now Madison County, Virginia. He married (Ursula) in Germany who was living in 1738. Died before 1744.

Their Children.

- 1. Jacob Broyles
- 2. Conrad Broyles
- 3. John Broyles
- 4. Elizabeth Broyles
- 5. Catherine Broyles

Jacob was born in Germany about 1705 and was brought to Virginia in 1717. He died in present Madison County, Va., 1763.

Jacob Broyles married in 1727 to Catherine Fleishman called Catherine Brelin (feminine for Breil). They had twelve children - nine sons and three daughters. Of the nine sons six settled in East Tennessee. These six were Adam, Nicholas, Cyrus, Jacob, Michael, and Matthias.

Matthias, third generation in America, son of Jacob, son of John married Eva Klug about 1765. About 1780 he moved to Tennessee. He settled on the south side of Nolichucky River in Washington County. Eva Klug was the daughter of Rev. Klug (George Samuel).

In 1803 Matthias was appointed overseer of roads from County line of Washington County to Camp Creek. Soon after 1800 he went to Harrison County, Indiana where he lived for several years. He left Indiana for Tennessee, but never arrived. Tradition says he was killed by lightning as he was passing through Kentucky.

His son Matthias, Jr., lived in Rutherford County, Tenn. and settled his father's estate, consisting of cattle, slaves, notes and other personal property. Matthias, Sr. and Eva. Klug Broyles had nine children.

Simeon the fourth son of Matthias was born probably in the latter part of 1779. His age was given as between sixty and seventy in the 1840 census and as 70 in the 1850 census. He married Mary Fox in Greene County, Tennessee, April 6, 1801 (license) - with Ephraim Broyles (brother), signing with him. In 1806 he was on Horse Creek in Greene County, Tenn. but later went to Washington County. He made a will in Washington County, March 27, 1852, probated April 1, 1875. He mentions wife Mary Broyles, son Archibald Broyles, five daughters, and sons Jesse Broyles, Jefferson Broyles, and Jacob Broyles.

Jacob, son of Simeon and Mary Fox Broyles, was born Aug. 10, 1816. Died June 3, 1901 - married Elizabeth Anne Good in Greene Co., Tenn., Oct. 28, 1839. She was born June 8, 1821. d. Sept. 1905.

Their children were.

- Isabel Broyles, born Aug. 1, 1841 d. Jan. 26, 1924. Married William Allen Leming Dec. 10, 1857 - b. May 24, 1838 - d. April 1, 1900.
- 3. Newton Broyles b. (1850?) moved to Arkansas had daughters.

4. Sarah Broyles - b. 1854 - married Thomas Johnson -

Parents of Leslie and Edgar Johnson.

Jacob and wife Elizabeth Ann Good Broyles settled on a farm near Pisgah Methodist Church near the Nolachurky River in Greene County about four miles from Greeneville. The farm is still in the family, being owned by descendants of Sarah Broyles Johnson. The house was built about 1850 or 1852. The cedar trees in the yard were set by our grandmother Isabel Broyles when she was a little girl. Most of them are gone now.

Isabel in 1857 married William Allen Leming. They had nine children. Mary Ann, the oldest daughter, born Dec. 4, 1861, married John Gass Bullen, June 9, 1892.

Note - Dr. Arthur Leslie Keith

Dr. Arthur Leslie Keith of Vermillion, South Dakota worked on the Broyles genealogy for more than fifty years. He was born in Worthington, Indiana, April 25, 1874 and died suddenly in the University Club at Vermillion, South Dakota. He was graduated from University of Nebraska, and received his Doctorate from University of Chicago. He was for twenty years professor of Latin, Greek and the fine arts in the University of South Dakota.

After his death his manuscript on Broyles family along with two or three other families, was sent to the Geneological Section of the Newberry Library in Chicago.

The late Dr. Samuel H. Thompson of Washington, D. C., also had a copy and added much data to the original. After his death a copy was made by Miss Estelle Painter, R.F.D., Limestone, Tenn. Dr. Thompson's copy was sent to the library at the University of Kentucky.

10. Leming

An extensive study of the Leming Family History and Genealogy was made by the late Samuel K. Leming, Attorney at Law in Waldron, Arkansas. This was published in 1947, a copy of which is in the hands of the writer.

According to Mr. Leming the Leming name is of ancient origin, dating back to a place called Lymington (Lemmington), Southampton, England, which was a camp for Julius Caesar, 52 B.C. There were salt beds there 700 A.D. Salt was shipped from there as late as 1776. The place was mentioned in Domesday Book in 1086 as Lenturme and later as Liminton. It was later called Leinington and sometimes spelled Lemington. Numbers of places in England have names related to the name of Leming.

In America we find these names of places, Leaming, Cape May County, New Jersey, Leamington, Hunterdon County, New Jersey, Leming, Texas and Leamington, Ontario, Canada.

In Colchester, Essex, East England one coat of arms was found and traced to Yorkshire, others were found at Allerton, Yorkshire near Leeds. The coat of arms Leming, (Colchester), County Essex) and Yorkshire is that of William Leming, 1584 and refers to manuscript 1334 A.D. Mr. Leming gave sketchers of five coats of arms.

Description of William Lemings' coat of arms - Ermine, A cross potence - Az.

Tradition is that John Leming was a Baptist. The foregoing persons and Middletown were known to be Baptists (Stillwell's History and Genealogy - Miscellaneous and Edwin's Saltar's History of Monmouth and Ocean Counties).

John Leming was in court proceedings in 1683, and was sued by Mordecai Lincoln 1717 as John Limming. But in 1701 he signed a petition to the King as John Leming. He is supposed to have died about 1717. He married Prudence Wainwright.

Their children.

- 1. John Leming, Jr. (Limming, Leimin, Leming) will dated 1757 - Says he was seventy-one years old.
- 2. William Leming (Limming, Leimin, Leming) on record born about 1686.

William Leming (Limming) and descendants of Monmouth County, New Jersey and Tennessee - freeholders of land, upper Freehold, Monmouth County, New Jersey (Doctors Creek near Allentown). Will April 7, 1748 - office of Secretary of State, New Jersey. He was the first William in the United States, born about 1688, brother of John Leming, Jr. (Limming) Second. William married Deborah, maiden name thought to be Salter, although she may have been the daughter of Joseph Grover, who lived on land next to William's and was the granddaughter of William Lawrence - married about 1726.

Sons.

1. Daniel Leming (Limming, Lemon).

2. John Leming - Fourth to have land.

Daniel, son of William and Deborah was born about 1726 upper Freehold, Allentown, Monmouth County, New Jersey. He died about 1812 in Cocke County, East Tennessee. Daniel is supposed to have married Elizabeth(?) in New Jersey about 1759. Their sons were.

- 1. Thomas Leming, born about 1760 in New Jersey died in Cocke County, Tennessee, after 1814.
- 2. William Leming born about 1762 in New Jersey, was killed in the Battle of New Orleans Dec. 14, 1814.
- 3. Samuel Leming born about 1766 New Jersey died in Cocke County, Tennessee - 1839.

Daniel was named one of the administrators of his father's will April 7, 1748 in New Jersey as Daniel Leming together with his mother, Deborah Leming and John Cox. The will provided that the land be divided between Daniel and John Leming after the widow was through with it.

Daniel was taxed in 1758 in upper Freehold, Allentown, New Jersey on one hundred acres of land as Daniel Limming. He probably served in French and Indian War in 1758 under Major William McDonald in New Jersey Provincial Regiment at Fort Duquesne, Pa. and Quebec, Canada.

Daniel Leming clearly spelled and signed a petition, addressed to the General Assembly of North Carolina and transmitted through territorial Governor John Sevier, Dec. 1787, Pages 705 to 713, Volume XX, N. C. State Records.

Samuel Leming, son of Daniel, born in New Jersey about 1776 died in Cocke County, Tennessee in 1839. Samuel Lamon (Leming) married Mary Allen March 19, 1793, Washington County, Tennessee. U. S. Census 1840 - Mary Leming, head of family 60-70 years of age - one male - and two females in family, Greene County, Tennessee.

Daniel Leming, son of Samuel and Mary was born 1792 Cocke County, Tennessee and died in Greeneville, Greene County, Tennessee. Tombstone at Pisgah Methodist Church is marked Daniel Liming 1855. Daniel Leming - Margaret Kelly were m. Dec. 3, 1829 by Samuel W. Doak.

He moved to Indiana where his first wife died. She was Margaret Kelly, born June 19, 1807. Date was taken from her sampler which also says "Margret Kelly. Her Sampler made September 11, 1824". This is in the possession of your writer. He returned to Tennessee with his two children, William Allen and Mary Jane Leming. He later married Sarah Whittenburg May 31, 1849 - No. 1635 Book - Greene County, Tennessee.

William Allen, son of Daniel and Margaret Kelly Leming was born May 24, 1838 and died April 1, 1900. He was married Dec. 10, 1857 to Isabel Broyles, daughter of Jacob and Elizabeth Ann Good Broyles. Isabel was born August 1, 1841 and died January 26, 1924.

11. Good

Three brothers by the name of Good (Guth, German spelling) came to America from Switzerland near Germany many years before the Revolution. One stayed in Waynesboro, Pa., and the other two went west to Washington and Garrett Counties, in Maryland. Christian Guth (Good) settled near Liltersburg, Washington County, and it is thought that Jacob settled in Oakland in Garrett County, Md. There is a record of Hans Guth being m. Lancaster, Pa., no dates given. So far as could be ascertained these Goods are not connected with our family.

This came from the Newberry Library in Chicago, Ill.

According to Mrs. G. L. Hathorn of Star Route East, Blountville, Alabama the Goods connected with our family are of English origin. Mrs. Hathorn has made a study of the Good family and was kind enough to allow me to use her findings.

English records show that the family had a coat of arms in 1400. Sir Thomas Good is mentioned as a Royalist of Worcestshire, England and was in the service of King Charles. A volume in a British Museum names the Good family of Whitty and Whitstone in 1620, with a sketch of the family arms and pedigrees extending back eight generations from Richard Good.

Richard Good is thought to be the ancestor of our Good family in America, several generations removed from him. It is thought that the original seat of the Good family was Gloucestershire, England.

Richard Good of the first generation flourished about the middle of the fourteenth century, while Richard of the ninth generation was in 1560 - Richard of the eighth generation married Isabel Penkerville.

Most of the English Goods in the United States are descended from John Good, son of Richard of Cornwall, England. John Good, twenty-two years old, William Good, twenty-one years old and Henry Good, nineteen years old (brothers), embarked for Barbados on the ship "Expedition" at Graveside, England, November 1635. They were examined by the minister in regard to their conformity to the Church of England. (Hotton Emigrants) p. 138.

In Barbados John Good married Frances MacKarness and they had one son, Samuel. He and his wife Frances, son Samuel, and a serving maid came to America, reaching Virginia between 1650 and 1660. He was listed on the boat as John Good: Gentlemen.

His wife died and he later married Anne Bennett lately come from Holland. To them twelve children were born.

Samuel, son of John and Frances MacKarness Good was born about 1640 or 1645. He married Martha Jones.

Their son, General MacKarness Good of Charlotte County, Virginia, born probably 1690 - died probably 1770 - married Son David Good - b. 1740 (?), lived in York County, Pennsylvania in 1755 (first U. S. Census). He entered one hundred acres of land in Botetourt County, Virginia, in 1792.

10. Thomas Wilkerson Good - b. March 20, 1835.

The daughter, Elizabeth Ann Good, married Jacob Broyles Oct. 31, 1839.

David Good died March 27, 1854.

Sarah Hartsell Good died August 19, 1861.

David and Sarah are buried in Pisgah Methodist Church Cemetery about four miles from Greeneville, Tennessee, along with many of their descendants.

Jacob Broyles and Elizabeth Ann Good had four children their daughter, Isabel Broyles, was born Aug. 1, 1841. She married William Allen Leming - Dec. 10, 1857. They were the parents of Mary Ann Leming who married John Gass Bullen. All these are buried in Pisgah M. E. Church Cemetery near Greeneville, Tennessee.

It is believed that the families of David Good of English descent and Sarah Hartsell (Hertzele) of German descent met in York County, Pa. They moved from Pennsylvania across Maryland and to Botetourt County, Virginia. Then went to Washington County, Tenn. It is thought they married in Virginia. When they came to Tennessee they had seven children, Hannah 18, Jacob 16, David 13, Abram 11, Elizabeth Ann 8, John 6, and Elbert 1. Hartsell, Martha and Thomas W. were born probably in Washington County or Greene County, Tennessee.

David and Sarah Hartsell Good settled on Main St. in Greeneville in a house which stood on a lot next door to the home of Andrew Johnson. It is on record that Andrew Johnson bought on June 13, 1856 a small parcel of land from Hartsell Good (Deed Book 23, page 57), which was adjacent to the above described Lot No. 51, and faced along Main St.

This parcel sold to Andrew Johnson by Hartsell Good was half of a plot owned by the David Good heirs. The remaining half was later sold to Mr. D. T. Patterson, son-inlaw of Andrew Johnson. (Deed Book 36, page 454). This joined the homestead property owned by A. Johnson at that time. Mr. Patterson later resold to Washington A. Lamons (Deed Book 38, page 34). In July 1905, Mr. A. J. Patterson, grandson of A. Johnson, bought this plot on which the Good home stood and it now belongs to the Federal Government, which holds the Johnson homestead as part of the Andrew Johnson Monument.

The David Good home which stood flush with the street until 1905 was moved to the back of the plot. It was later torn down.
